Heart Attack Kills Vishinsky

Russia's Chief UN Delegate Dies in New York at 70

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Andrei Yanuarievitch Vishinsky, the once obscure Russian lawyer who became a foremost mouthpiece for the Soviet Union, died today.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister, Moscow's chief delegate to the United Nations, would have been 71 years old Dec. 10.

Eelco Van Kleffens of the Netherlands, president of the United Nations, announced the diplomat died of a heart attack. In bad health for several years, Vishinsky remained in the thick of diplomatic storms here to the end.

All UN meetings were suspended for the day.

Vishinsky collapsed and died early this morning at Soviet delegation headquarters on Park Ave.

First word that Vishinsky was ill came with an announcement to the political committee by A. A. Sobolev of the Soviet delegation that the Soviet delegate was indisposed. Then came the news of the death.

GRAIN RATE SUBSIDY?

Railmen Get Some 'Fringe'

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's arbitrator in the railway-union contract dispute today awarded non-operating employees an estimated $7,000,000 a year in fringe benefits and simultaneously recommended a federal subsidy for the companies.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia suggested the subsidy to compensate for the low Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain in western Canada, which he held partially responsible for the current "serious decline" in rail revenues.

His contract findings are binding on the disputants, but his subsidy reference has no force beyond that of an opinion. His terms of reference did not specify he was to suggest how the cost of fringe benefits be raised.

Mr. Justice Sloan, appointed by the government to settle contract terms after 145,000 non-operating employees threatened a general strike over their deadlocked dispute, made these awards:

1. Five statutory holidays with pay each year, at an estimated cost of $4,281,000. The unions had asked for eight.

2. Lengthening of annual paid vacations for long-term employees, to cost an estimated $2,650,000.

He granted no award on employee requests for 18-days-a-year sick leave with pay, cumulative from year to year, and for higher overtime pay for Sunday work.

NOT RETROACTIVE

He also denied the unions' request for retroactivity in his findings, declaring them effective from Jan. 1, 1955. The railway union contracts ran out last Dec. 1.

In monetary terms, the arbitrator's award represented but a fraction of the original demands of the non-operating unions. The unions themselves estimated the full annual cost at $34,000,000, while the railways contended they would run to around $60,000,000.

In proposing a subsidy to counteract the sub-normal grain rates, Chief Justice Sloan did not specify any amount.

He said it is his opinion that "some fair share at least of this (grain rates) burden should be shouldered by the people of Canada from the national treasury."

3 Fatal B.C. Accidents Mar Week-End

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Three fatal accidents were recorded in British Columbia during the week-end, including two traffic fatalities and a drowning.

The deaths of Richard Kitta, 92, and Peter Zacher, 28, brought Vancouver's traffic toll for the year to 25.

Kitta was found dead on arrival at hospital in Vancouver Saturday night after being struck by a car driven by Russell A. Campbell, 22.

Zacher died in the St. Paul's Hospital of injuries received Friday when the motorcycle he was riding struck a tree at the entrance to Stanley Park and spun out of control.

John Couch, 40, of Harrison Mills, drowned Sunday in the Harrison River.

Planner

Regional planner, who has prepared 60-page report on future development of southern tip of Vancouver Island, is James W. Wilson, loaned to the Capital Region Planning Board by Lower Mainland Board, which employs him as executive director. Permanent offices for Capital Region Board are to be established soon in B.C. Land Building, 918 Government St.

Chairman

Newly-elected chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board is Maj. H. Cuthbert Holmes, prominent realtor, who represents Victoria on the five-member panel. He succeeds F. W. Nicolls as board chairman. Mr. Nicolls is appointee of provincial government. Other members are Clr. S. P. Birley, Oak Bay; Clr. J. E. Carey, Esquimalt, and Mrs. Grace Shaw, Saanich.

Major Report Sees Problems Ahead For Capital Area

Greater Victoria can expect its population to be doubled in the next 25 years and at the end of that period the Municipality of Saanich will probably have more residents than the city.

This is the view of J. W. Wilson, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, who recently completed a fact-finding survey of the lower island area for the Capital Region Planning Board. His findings and forecasts of things to come are contained in a 60-page report titled "The Capital Region Takes Stock."

Present population of the capital region, says Mr. Wilson, is around 123,000. In 1981, he predicts, this figure will be up to 206,000.

Victoria, he says, now having 53,500 residents, will have 72,000; Saanich, now with 32,500, will have 74,000; Oak Bay, now with 13,100, will have 19,200; Esquimalt, with 10,600, can expect 14,000. Central Saanich is expected to triple its population, from the present 2,200 to about 7,000.

Unorganized territory, including Sidney, which now has a population of some 11,100, will have about 23,000.

Bulk of new residential development, says Mr. Wilson, will take place in Saanich since other municipalities have only a limited amount of space available.

One-Third Live in Apartments

Proportion of people living in apartments has been increasing steadily for 30 years, Mr. Wilson notes. In 1921 only 2 per cent of Victoria's families lived in apartments. In 1951, 31 per cent did.

More and more apartments will be built on unused lots and sites where old homes now stand, the planner believes. Apartment growth will cause increased loads on water mains, sewers and drains.

The anticipated growth in population will have to be supported chiefly by what industries already exist, he suggests.

The report shows about 48,000 persons, 39 per cent of the population, gainfully employed in the spring of this year, and focuses attention on the fact that one out of every four was employed by some branch of either federal or provincial governments.

Government work will continue to provide the bulk of the jobs, the report suggests.

"Barring any major changes in administrative policy by either government, the federal and provincial civil service will provide an expanding source of employment," Mr. Wilson maintains.

Tourist trade, long regarded as an industry here, will require special attention if it is to continue its upward trend, he says. Competition is growing in this field and Mexico is pulling many U.S. vacationers away from Canada.

Future of Industry Outlined

Future of s hipbuilding, Mr. Wilson concedes, will continue to depend largely on government work and will operate in close association with the naval dockyard.

Agriculture in the region is in "quite a favorable position," according to the report, but other industries can only be expected if some of their special needs can be supplied which other areas cannot satisfy.

Ordinary industries face two serious handicaps in locating here (a) a relatively small and isolated local market (b) transportation costs and time losses in relation to the mainland, he says.

The report considers the possibility of encouraging the use of some mineral resources in the region. It suggests attention might be given to quarrying black marble to be found at Sooke; using shale on Salt Spring Island in the production of light-weight concrete; utilizing slag from the former smelters at Crofton and Ladysmith for making mineral wool insulation.

In discussing residential development in Greater Victoria's fringe area, Mr. Wilson decries the lack of planning evident so far, and calls for immediate control. He points out that in one fringe district, land has been chopped into about 1,200 lots of less than half an acre, the total area of the lots plus access roads being only about 250 acres. These, says the author, have been scattered wantonly over about 2,500 acres—10 times their own area. Only about a quarter of the lots have been sold.

'Fringe Area' Development Hit

The report suggests indiscriminate development of this nature is uneconomic for the householder who finds the initial promise of rural conditions and low taxes is only temporary. The report predicts that if this indiscriminate pattern continues the whole of the region will be covered by a suburban rash in 20 years.

If this happens, the report says, the natural beauty and recreational value of the region will be spoiled forever.

"This is the case against urban sprawl," the planner submits. "It is short-sighted, socially inadequate and costly to the residents individually and to the municipality as a whole. It is the way to bankruptcy or the suburban slum. In any situation it is foolish and lamentable, in the capital region it would be disastrous."

"This region cannot afford a binge on the fringe. There just isn't enough fringe."

In developing for future population, Mr. Wilson says, consideration should be given to soil quality, land subdivision and main roads and water supplies.

In general, he says, poor soil areas should be sought for development so as to save really productive land for agricultural purposes.

Flooding Danger Pointed Out

Mr. Wilson warns against permitting residential development in areas subject to flooding. He notes there are a number of such places, especially in Saanich.

He suggests, however, that some of these could be reclaimed by the "sanitary fill" method of garbage disposal, such as was suggested by city council's public works committee earlier this year for Baker brickyard property.

"Many low-cost sites for industrial use, parks and other public purposes have been obtained by this method," Mr. Wilson says.

On the question of water supply, Mr. Wilson says there is no problem in the metropolitan area since plans are already made for keeping ahead of future demand. Similarly, there is no possibility of a power shortage. The submarine cable to be laid in 1956 between the Island and the mainland will

City Men Meet CPR Officials

Chamber of Commerce and city officials are pressing for improved CPR service from Victoria to the mainland, while CPR top brass say nothing can be done economically. In discussion today on the subject were, left to right, CPR vice-president William Manson, Vancouver; senior vice-president; N. R. Crump, Montreal; Ald. Arthur Dowell of the city harbor committee and chamber president Stuart Keate.

Present Boat Service Stays 'For Now and Next Summer'

While the B.C. Coast service is causing the CPR "a great deal of concern" at present, there is no plan to curtail the Victoria-Vancouver boat service being considered by the company, N. R. Crump, Montreal, senior vice-president, said here today.

He made his disclosure at a special meeting of CPR officials and a Victoria Chamber of Commerce committee, perturbed about reports last week that such a move was being considered.

Mr. Crump called it a "misunderstanding," and said what happened was he had said the company was merely looking into operations of the service, "as we do in all operations from time to time."

He disclosed that a researcher from Montreal had just completed a two-month survey of the situation, and more information would be available when his report was compiled.

Vice-president William Manson, Vancouver, said there would be no curtailment of the present Victoria-Vancouver service as it exists either now or "next summer."

However, H. C. James, general passenger agent, Vancouver, hinted that the company was anticipating dropping the Sidney-Vancouver run. He indicated "perhaps" there would be a change there.

In presenting the chamber's side of the picture, president Stuart Keate said the company had a "moral obligation" to provide adequate service and that while the population of Greater Victoria had increased to 123,000 persons—more than half the Island's population—"there has been a progressive deterioration in CPR boat service."

He said the chamber was "surprised" that the company had allowed this and said it resulted, in part, from CPR "lack of imagination, foresight and aggressive business policy."

An entire new approach to the problem was necessary, he said.

"Are we to be written off in favor of the shorter Nanaimo route?" he asked.

Boat service cost today on a coparative basis was $3.25 to $1.00 in 1939, thus there had to be "a different conception entirely" from pre-war service, said Mr. Crump.

While Alderman Arthur Dowell said the city had given "tremendous concession" over the years to the CPR, Mr. Crump said BCCS employees spent $2,500,000 yearly in wages and supplies here.

The chamber also brought up its recommendation that a fast ferry service be started from the Saanich peninsula to Vancouver. Mr. James pointed out that this was not feasible, because it would interfere with the company's triangle run which "is much more important. No company could afford the two routes, nor could they compete."

Trumpeter Swan Shot on Island

Near-Extinct Water Fowl Killed While Resting at Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER—A hunter who shot a trumpeter swan near here is highly unpopular and came close to having a good duck-hunting area closed to all nimrods.

The swan, member of an almost extinct species, had come to winter beside the barn of a farm near Camp Three.

The farmer, recognizing the rare bird, asked all hunters to spare it.

One huntsman, however, could not resist the target, and killed it while it sat motionless. The farmer, angered at the shooting, closed his land to all hunters.

Game Warden Rex Hayes prevailed upon the farmer to reopen hunting on his land for the remainder of the season.

Trumpeter swans, one of the world's rarest wild fowl, are reported on the increase after near extinction.

In 1935 there were some 73 and fear was expressed that trumpeters in the United States the graceful snow-white creature with the melodious call was gone forever. However, in 1952 the Fish and Wildlife Service reported that the numbers of the rare bird had increased to 571.

In the same year the beautiful birds wintered in Victoria waters in the largest number in recent history. At that time Dr. Clifford Carl, curator of the provincial museum, emphasized the survival of the trumpeter was still a touch and go matter, that a sudden change in the narrow pattern of safety they have won could still wipe them out.

Maximum fine under the federal Migratory Game Bird Act for shooting a trumpeter swan is $1,000.

Cracked Freighter Reaches P. Rupert

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — The cracked freighter P and T Trader reached haven here today after limping shoreward since she was damaged in an ocean storm last Wednesday.

The Trader, which split across the deck and down the port side, was escorted to this northern port by the coast guard cutter Klamath, and for the past two days by the tug Salvage Chief of Astoria, Ore.

The Pope and Talbot freighter, with a crew of 48 men, was inbound in ballast from Yaquina Bay, Ore., when the crack developed about 800 miles offshore. After emergency repairs, the Trader altered course northward to favor the weakened side.

Prince Rupert is about 350 miles north of Vancouver.

The passengers were driven to a hotel. They will make another attempt on a later flight.

Yoshida Faces Mass Revolt in Japanese Diet

TOKYO (AP) — Thirty-three members of the Japanese Diet bolted Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's Liberal party today and a cabinet minister quit his post in a mounting drive to pressure the old prime minister to retire.

Masazumi Ando, who angrily resigned as minister of state in Yoshida's cabinet, and nine other Liberals anounced they would formally quit the government party Tuesday.

The mass bolt could mean that party leaders had failed in efforts to persuade the 76-year-old premier to step down in the interest of maintaining unity.

2 Cases of Murder Suicide Reported

TORONTO (CP)—Two cases that police termed murder and suicides were reported in Toronto during the week-end.

Saturday night, police said, Otakar Buben strangled his six-year-old daughter and then hanged himself. Police declined to discuss details of the case.

Early Sunday, the bodies of R. Kersey and Merle Hibbs, about 31, were found lying beside a car parked on a north end residential street. Police said Kersey apparently shot the woman and then turned the gun on himself. The pistol was found lying on the man's chest.

Planning Area Enlargement Wilson's Aim

Recommendation that the provincial cabinet enlarge the area presently constituted for Capital Region planning is contained in a 60-page report just delivered to the Capital Region Planning Board by consulting engineer J. W. Wilson, of Vancouver.

"The Capital Region as now defined by law is not a logical planning area," he says.

At present its boundary extends only as far as Thetis Lake. Mr. Wilson says it should be pushed to include the Highlands district of Saanich Peninsula and the Sooke-Metchosin areas as well.

Commissioned to make a study of the region as designated by the minister of municipal affairs in 1951, Mr. Wilson submitted his report on the entire southern Island area, stretching east to Sooke and lying south of the E & N Railway land grant.

He said the larger area should be considered as a whole since it contains almost all the land suitable for development and is fairly well defined geographically by mountains and sea.

It consists of two interdependent parts, he says, a rural hinterland, which supplied produce and opportunities for outdoor recreation, and metropolitan centre for urban living.

It is further consolidated, the engineer contends, since it is served by a common network of roads, power and telephone lines, and, to a large extent, water supply mains.

Murder, Suicide In Mother, Son Deaths in Que.

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police Friday night described as murder and suicide the deaths of Mrs. Adrien Tessier, 34, and her son, Richard, 3, whose charred and decomposed bodies were found near Sherbrooke, Que.

Lieut. Maurice Valiquette said positive identification had been made from the remains and personal effects found on the scene. The mother and son disappeared July 27 and were the objects of a widespread search last month.

Gulf Ship Service Becoming Outmoded

Capital Region Engineer Forecasts New Competition From Helicopters

Support to the CPR's claim that some curtailment in direct steamship service to Victoria may have to be made is lent by a report made public today by the Capital Region Planning Board.

The report, prepared by J. W. Wilson, consultant engineer, says that so far as Victoria is concerned "the passenger steamship is apparently being rapidly outmoded by faster alternative methods fo travel."

Nanaimo, he says, has become the transportation and distribution centre for Vancouver Island. Improvement to the Island Highway, he maintains, "makes it inevitable that more and more Victoria-bound traffic will pass through Nanaimo.

"This will apply not only to commercial and some tourist traffic," Mr. Wilson states, "but also to light and perishable freight which now travels speedily and without any intermediate handling from Vancouver to Victoria by truck."

The only kind of traffic not likely to be affected by Nanaimo's development is that involving short-term, individual trips which do not require the use of a car, between Vancouver and Victoria. But this traffic, Mr. Wilson concedes, is increasingly going to airplanes.

"When the helicopter comes into large-scale operation," he continues, "the inducement to travel by air will be a great deal stronger."

Perfect Setting

Mr. Wilson, in his report titled "The Capital Region Takes Stock," devotes considerable attention to the advent of the helicopter since he considers the Victoria-Vancouver and Victoria-Seattle runs "a perfect setting for the helicopter."

He advocates the Capital Region Planning Board, in collaboration with the federal department of transport, undertake a survey of Greater Victoria for suitable helicopter sites. These sites, he says, should be at least five acres in area and should be selected in relation to 1, clear approach paths; 2, good access roads; and 3, protection of surrounding areas from noise.

Representations will have to be made to the Minister of Transport regarding the acquisition and development of these sites, the report states.

Without pin-pointing any area, Mr. Wilson suggests "a location in an industrial district on the edge of the downtown area might be best, and the harbor area, which offers approaches over the water, should be given special scrutiny."

Undeveloped industrial property on the west side of the inner harbor, beyond Johnson Street Bridge, would fall into this category.

No New Airfield

Advent of the helicopter as a principal means of transportation from Victoria will probably eliminate the necessity of providing another full-scale airfield in the foreseeable future, Mr. Wilson states.

Such a project would have to be undertaken if in the future the city was to be served only by conventional-type aircraft, he mainstains.

Number of passengers flying from Patricia Bay has been doubled in the last seven years, he points out. He estimates that by 1961 this volume will be about two and a half times the 1953 figure.

"And although it is extremely hazardous to project more than a few years ahead, a continuation of the same trend would result in traffic in 1971 being eight times the 1953 figure."

Charter flights alone, he suggests, would require the full attention of the control tower by 1968.

"Since, however, both local and military flying would also make demands on the tower, it is obvious that there would be control difficulties before that time, possibly by about 1965."

In such circumstances a second field would be required, probably for exhaustive use of local flying.

Cut Flight Time

Helicopter service will probably cut one hour off the time it takes to go from Victoria to Vancouver, Mr. Wilson suggests.

"At present the air journey takes two hours from centre to centre, but one and one-half hours are taken up by limousine journeys at either end."

A helicopter traveling at an average speed of 100 miles per hour could complete the 60-mile journey from centre to centre in 35 minutes.

Concerning cost, Mr. Wilson states: "It appears the cost of helicopter travel will, in the first place at least, be somewhat higher than conventional air fares, but if allowance is made for the cost of limousine journeys, helicopter fares could be increased 40 per cent between Victoria and Vancouver without addition to the traveler's total cost.

A clear area at least 450 feet long and 300 feet wide is necessary for a helicopter field. This will allow for landings and takeoffs, loading, parking of helicopters, servicing and fueling. Extra ground would be required for parking cars.

Wharfage Adequate

Turning to shipping, Mr. Wilson concludes that since the outlook for the region's lumber industry is considered reasonably good, prospects for deep-sea shipping also seem fairly bright.

He sees no need for additional docks either in the inner or outer harbors.

Railway facilities, which are used chiefly by the lumber industry, are considered adequate, and no great change in the amount of rail movement in or out of the city is anticipated.

'Terrible Twins'

Focusing his attention on automobile traffic, Mr. Wilson warns that downtown congestion is going to be a major problem for the city.

Traffic and parking problems, which the author describes as "the terrible twins of modern cities," are relatively mild as yet, Mr. Wilson says. The situation will be aggravated, however, by the relatively large population increases that are expected, and increased car ownership.

The report claims downtown traffic has been increasing at the rate of 10 per cent per year, suggesting that present traffic will be doubled in another seven and a half years.

Some relief may be provided, the report suggests, by changing the highway system far from the centre of town. It is therefore necessary, Mr. Wilson says, for the problem to be treated as regional rather than local.

'Remember Tonypandy?' . . . 10 Won't Sign for Winnie

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill's birthday autograph book from the House of Commons will be shy at least 10 names, a Labor MP says.

Mrs. Bessie Braddock, the outspoken member of Liverpool's Exchange constituency, said Sunday night in a speech "there are at least 10 of us . . . who are not having our names handed down to posterity tacked on to the end of Winston Churchill's name.

"There are 10 of us at any rate who remember Tonypandy and some of the other things that Winston Churchill did."

The autograph book has been prepared by the Commons as a gift for Sir Winston, who celebrates his 80th birthday Nov. 30. His 624 colleagues of all parties were to have signed, and most have.

Tonypandy in South Wales was the scene in 1910 of riots during a coal strike. Troops were sent in, and Churchill, then home secretary, sent in several hundred extra police from London.

KIDNEY GERMS May Keep You On The Run

Are you embarrassed and worried by too frequent Kidney action during the day and night? This symptom as well as burning, itching passages, Backache, Strong Cloudy Urine, pressure over the Bladder, and Rheumatic Pains, may be due to Kidney and Bladder irritation. French-Fried Flying Saucers Have Hot Lips, Belles Report

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS — Flying saucers and cigars piloted by Martians are showing a definite predilection for "la belle France."

Within the last few months Frenchmen all over the country have lived in the hope of seeing and meeting either or both. People quiver with delicious apprehension at the thought suddenly they may find themselves face to face with one of these strange beings from another planet, whether Mars, Venus or Uranus.

"Collective hallucination" is the conclusion which serious-minded Frenchmen have arrived at. It has the merit of casting no aspersions on the good faith of their compatriots.

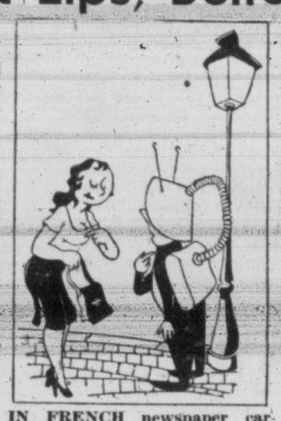
The postwar popularity of science fiction, the Technicolor movie "The War of the Planets" released in France early this year, plus optical illusions, can well be responsible for all these incidents, say the scientists. They point out that the "apparitions" have occurred mainly in those provinces were the film has been shown.

ANOTHER PROBLEM

But apparently there is yet another problem. "Why is it," asks Samedi-Soir, "that the first flying saucers were initially seen in the U.S.A., then the epidemic invaded Europe, particularly France? Why is it that in the U.S.A. a Martian has never set foot on the ground and that several have been reported outside their space ships in this country?"

Fifty-eight-year-old Antoine Mazaud, who farms in the Correze, some 350 miles south of Paris, is the first and, so far, only Frenchman who boasts of having been bussed by a Martian. His experience, which happened early in September, is the following:

Returning home at nightfall after a hard day in the fields, Antoine took his usual short cut when suddenly a few feet ahead he sighted a strange figure.



IN FRENCH newspaper cartoon, man from Mars meets girl on Paris street. Says she: "Me? I'm from Venus."

A tough guy, over six feet tall, Mazaud had never been afraid of anything, yet suddenly he was stricken with untold terror. Some instinct warned him that the being was more than strange. He could not distinguish his features because he wore a helmet with a kind of visor such as motor cyclists wear.

About five feet high, the figure swayed slightly from side to side. Mazaud gripped his pitchfork tightly, ready to defend himself. But the figure advanced a few steps, silently seized the farmer's hand in a tight clasp, then kissed him. Before he had time to recover his senses, the Martian was already walking away.

NO TRACE

Mazaud shook himself and made for his farm as fast as his legs could carry him. But he had barely gone 10 yards when he saw the "thing." There it was, some 30 feet ahead, an elongated, glittering machine, about 15 feet long. It took off with a faint, rustling noise, slowly gaining altitude.

Mazaud recounted his terrifying experience to his wife and son. Soon the whole village heard about it. The authorities sent investigators. But no trace of Martian or his machine could be found. But to the whole countryside, the mysterious apparition could only be one of those mysterious inter-planetary visitors.

About the same time, 35-year-old Marius Dewilde, steel worker in Northern France, was quietly reading a magazine in his kitchen. It was 10.45 p.m. Suddenly his dog Kiki started barking vehemently, as though strangers were trying to penetrate the front yard.

Seizing his flashlight, Marius went outside to investigate. Beyond the paling which separated his garden from the railroad track, he saw something which looked like an abandoned peasant's cart. Thought Marius: "I must warn the stationmaster."

But Kiki was still barking, and when Marius turned his light, he saw two figures about three-feet tall. Marius declared they wore a diver's suit and that their helmets gave out an unearthly metallic reflection. Running towards the strangers, Marius then saw a square window open silently and a green ray beamed at him. This paralyzed him momentarily.

When he recovered the use of his legs and made for the machine, it rose gently from the ground with a soft whistling noise, belching thick black smoke. Bell-shaped, it swayed gently as it gained altitude, took on a bright orange-red color and disappeared westward.

The only signs which investigators could find were a few scratches on the rails. They concluded that "only a machine landing on crutches could have made them."

French meteorologists admit that at least two of their implements might be responsible for the delusions of the uninitiated—test balloons and "nephoscopic" searchlights, which project moving and often unaccountable spots on clouds.

Then there are such things as comets, shooting stars, meteorites, halos, planets, the reflection of powerful automobile headlights on clouds—and finally, electrostatic phenomena in ionized atmosphere, invisible to the naked eye but detectable on radar screens.

Despite these explanations, the mystery of flying saucers and other space ships remains as much a mystery to France as it was to America.

Today's a Whale Of a Day in Pugwash, N.S.

PUGWASR, N.S. (BUP) — It's a big day in Pugwash today. This is the day they cut up the Whale.

The 40-ton fish drew thousands of Maritimers to this little community over the week-end after it became stranded on a sandbar in the harbor.

The whale took leave of the world on Saturday afternoon and Pugwash didn't waste any time. A tractor pulled it onto the beach and plans were made to salvage the meat and blubber. The meat will be used by mink and fox breeders.

Meanwhile extra police were on hand to take care of the happy throngs who showed up for the carving.

Brother Andre's Beatification Near

MONTREAL (BUP)—Beatification of Brother Andre by the Roman Catholic Church appeared a step closer today after the Papal envoy to Canada paid tribute to the little man who founded Montreal's famous St. Joseph's shrine atop Mount Royal.

Msgr. Giovanni Panico, apostolic delegate to Canada, expressed the hope that beatification of Brother Andre would not be long delayed as he spoke at the conclusion of three-day ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of the shrine's establishment.

Beatification is a step midway to canonization as a saint of the Roman Catholic Church.

COOK SAYS CHURCHILL ON A DIET

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill was reported today to be dieting.

The news came out this way: Arthur Lubin, an American movie director, rented an apartment from Air Chief Marshal Sir Ralph Cochrane.

"Lady Cochrane has been wonderful," said Lubin. "She suggested I try Sir Winston Churchill's cook. When the cook came around, I asked her how she could cope with both me and the prime minister and she said.

"'That's easy now. Sir Winston's on a diet.'"

Convict Says He Escaped To Kill Wife

VANCOUVER (CP)—A former air force officer told police today a British Columbia penitentiary escapee, Robert Bates, held a knife at his throat Sunday and told him he was en route to Winnipeg to "finish off" his wife.

Ken Morton, provincial registrar of voters, told officers he surprised Bates, 26, in an unoccupied house in suburban Burnaby. Morton suffered a gash on the forehead in an unsuccessful escape attempt.

He said he walked in on Bates in a house he is converting to apartments.

"I went through a doorway looking towards the floor and there was a pair of feet in front of me. I looked up to see a man pointing a knife at my belly.

"Before I could move, he ordered me to get my hands up before I got killed." Bates had apparently spent the week-end in the house since escaping from a work party outside the walls of the penitentiary Saturday.

"I decided to make a run for it," Morton said.

KNIFE AT THROAT

He told police he slipped on wet sawdust and fell, blacking out for a moment. "When I came to, he was on top of me, holding me down and had a razor-edged clasp knife of mine pressing against my throat.

"The guy stood six feet and I'm only five-foot-four. So even without the knife, I wouldn't have had much chance in a fight.

"He jabbed the knife against my back and ordered me to drive him into Vancouver.

"On the way downtown, I tried to talk him into surrendering, but he said the only reason he broke out was to go and finish off his wife in Winnipeg.

"He asid she had put his child into a home and he was going to get her for it."

As soon as Bates left his car, Morton said, he telephoned police.

A Mountain of Butter

DURING THE FOOT-AND-mouth epidemic, when Canadian cattle were barred from the United States, the Canadian Government found itself with a vast accumulation of beef and pork, bought from the farmers, and finally sold for the most part to foreign nations at cut-rate prices.

Today the Government sits atop a mountain of butter—some 80,000,000 pounds, or over five pounds for every man, woman and child in the country.

This butter was bought by the Government from the dairy farmers not because they faced any emergency like the foot-and-mouth epidemic, but solely because the Government wished to prevent a serious drop in butter prices. It hoped to buy up the surplus in times of high production and sell it to Canadian consumers at stable prices when the supply fell.

But things apparently have not worked out that way. The Government has continued to buy heavily from the farmers while selling relatively little to the consumers. The butter price has remained high, the farmers have been protected from a reduction in income but the butter surplus has grown alarmingly.

Why, it may be asked, doesn't the Government unload its mountain of butter by selling it in the market for any price it will bring? If the Government did that, and sold below its buying price, then it would simply be subsidizing the farmers out of the public treasury. As it is, the Government hopes, some day, to sell its butter without any loss. In other words it is acting as a kind of banker to the farmers and holding the price steady.

If the present problem works out in that fashion perhaps there will be no great reason to complain. But will it work out that way? Is the Government not likely to find itself, at the present rate, in the same dilemma which cost the treasury huge sums in the case of meat? May it not have to unload its butter, in Canada or in foreign countries, at a heavy loss?

Anyway, is it wise to maintain the present butter price? Clearly the hard-pressed housewives of Canada are determined not to buy any more butter at this price than they can help. They naturally buy cheaper margarine instead. And the higher butter prices go the less butter will be sold. Whereas even a small drop in butter prices should greatly increase sales for the benefit of the farmers.

Of course the farmers hope that any drop in price can be avoided, and it has been avoided—within fairly narrow limits anyway—by the Government's purchase of butter on a huge scale. But how long can the Government afford to go on buying butter that it cannot sell? How long will Parliament vote the necessary money?

Undoubtedly the Canadian people are prepared to support farm prices, in times of sudden fluctuation, within their means, even if it involves in effect lending the farmers money and also paying relatively high prices as consumers. There is a limit, however, to these measures, both in good economics and in practical politics. The wise farmer will see the danger of pressing his demands too far, especially when the consumer does not have to buy butter at all.

Lessons in Risks With a Gun

EACH YEAR'S HUNTING SEASON writes its own chapters of tragedy. Fatalities occur often among those who are presumed to understand firearms and the strict code of safety that must be observed in the woods. On other occasions deaths and woundings are the result of sheer ignorance.

Unless some definite action is taken, the toll of the hunting season may easily become much higher. At one time residents of this community, then much closer to pioneer days, learned gun handling and woodlore from fathers, older brothers or close friends. They took to the game trails with a deep respect for the weapons they carried and with a fair asurance that they would not run into an army of hunters when they entered the bush.

The increase in urban population has changed that picture. Young Canadians living here frequently have inadequate training in the use of guns, in the courtesies and safeguards of hunting and in general woodcraft.

Each year hundreds of youths and young men go hunting without that fine edge of caution which was a natural characteristic of earlier generations. Lacking a full appreciation of the dangers they run themselves and the dangers they pose for other hunters, they are ill-equipped for the sport in which they engage.

The risks of hunting are recognized throughout the continent. National magazines and other media have tried to bring home the sport's dangers. Conceivably some good has been done.

Locally the South Vancouver Island Rangers Inc. have advanced a step further in their efforts to reduce hunting hazards. They are now studying ways of bringing safety lessons to all Canadian children—to warn them, to instruct them and to create in them safety consciousness wherever they take to the woods. At present the Rangers' plan centres on a schoolroom approach. They would emphasize safety precautions immediately before the hunting season opened and again before the students left class for the long vacation.

While the plan has yet to be put into final form, it has received encouraging support. Its operation would not eliminate all hunting accidents. It should, on the other hand, at least make young hunters conscious of safeguards essential both to themselves and to those who share the woods with them at a time when far too much carelessness is claiming too many lives.

Britain and the Color Issue

OVER THE YEARS BRITAIN has established a proud tradition of asylum. Political and racial minorities have found there a haven from persecution in their own lands. The door has been open to the alien who believed discrimination was practiced against him at home.

Now Britain has a color problem. Antipathy is growing against the number of West Indians who are flowing into that country in an unending stream. British theories of racial equality under the democratic processes are coming hard against the practicalities.

Mounting objection to the people from the West Indies seems to rest on common bases. They are entering the country in such numbers that they are aggravating employment problems. Because they are accustomed to a lower standard of living than are the people of Britain, they are comfortable enough under conditions intolerable to the Britisher for whose job they frequently compete.

There is a moral here for such countries as Canada. Phrased softly, it is that racial tolerance is a simple issue for any nation which has no race problem. The difficulties arise when theories are replaced by hard, physical facts.

A Bee in the Bouquet

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

I WAS talking on Friday about Edward Crankshaw's novel, "The Creedy Case," and I meant to quote you two or three passages, to tantalize you into finding a copy. Take, for example, this. The wife Lucy is talking to her old friend and honorary uncle Peter about her husband George: "I'm in the mood to scream and throw things. And you're the only person who can stop me." Peter said: "If it's as bad as that you might do worse than throw things. It might shock George into a little sense." "That's all you know!" she retorted. "Dont you know what happens when you throw things at people when they're high-minded? They think it's nerves and help to clear up the mess . . . and go on being high-minded."

Brock

Or take this. The husband George is being highly impractical and absurd about his wonderful conscience with every promise of wrecking his career and his marriage. His father says "Why is it that whenever people get religion or start going in for the higher life they invariably begin by torturing their families?"

I MEANT to say something else on Friday. The action of this novel takes place, chiefly, in domestic scenes between Lucy, George, Peter and George's father. But the conflict arises out of George's job, which is at the War Office, in wartime. Because of his egocentric conscience, George is quite willing to chuck up his job and the war and go to the Tower of London, if need be. (And as his father, an old general, points out, "When you started being rhetorical . . . I saw quite clearly what the matter is. You're wallowing in self-pity. That's what all this heroics comes down to in the end. You find life as it is too complicated and too tough. You pretend to yourself that if you make one easy dramatic gesture it will let you off trying for all time. You know you can change nothing with a gesture. I don't like these voluntary martyrs who go to meet the enemy halfway.")

WELL, as I say, the novel is a good deal concerned with George's job. Conditions in the War Office and what they do to George. Very few novels convince us that the major male characters have got any jobs at all. And any jobs that do exist are strictly background stuff, like a painted backdrop of an office building behind a tap-dancer in evening clothes. The jobs exist only outside the characters, and in a sketchy way at that. They are certainly not part of what goes on in the heads of the characters. And almost never does a novelist know how important a real job is to a real man. This tempts one to wonder if being a novelist is a job after all.

AND this brings one to wonder how much the entertainment industry is to blame for the modern view, held by most people under (let us say) 35 or 40 or 45, that a job is something to bring in money on which to do something else. That, and nothing more. I sometimes wonder what would happen if a modern young man said to his modern young wife: "Sorry, my dear, but the job comes first. We'll go to Hawaii next year instead." (Perhaps I should have him saying "Sorry, baby." I have him talking out of character in more ways than one.) She would take him for a madman. And having taken him, she would put him back where she first found him and run like hell.

NOVELS, NOVELS, NOVELS

ABOUT twenty years ago, Louis Bertrand of the Academie Francaise wrote "The Book of Consolation." I don't know if there is any English translation or not. There should be. It is a good book, in both senses of the adjective. But we are frightened, in English, of talking about what is good, lest we seem goody-goody, so I dare say there is no translation.

Anyhow, he spoke, in passing, about his own craft of fiction, and he said that for a long time he believed the highest faculty of the human mind was to imitate life, thus being "creative": to cook up a plot, slap on the decoration and the characters, and follow these along the wanderings of an artificial destiny . . . that, for a long time, had seemed to him the summit of invention. Later, he realized that very little real invention was involved in this virtuosity at all . . . sometimes none. "It is a kid's game that only genius can render serious. And it is a game of which almost everyone thinks himself capable. Every day I get letters from strangers who say 'Ah, sir, if you knew what a lovely novel my life would make!' and they start to write that novel in their letter.

"EVEN the most uncommon stories interest me only when they reveal to me some byway of the human mind, or focus on some essential idea. And even then I ask myself if that idea, that psychological truth, might not be better expressed, better judged, better fixed in its real place, by some other proceedings than those of the novel or of the theatre. And it is less the brilliance of an idea than its precision that touches me. Life is too short for me to be, from now on, greedy for anything except truth.

"I AM less dazzled by mimicry in art because I can do it myself, and with ease. But also because I no longer have, in the face of life and of the art which copies it, my juvenile astonishment. The virginity of my emotions has gone. To compensate for this loss, I have a growing distrust of aesthetic or literary artifice. And this distrust delivers me from all my youthful snobbery and absurd enthusiasms, from the native credulity of the stripling who has seen nothing yet, who knows nothing of life, and who believes he will find life in the imaginary world literature. I am now on guard against unknown geniuses discovered by the reviews, nor do I believe it is only necessary to be young in order to have talent."

As Our Readers See It

TITLES AND FORMER MONARCHS

I have read Bruce Hutchison's article in your Sunday Times of 13th inst entitled "The Wicked Uncles."

I am wondering what his reason is for reviving these sordid events of the old British monarchy which happened over 100 and more years ago? and of which anyone can read if he can obtain certain very old volumes, e.g., "The Mysteries of the Court," in three volumes, by Eugene Sue, now out of print, and other old volumes if one can obtain them.

But why revive such sordid doings of past British monarchs? Personally, I do not consider it good taste, especially at the present time just after the visit of the Queen Mother to this country, who evidently thinks more of Canadians than does Mr. Bruce Hutchison of Britishers, and also especially when Great Britain is doing all she can to cement the feeling of good fellowship between the nations of the Commonwealth.

As for stating that Canadians do not want titles (sour grapes perhaps), well that is rather amusing, as there are many Canadians who would give their souls for a British title—in fact I remember one Canadian who very much wanted a title—and he got one too! He is, however, now deceased—De mortuis nil nisi bonum.

A British title is usually conferred on one who has achieved something very outstanding on behalf of the Empire or humanity and is nothing to be ashamed of. The odd person in Great Britain, however, perhaps sometimes might refuse a title and prefer to remain plain Mr. but that is entirely up to the individual himself and has nothing whatever to do with the country in which he lives, but these cases are very rare.

Of course inherited titles are entirely different and come automatically and in very rare cases such a title is not assumed perhaps for lack of money to keep it up. I could not imagine, however, a Canadian refusing a title if he got the chance as they are very partial to them.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Reference your magazine article "Should We Execute Murderers". The infinitely wise judge of the heavenly supreme court, who created man and has an intimate knowledge of human virtues and frailties far transcending that of any psychologist, doctor, justice, churchman etc. has decreed "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed".

The sixth commandment expressly forbids murder, and capital punishment is mandatory, vide Exod. 21:12-14. His decree should be final, although no particular method of execution is prescribed. But if our legislators or any of the aforementioned are like so many who think the Bible obsolete, its teachings out of date, and bogle at God's commands, perhaps they will listen to what Blackstone, pre-eminent authority in jurisprudence, says about the Divine Law—"This law of nature, being coeval with mankind and dictated by God Himself, is, of course, superior to any other . . . The doctrines thus delivered are called the revealed or Divine Law and are to be found only in the Holy Scriptures . . . No human laws are of any validity contrary to this."

Other lesser lights, but more or less eminent, may be quoted, for example Dr. Charles Hodge in his Systematic Theology—"Murder is the highest crime a man can commit against a fellow creature."

Senator Nancy Hodges, your erstwhile brilliant columnist—"I have so often noticed that the bringing of a murderer to trial—and conviction—is all too often followed by a wave of maudlin sentimentality towards the criminal, but none towards the victim or the victim's family."

I think these will agree that capital punishment is not to gratify revenge, but to satisfy justice and for the preservation of society.

BOATS AND BUSES

Members of the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations are to be commended on the concern that they are showing over the suggestion that boat service to the mainland may be reduced.

Unfortunately these same persons, for the most part, do not show equal concern over reduction in bus service and the decision of the bus company to discontinue the sale of weekly passes.

Can it be that our local VIP's have cars but do not own boats?

WANTED—GOOD TRAILER PARK

While much attention has been given to the construction of new apartment buildings and auto courts in Victoria, it is really too bad that the same can not be said for the trailer courts.

Is it because potential investors think that a trailer court would not be a good investment, or that only white trash live in trailers? In rebuttal, I would like to state that a leading hotel chain organization in the United States is building trailer courts from coast to coast because, as they stated, "we have found that trailer courts are a profitable business and require only 1/50th of the maintenance needed for hotels and motels."

Following are excerpts from leading trailer magazines in the United States, giving some facts about people who live and travel in mobile homes:

"What is trailer living? First off, it's a phenomenon of America, a new way of living which 2,000,000 Americans have adopted. The mobile home (or trailer coach) population is increasing by 175,000 persons annually. Their per capita income is $2,000 to $2,500 a year more than the national average per capita income. They must invest a minimum of $3,000, an average of $6,000 and far more often, they do invest $10,000 in themselves just to get into a modern mobile home. Rid yourself of the idea that they are poor people. It requires a one-billion-dollar manufacturing industry to deliver the annual demand for mobile homes."

"If you agree that two people living in a mobile home . . . or anywhere else . . . must spend $150 per month just to take care of the absolute necessities of life, and existence; then figure this: 50 tenants living in trailer parks, will circulate $7,500 a month or $90,000 per year, in the neighborhood, or community . . . if there are 100 spaces in a park our people are spending $15,000 a month or $180,000 a year in the neighborhood."

"In view of the above facts, a trailer park is an asset to any community, socially and economically."

But what good does it do to have a modern mobile home unless there are also modern and clean trailer courts in which to park it? And there isn't one single, decent, modern trailer court in the Victoria area. Because of that, we left our 37-foot mobile home in Seattle.

Here you have an island that abounds in scenery, superb fishing, quaintness and charm . . . the essentials for any vacationist. It's exactly what both Canadian and U.S. trailerites alike go for in the way of a vacation. Catering to the trailerites would certainly pave the way for increased tourist dollar spending on Vancouver Island.

From Our Files

Nov. 22, 1894—A dispatch says Capt. J. H. Metcalf, Lloyd's surveyor, has returned from the wreck of the British Ss. Crown of England, on a reef at Santa Rosa Island, Calif. She is said to be a total wreck.

B.C. University Heads Disagree on Principle of Federal Grants to Education

BY DEAN HENRY F. ANGUS
University of British Columbia

A marked clash of opinion over the question of federal grants to Canadian universities has emerged at the University of B.C. between President Norman MacKenzie and Dean Henry F. Angus. The following article, which initially appeared in the student publication The Ubyssey, sets forth Dean Angus' opinions. It will be followed tomorrow by a reply from President MacKenzie.

* * *

THE roots of the dispute over income tax between the government of the Province of Quebec and the government of Canada lie deep, and the basic issue is of great importance. Before the First war some Canadian provinces imposed personal income taxes so that, in some provinces, taxpayers paid two income taxes. The expectation was that the Canadian tax would be abolished when the emergency was over. But both sets of income tax continued.

The dual system worked quite smoothly in Ontario where the provincial income tax was imposed on the basis of the income which remained in the hands of the tax-payer after the federal income tax had been paid. But in the western provinces, the provincial income tax allowed no such exemption and, like its federal counterpart, was sharply graduated.

The effect was that, in some cases, the tax on the last thousand dollars of a tax-payer's income might exceed a thousand dollars.

The Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations recommended that the federal government alone should use the personal income tax (and also the corporation income tax and succession duties), and should make grants to the provinces based on fiscal need.

However, at a conference in 1941 the provincial governments, led by Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia, refused to accept this arrangement.

The exigencies of war finance made a great increase in the federal income tax necessary, and, in order to avoid undue hardship to taxpayers in provinces with heavy provincial income taxes, an agreement was worked out by which the federal government alone was to use the income tax and the corporation income tax and to make grants which would keep the provinces solvent.

This agreement expired and the federal government was left with an obligation to reduce its taxes so as to restore the freedom of action of the provinces.

An endeavor was made to renew the tax agreements and when unanimity could not be secured the federal government made individual "tax-rental" agreements with all provincial governments except those of Ontario and Quebec, by which these governments were to forego the use of the income taxes for a three-year period in return for an annual payment. The details of these arrangements and those which renewed them, need not concern us here.

Ontario did not make an agreement until much later. Quebec has never made one. Therefore taxpayers in Quebec have contributed to the federal revenue out of which subsidies have been paid to other provinces. They feel that they are unjustly treated.

That is the background.

Two years ago the Parliament of Canada provided money for grants to Canadian universities, as recommended by the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences in Canada. In each province an amount calculated at 50 cents per capita of population was to be distributed among the universities in proportion to their enrollment.

No province refused the grant in the first year. Yet it was distinctly an anomaly. Education was exclusively a provincial concern. It was the provincial legislature which should decide how much money to devote to it in competition with other worthy objects.

The federal government appeared to have made use of its income tax for a purpose which went beyond its own legitimate needs and the Province of Quebec at least felt that it was being paid conditionally money which it was entitled to receive unconditionally.

In the second year the government of Quebec refused the grant, making, as it had already done in refusing to enter into a tax agreement, a financial sacrifice for the sake of the principle of provincial autonomy.

Universities in the province were thus left without a substantial income which they had counted on receiving. The Quebec legislature, which had done very little to help in the operating costs of its universities, decided to come to their help, so that the sacrifice made for the sake of a principle would be borne not by the universities but by the taxpayer.

It remained to decide which taxpayers should bear the burden. The Quebec legislature imposed a provincial income tax with generous exemptions for low incomes and large families.

While this new tax did not follow precisely the same pattern as the federal income tax, it was an approximate equivalent of 15 per cent of that tax, i.e., a taxpayer would pay $1,000 in Ontario but about $1,150 in Quebec on the same income.

The tactical result of this measure was to squeeze a class of taxpayer which is influential, but which has no numerical importance in provincial elections.

There was nothing illegal or unconstitutional in what Quebec had done. Under the federal legislation incidental to the tax agreements, it had been provided that in a province which made no agreement a taxpayer could deduct from his federal tax liability any provincial tax which he had to pay and which did not exceed 5 per cent of the federal tax. The net loss to taxpayers in Quebec was thus equal to about 10 per cent of the federal income tax.

The government of Quebec claimed that taxpayers in the province should be allowed to deduct the whole of the new tax from the federal tax. On this particular issue a compromise would be easy. After all, the federal government has saved a substantial sum of money by the refusal of Quebec to accept the grant for universities, and there would be no net loss in allowing Quebec taxpayers an exemption of an equivalent amount. The federal legislation might be amended to allow deductions up to 7½ or even 10 per cent in provinces not entering into tax agreements.

On the general principle there can be no compromise. Either a provincial government gets its revenue unconditionally (and in respect of matters which are constitutionally within its exclusive control) decides how to spend it; or it allows the federal government to "buy control," to use the term employed in the United States.

Nine provinces have found the mess of potage irresistible. Quebec has refused to sell its constitutional birthright. If larger issues arise—for instance if federal grants for secondary or primary education are proposed—this question of principle may assume very large proportions and efface the essence of Canadian federalism.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

Purgatory

OH, in 17 more days and 20 hours and Heaven knows how many minutes and seconds, he'll be old enough to get a driver's license.

Meanwhile, he's driving with his mother.

Ruth

And life is purgatory, pure and simple, for mother and son combined.

It starts the moment they get into the car.

"Too much choke, Mum. Not enough. Can't you tell from the sound? Ever thought what it does to the engine when you have it over-choked that way?"

Backing out of the garage is no longer a simple business which Mum, on her own, can do without turning a hair. It is an experience of agony and an exercise in self-control. For both of them.

★ ★ ★

"Turn the wheel now if you want to miss that post. Watch it, watch it," he moans, wiping the sweat from his brow. "Turn it, Mum, turn it. No, too far. No, the other way. You're going to hit the rockery. Wow! I knew you'd hit it. Just go forward a little. Attagirl. Try it again. Just forward, Mum. Quietly forward. You can cut out the bucking bronco stuff. Take it easy this time, eh? Wow! That was close. You missed it, but I don't know how."

The long private drive down to the road is Agony Number 2.

"Here, let me take it down to the road. Sure, I'll stop at the road. Aw, come on. Why, in 17 days and 20 more hours and a few more minutes, I'll have my driver's license."

The junction of road and driveway is Agony Number 3.

"Sure you want me to get out? Wouldn't you like me to drive you up to the corner store? Well, up to Smith's mail box then? I'll go slow and you can finish writing your shopping list. Come on, Mum, you'd think I didn't know how to drive."

Even though he's not allowed to drive upon the road, mentally he's driving every yard of it.

"Push that choke right in now, Mum. Ever hear the story of the woman who thought it was just a knob to hang her handbag on? Step on it, Mum. The dangerous driver is the slow driver. Step on it. Floor it. Give her the works.

"Better slow up now and watch that curve. Attagirl. You took that better than I thought you could. We'll make a driver out of you yet. Get the feel of the road, baby, get the feel of the road."

"Turn left here and don't forget the stop sign. Sure, I know you've driven into town this way about fifty million times before. Fifty million? Figure it out, Mum. Two years and maybe three times a week. I can't see how you make that fifty million times. Accuracy. We must always strive for accuracy. That's what old Whosit says at school.

"Gee whiz, starting off in second from a stop sign. Didn't you read that bit in the paper the other day? The guy stuck her into reverse instead of second. Start off in low. Always start off in low.

"At thirty miles per hour, how many feet would it take you to stop?

"Does energy increase equally with the speed of the car? Or does it increase as the square of the speed?

"Gee whiz, I don't think you could answer half the questions in the Driver's Manual."

And on it goes—the clenched hands, the tortured brow, the gasps and moans of overdramatic anguish, the endless good-natured teasing.

"Better park in this next block, Mum! You can't take that one. You'll never get in there. Slowly! Gently! Guess I'll close my eyes till it's over. Wonder if it'll be a scrunch or just a scrape

"She's made it. Whaddya know? She's made it. Pretty close though. I wouldn't want to take a chance like that myself."

★ ★ ★

Oh, in 17 more days and 20 more hours and Heaven knows how many minutes, he'll be old enough to get a driver's license.

And who will do the worrying then?

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A Rare Disease

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

IT IS bad enough to have a serious and possibly fatal disease but what is worse for many people is to have a disease which is so rare that the attending physicians do not know much about it. A terrible feeling of loneliness then comes over the patient. If he had tuberculosis or poliomyelitis he would know that all about him there were many fellow sufferers. He would know that many of these patients were being cured; he would know that all doctors knew these diseases well, and that much research was being done in an effort to develop even better remedies. But when a man has a disease that hasn't even a definite name, he feels lost and alone in this world.

Alvarez

This feeling of loneliness was well expressed in a letter recently received from a fine woman. She thanked me for my column on myasthenia gravis. As she said, "I could hardly believe my eyes when I read that a foundation has actually been set up to try to find the cause and the cure for this baffling disease. I have suffered from it for 28 years, and all through this time I have been asking doctors if there wasn't some place in which research on it was going forward. But they all said that the disease was so rare that there wasn't much interest in it, and hence no money was available for research.

"Today, the thought that at last an effort is being put forth to help us sufferers boosts my morale no end. It comforts me to know that no one will ever again have to endure the loneliness that has been mine for so many years. There have been times when I have feared that no one in this wide world cared about us people, or were working to find out what causes our disease. Now I know that there are many men who are working on the problem. I have done as you suggested, and have written to the Foundation of Myasthenia Gravis, with offices at 480 Lexington Avenue, New York City."

HAVING CHILDREN LATE

Women who have married late, in their early forties, sometimes ask me if it is safe for them to attempt having a child. So far as bearing the child is concerned the woman may not have much trouble. I have often been surprised to see how easily a woman past 40 had her first baby. Today there is less danger than there used to be because, if at the end, the woman should run into difficulties, she can have a Caesarian section without much risk.

So far as the baby is concerned, he or she will run a little extra risk, but I don't think it is so great that the mother need worry herself sick about it. Especially if there is no tendency to serious nervous or mental disease in the family, I doubt if she needs to be fearful. If in the family there happens to be some hereditary tendency to serious nervous disease, the child who comes late to a mother who has become tired because of much child-bearing runs a little extra risk of being affected with some defect.

BRITISH CHILDREN BIGGER

I have always marveled at the rapid increase in the stature of American children, and particularly children who have grown up in the western states. I, for instance, am some eight inches taller than my European-born father, and one of my sons is 2½ inches taller than I am. During examinations of draftees for the Second World War, it was found that this tendency toward an increasing height has now slowed up or stopped. Of late, our youths have shown only a tendency to get a little heavier.

In a recent article, Dr. E. M. B. Clements, of England, said that studies made of British children show that during the last 70 years their average stature has increased by about three inches, and their average weight by several pounds.

Today, the average six-year-old child in England is as big as a 7½-year-old child was in 1880. These differences in stature and weight are more obvious when one measures the children of the poor. In many parts of Europe such children are still much shorter and thinner than are the children of the well-today or the rich, which shows how important to a child's growth is an adequate diet with enough meat, milk, eggs and butter. A child can live and grow on a meagre diet, but he cannot grow tall and strong. In many countries of this world the child who so needs plenty of good meat may get only small scraps of it once or twice a week.

They will be on display for three weeks.

Showing as well are lino cuts by Sybil Andrews of Campbell River.

JAPANESE OR RED?

Chiang's Navy Sinks 2 Ships

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China claimed it sank two Red Chinese warships and routed 11 in a sea battle 12 miles southeast of the strategic Tachen Islands this morning.

The defense ministry did not say what types of Red warships were involved, but they could have been armored junks, of which the Communists possess a great number.

In Toyko the Japanese coast guard reported two Japanese fishing boats were machine-gunned and sunk by two unidentified gunboats about 20 miles east-southeast of the Tachens today.

Three Japanese fishermen were killed and three injured.

E & N Trains Rolling After 24-Hour Halt

Track Washout at Chemainus River Repaired As Rail Crew, Truckers Work Round Clock

DUNCAN—Traffic was restored on the E & N Railway Saturday at 10 p.m. after 24 hours of furious activity fighting flood damage at the Chemainus River.

The swollen river went on a rampage Friday afternoon when, fortified by rain-filled streams, it washed out part of the track on the south side of the company's bridge over the river near Westholme.

It wrecked a concrete abutment below the bridge, and a portion of the river's south bank. The resulting cave-in took with it a section of the track, thus haulting all rail traffic south of Chemainus. Waters of the river were estimated at eight inches above flood level at the time.

HAULED ROCK

A private road contractor was engaged by the company to haul rock and gravel for the fill, and by working without stopping for 24 hours, the job was finished well ahead of the anticipated time.

"The contractor had 10 trucks at work and we had a crew of about 15," said D. C. Hartley, company superintendent. "Fortunately both the trucks and material were close."

It was first thought that the job would not be finished until Sunday night.

"We may be foolish sometimes to try so hard to restore service, but even when it looks impossible we keep plugging away," Mr. Hartley said. "It's expected of us, and 'the show must go on'."

He said service was beginning to return to normal today after a busy Saturday night and Sunday moving material that had backed up in railway yards because of the washout.

Government Service Offered Island Recreation Boards

NANAIMO — Provincial government resources available to community recreation associations were listed here on the week-end by L. J. Wallace, community programs branch director of the Department of Education.

Speaking at a two-day conference of 30 delegates from 13 Island communities, he mentioned resource and library material, grants for teachers, commissions and directors; summer schools and coaching clinics and films and flim strips.

Interest in games was favored by Claude Campbell, inspector of School Districts 50 and 68, who warned delegates against throwing all support to one team of "prima donnas whose only mission is to win games."

PLAY FOR SPORT

"Winning games is good," he said, "but it is more important to have as many as possible participating. English university students play games for the love of the game, and soccer enthusiasts continue their interest long after leaving school. The same cannot be said of football players on this side of the water."

Special subjects were dealt with by Vern Ferguson, Campbell River; Herb. Bradley, Courtenay; and Alan Goldie, Chemainus.

Banquet Closes CCL Conference Held Up-Island

NANAIMO — Canadian Congress of Labor educational conference and week-end study course, attended by 50 members, wound up here Sunday with a banquet at Malaspina Hotel.

Edward Kenney, Portland, Ore., education direector of the IWA, was guest speaker.

Mayor George Muir, in welcoming the delegates at the meeting, said the city as an employer understands the problems of both labor and management.

"I believe you are making a real contribution toward a real understanding between employers and labor," he said. R. M. Strachan, MLA; Tom Barnett, MP, Alberni; Dr. L. Giovando, and others also spoke. Msgr. A. G. Baker asked the grace.

"We must work for the repeal of the B.C. Labor Act," Mr. Kenney said. He also favored integration of United States and Canadian economies into a North American continental union.

Hospital Group Plans Nanaimo Meeting Nov. 27

NANAIMO — Upper Island Hospital Association will meet here Nov. 27 with A. E. P. Stubbs, Chemainus, presiding.

Dr. Larry Giovando, MLA, will speak at one of the general meetings. Other meetings will include those for trustees, administrators, accountants, auxiliaries, and medical record librarians. Dr. E. W. R. Best, health officer, will speak during the afternoon session.

Nanaimo Hospital director Harry Dale said the board is contemplating use of third floor of the nurses' quarters for patients. The section would be limited to ambulatory women patients and would increase the accommodation by 10 beds. This temporary measure may go into effect Jan. 15.

Pageant of Pioneer's Landing Ready for Staging at Nanaimo

NANAIMO — More than 200 descendants of the pioneer passengers of the Princess Royal, who landed here Nov. 27, 1854, have already signified intention of attending giant centenary celebrations here Saturday.

Many of the visitors will be coming from California, Oregon, Washington and all parts of British Columbia.

A special souvenir program is being printed for the B.C. Historical Association by the Hudson's Bay Company to mark the occasion. Each descendant will receive a copy of the program as a gift, while others will be sold to the public at a nominal fee to help defray expense of a pageant depicting the actual arrival.

Yellow Point Drama Group has been rehearsing the pageant, to be titled "The Landing," and to depict the actual arrival of the pioneers after a voyage from England via the Hawaiian Islands.

SIX-MONTH TRIP

The trip, aboard the sailing vessel Princess Royal, took six months. On landing at Victoria the party transhipped to the Discovery, a Hudson's Bay Company vessel, for the final trip to Nanaimo.

Actual incidences will be portrayed, among them being the arrival of a young widow who lost her husband en route, and the near loss of a little boy's shoe.

It will start at 11 a.m.

A noon luncheon will be held for the players and visiting descendants at the Eagles Hall, under the auspices of the Nanaimo Native Daughters.

At 2 p.m. another ceremony will be held at Pioneer Rock actual site of the landing, when A. J. Gilbert, manager, Hudson's Bay Company, Vancouver, will dedicate a time capsule. The lead casket will contain photographs taken of the play that morning and processed to enlargements so the capsule will be up to date. A tape-recorded message from all leaders of every religious denomination in the district will be included.

FILL TIME CAPSULE

Contents of the capsule will be selected by a committee appointed by George Molecey, director of the celebration, that will include Mayor George Muir, Archdeacon A. E. Hendy, C. W. Nash and William Barraclough.

A birthday banquet will be staged at both Plaza Hotel ballrooms where a unique "Princess Royal" decorative scheme is being created by Jim Borserio and Roy Twyman.

Featured will be a giant cake with 100 candles. Dignitaries of the event are "the descendants," for whom the whole celebration is being staged. Speakers of the evening will include Mayor Muir, Major J. H. Matthews, Vancouver city archivist; Mr. Gilbert and others.

Special features will be the first television of an event in Nanaimo when CBUT will shoot "the landing." Some tickets to the banquet may be available to the public, but space will permit only a limited attendance at the dinner. The late evening cabaret dance, starting at 9.30 under auspices of Malaspina Chapter, IODE, will sum up the Princess Royal Day celebrations.

District council of Brierley Hill, Staffordshire, England, home of most of the pioneers, has acknowledged a letter from the British Columbia Historical Association, Nanaimo Branch, describing plans for the centenary.

The following letter was received from Eric Gibbons, chairman of the Brierley Hill urban district council:

"Your most welcome and interesting letter was read to the members of the Brierley Hill urban district council at their monthly meeting held yesterday and members of the press, being present, were fully informed of your proposed celebrations on the 27th of this month.

"As chairman of this large urban district, of great industrial importance, I convey on behalf of its 49,000 inhabitants most cordial greetings to the people of Nanaimo and the sincere wish that the celebrations to commemorate the centenary of the landing on your shores of pioneers from this town will have every success. I take this opportunity of saying to their descendants how much we admire the great courage of that adventurous band of people who left this town for Nanaimo in 1854.

Our thoughts will be with you November 27 and we trust that your settlement in this part of our great Commonwealth will continue to kindle that bond of friendship which exists between the old country and the new."

Island Ratepayers Propose Chemainus-Mainland Ferry

CHEMAINUS.—The possibility of an inter-island or mainland ferry service, with Chemainus as a terminal point, was seen here during a Chamber of Commerce discussion on disputed foreshore property in the Chemainus harbour.

The foreshore in question is located adjacent to the Government wharf, and has been held in beach reserve by the Municipality of North Cowichan for the past two years, in the hopes that the federal government would extend the present wharf. The municipality was informed recently that the government was not interested in the foreshore, which has been the centre of a long-standing dispute between the Chemainus Towing Co., presently occupying it, and the Chang Bros.

NO BATTLE GROUND

An attempt on the part of the Chang Bros. to present a brief to the Chamber of Commerce regarding their stand was turned down by A. E. Beasley, president, who said that the chamber was not to be used as "battleground between two members."

Mr. Beasley asked the chamber to endorse a resolution asking that the foreshore be put back into beach reserve and managed by the municipality.

A delegation from the Thetis Island Ratepayers' Association, headed by Dick Rigma, opposed the granting of any long-term lease on the foreshore.

LIKELY TERMINAL

He said that the port of Chemianus would likely become a terminal point for a ferry service in the near future, and that the area was the only foreshore in Chemainus harbor available for installation of ferry slip facilities.

Mr. Rigma said he was now working with a committee on a project for an inter-island or possibly a mainland ferry service which would use Chemainus as a terminal point. Chemainus could well bceome "a secondary port of distribution for the Island and the mainland," he said.

Jaycees Name Award Winner

NANAIMO — The Junior Chamber of Commerce has named Cal Dow "Man of the Month" for his "excellent work on behalf of traffic safety in Nanaimo."

Prime mover of the 'teenagers' organization the "Hubsters", Mr. Dow introduced the president and vice-president, Herb McNulty and Eric Moore, to the Jaycees, at their regular meeting.

In reporting on traffic safety activities, Mr. Dow said total cost of running the first three phases of the newly formed group was $9.59. He said the four Nanaimo district winners in Nanaimo Traffic Safety Association essay competition for Grade VI students will appear on KING-TV Friday.

Former Sergeant Wins RCMP Award For Long Service

NANAIMO — Former RCMP sergeant Chris Jacklin, popular officer here for many years, received the 20-year long service RCMP medal at a surprise gathering Saturday arranged by the Nanaimo detachment.

Presentation was made at Canadian Scottish Regiment headquarters here by Ald. Robert Fawdry, representing the city of Nanaimo.

Sgt. Jacklin joined the B.C. Police in Victoria, and came to Nanaimo in 1928 to take charge of the South Wellington to Qualicum territory with Insp. Jack Russell.

After serving at Prince Rupert, Sgt. Jacklin was transferred to Nelson, where he was in charge of the detachment. He served overseas in the First World War.

Mrs. Doris Fraser, who for some years served here as police court stenographer, was presented with an RCMP collar badge set with brilliants. Mrs. Fraser was the first woman to work in the local police force office. She resigned two months ago.

Mrs. Greenwood Duncan Resident For Seven Years

DUNCAN — Funeral services were held today at St. Peter's Anglican Church, Quamichan, for Mrs. Constance Alfrida Thomson Greenwood, 80, widow of the late Dr. A. C. Greenwood, who died Saturday at her home.

Surviving are three sons in England; three daughters, Mrs. F. L. Kingston, with whom she lived; Mrs. W. K. S. Horsfall, and Miss I. G. E. Greenwood, all of Duncan, and 10 grandchildren.

Victoria Divers Find Body of Railwayman

PORT ALBERNI — Victoria frogman Bill Hook and his brother, Allan Hook, on Saturday recovered the body of Einar Erickson, logging train brakeman who plunged to his death Friday when a logging locomotive was derailed at Franklin River.

Still missing is the body of William Crosby, engineer.

The tragedy occurred on a bridge just 100 yards from the MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. logging community of Franklin River. The locomtive plunged out of sight into the swollen stream.

Erickson's body was trapped in the wreckage of the train, which tore out a section of the bridge as it fell.

The divers were handicapped by murky and fast-running waters of the Franklin River. A downstream search has been under way since the accident in the hope of recovering Crosby's body.

After their search at the river, the two frogmen crossed the Alberni Canal to the scene of a tragedy last Wednesday when Eli Dufour was lost in a flood that smashed a small logging camp.

They searched for 10 minutes, without success. Visibility was nil, they said.

Strasser Back In Politics

Former Collaborator Announces He Will Start New Organization

PARADISE, N.S. (CP)—Otto Strasser said today he plans to organize a political party in divided Berlin when he returns to Europe, and to fight for the reunification of Germany.

One-time collaborator with Hitler in the infant days of the Nazi party in the '30s, he greeted as "wonderful news" the announcement from Bonn that West Germany will permit his return after 19 years.

"I am very glad to hear that," the 59-year-old German said. "I was afraid I would have to start fighting all over again."

Strasser won back his citizenship last week in a West German Supreme Court decision which overruled interior ministry protests that he was a threat to the constitution. Hitler revoked Strasser's citizenship after the two broke in 1935.

Strasser said he plans to travel first to Switzerland where his wife and two children live and then on to Germany where he will spend six months studying the political climate before making his move.

REMEMBER THIS

Some Day If Page 1 Is Blank

GLENVILLE, W.Va. (AP)—The weekly Glenville Democrat went to press last week with a front page bearing only its masthead and an embarrassed explanation to readers.

"It only happens once in a lifetime, but it does happen," the paper explained in a two-column box smack in the middle of the page.

"We had all the paper made up and ready to go to press at 3 p.m. Wednesday. En route from the make-up stone to the press we pied the whole front page. That means that all the type, cuts, cutlines, heads, leads, slugs, and so forth fell in a jumbled mass.

"Well, that's all. Just a jumbled mass of slugs. We couldn't put them together in less than a day, with the whole force working, and then stories wouldn't come out right."

The other seven pages of the paper were intact.

LOOK AT ME, MOM—Little Karen Maneskie, of Morgan, Pa., looks mighty proud and she has every reason to be. She's celebrating her first birthday and already has 16 of her 20 baby teeth, including two molars.

U.S. Prepares for Fast Mobilization

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration is geared to ask Congress for wage-price controls and a general 90-day economic freeze in case of a national emergency calling for all-out mobilization.

Legislation for these temporary controls already has been drafted. In addition, the office of defense mobilization has drawn up "a comprehensive general freeze regulation" that could be adapted to "all types of situations, including atomic attacks upon the United States itself."

These stand-by plans were revealed in a report made public last night by the joint congressional committee on defense production, headed by Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R—Ind.).

"Never before in the history of our nation has a potential enemy had the power to strike such a crippling blow at the industrial and population heart of our country without warning," the report said, emphasizing that immediate economic steps would be needed in case of such an attack.

"Our future security depends more heavily each day on the country's ability to shift from the domestic economy to a war footing on a moment's notice."

WINNIPEG (CP) — A key pass interception Saturday in the dying minutes of the game snuffed out a belated rally by the Peterborough Orfuns and provided the Winnipeg Rams with a 16-12 victory and the Canadian intermediate football championship.

Heartaches Caused By Undelivered Mail

'Dead Letter' Offices in Canada Crammed with 7 Million Pieces

Seven million letters and parcels mailed in the last 12 months lie undelivered in four Canadian post offices because they were improperly addressed.

With the Christmas mailing season in full swing, postal officials look for a repetition of hastily-wrapped, improperly addressed items of mail, and today asked the public's co-operation in reducing the vast bulk by giving more attention to mailing.

Each year a public auction of derelict items of merchandise is conducted at the four central undeliverable mail offices in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver—formerly "dead letter offices."

There, the auctioneer's chant rings the death-knell for thousands of valuable pieces of mail that have become heartaches for the senders and persons for whom they were intended, but headaches for the Post Office.

All of them—parcels and letters—have two things in common: insufficient address and no return address. Many bear no address whatsoever, others a cryptic, "Mrs. John Brown—Winnipeg, Man." Some have a wrong address, and all possible inquiries at the office of destination fail to locate the addressee.

It's not only the Christmas season which wreaks such havoc in the post offices of the nation. Other seasons bring their woes, too.

A Vancouver official says:

"Spring time it may be eggs. One clerk ruefully recalls having to roll up his sleeves and dig through 12 dozen broken eggs which were enclosed in five-gallon gasoline tin (in an effort to find an address). Packing? Merely one thickness of newspaper between each layer of eggs!

"Late spring and summer bring fruit to the undeliverable mail office. Dripping, soggy messes of strawberries, raspberries and other soft fruits—none packed sufficiently well to travel across the street, yet confidently mailed for transmission from coast to coast!

LEAKING PLUMS

"Other mailers are blissfully unaware that mail must be bagged and stacked in trains and steamers. One large box marked 'This Side Up' was found to contain six quarts (all leaking) of fermented plums. As they had been mailed only the day before arrival at the UMO, obviously the sender was foisting off tainted fruit on her 'friend'."

Thick, corrugated cartons and shock-absorbent packing are required to afford suitable protection, the postal people remind. In postal offices the parcel motto is:

"If it's worth mailing, it's worth proper packing."

A SPECIAL MESSAGE to CUSTOMERS of the B of M

IF YOUR 2 BILLION DOLLARS COULD TALK

... what a story they could tell! For those dollars you have on deposit at the B of M have been hard at work during the past year in Canadian enterprise of every description and size.

Among the fishing fleets of the Atlantic and Pacific . . . in the mines and lumber camps of the far north . . . in farming districts . . . in industrial areas . . . your dollars have a story to tell of progress and achievement.

If your B of M dollars — as listed with many others in the Bank's annual statement — could talk, they would tell you they have no five-day week, but are busy constantly, working for you and for Canada . . . like this:

THE MONEY YOU DEPOSIT: At the end of the Bank's year, October 31st, 1954, you and two million other Canadians in all walks of life had $2,365,669,857 in deposits with the B of M. Although much of this money belongs to institutions and business firms, well over half of these deposits represent the savings of individual Canadians.

THE MONEY WE LEND: Your savings are playing an important role in our expanding economy in the form of loans to Canadians of every calling — farmers, miners, fishermen, oil men, lumbermen, ranchers — to industrial and business enterprises and to Provincial and Municipal Governments. As of October 31st, B of M loans totalled $903,148,964 — the highest figure in the history of the Bank. In a thousand ways, these dollars played their part in sustaining our standard of living.

THE MONEY WE INVEST: At the close of the year the B of M had $952,522,945 invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities which have a ready market. This money is helping to finance government projects for the betterment of the country and the welfare of Canadians at large. Other securities held by the Bank — which include many short-term credits to industry — bring total investments to $1,170,406,863.

When you open an account at the B of M, you are not only putting your savings in a safe place but you are also investing in Canada's future. Every dollar you deposit is put to work in some Canadian endeavour that contributes to the steady progress of this great country of ours.

WINCHELL ADVISES

Pacific Pete Up After WW's Tip

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia natural gas shares were in heavy demand on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today following a Sunday night Walter Winchell "tip."

Pacific Pete soared to $12 on early trading, up $1.12 from Friday's close and less spectacular gains were recorded by other stocks.

Exchange officials said the buying wave, second to hit the stocks within a week, was touched off by Winchell's Sunday night broadcast in which he advised his listeners to buy B.C. natural gas stocks.

A similar buying wave hit the market last week following publication by the Vancouver Province of an article predicting an early agreement between Westcoast Transmission Company and American companies for distribution of Peace River natural gas to the lower B.C. mainland and the United States.

Peace River Natural Gas, which holds substantial acreage in the Peace River area was up 15 cents to $7.20 and Canadian Atlantic, another company with Peace River holdings, climbed 20 cents to $5.05.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Aggressive buying was touched off in barley on the Winnipeg grain exchange today by the sale of more than 20,000,000 bushels to shippers and exporters for shipment at the opening of navigation in the spring.

December and May barley made new seasonal highs and July equalled its previous top. While good buying developed the only actual overseas business over the week-end covered parcel lot to the United Kingdom.

Trading was less active in oats with domestic shippers the best buyers. The flax and rye trade was also quiet. Firmness in U.S. markets aided the Canadian trade.

Non information was available on export loadings of Canadian wheat. Lakehead prices for top grades of Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged except for the No. 1 grade of IWA and domestic durums which were down ¼ cent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat backed down a few cents on the Board of Trade today when a slight expansion in selling pressure found the market with limited demand. Oats also retreated, but corn and rye stood out with fractional gains.

Toronto Hits 20-Year High Then Eases Off

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market relaxed a little in afternoon dealings today after hitting two successive 20-year highs in the morning.

The industrial index, which climbed more than 1½ points to a 20-year high of 368.98 at noon, fell off slightly later but at 2 p.m. was still ahead more than a point on the day. Western oils were up 1½ points in the index, senior base metals were strong and golds were mixed. Uraniums eased.

Almost all industrial sections had a hand in the advance, with foods, financial institutions, and liquors the leaders. Ahead $1 or more were Canada Cement, Canada Life, Confederation Life, Imperial Life, Chrysler and Westons.

Pacific Pete led western oil strength with a 1954 high of $12.25. Calgary and Edmonton, Merrill and Western Leaseholds were strong.

Algom touched $12 in uraniums and Pronto and Lorado also gained. Senior base metals featured Noranda with a 1954 high of $81.

High Levels Revealed by B of M Report

MONTREAL — Outstanding among the features of the Bank of Montreal's financial report, published today, are a record figure for Canadian banking capital funds and new high levels for deposits and loans. Covering the 12 months to Oct. 31, the statement shows that B of M shareholders' funds, exclusive of undivided profits, now amount to $131,783,736—the highest figure for any chartered bank in Canada.

B of M resources total $2,548,508,239, which is an increase of $184,000,000 since 1953. They are the highest in the bank's history.

As a resula of the recent offering of new B of M stock, the bank's capital, which for many years stood at $36,000,000, has risen to $43,927,912, while the rest account now stands at $87,855,824. Upon completion of the new issue, the figures will reach $45,000,000 and $90,000,000, respectively — a total of $135,000,000 for shareholders' funds, exclusive of undivided profits.

Aside from this important change in capital funds, the outstanding feature of the statement is the large increase in deposits. At $2,365,000,000, deposits are $139,000,000 higher than they were a year ago.

Indicative of the bank's high degree of liquidity are the figures for government and other securities which, taken together, now run to $1,170 million, as compared with $982 million in 1953. Quick assets now total $1,694,056,090—equal to 70.17 per cent of public liabilities.

U.S., Canada Trade Boosted

$4 Added to U.S. Per Capita Purchase Would Bring Balance

NEW YORK (CP)—J. A. Calder, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said today that solution of current Canadian-American trade problems could lay a foundation for almost unlimited extension of exchange of goods between the two countries.

Such a solution might also develop principles and ideas capable of much wider application in international trade.

Mr. Calder, Montreal industrialist, spoke to a joint gathering of the International Advertising Association, the American Market Association and the Committee for a National Trade Policy.

Canada, said Mr. Calder, buys about $3,000,000,000 worth of goods a year from the United States, or about one-quarter of American exports.

The United States buys about $2,350,000,000 worth of goods from Canada or about 60 per cent of Canada's exports.

Thus, American exports to Canada exceeded Canadian exports to the United States by between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000 a year.

To wipe out this adverse balance every Canadian would have to reduce his purchases of American goods by more than $40. However, the same end could be achieved, and in a manner more in harmony with the best interests of international trade, if every American increased his purchases of Canadian goods by only $4.

Tariff Boost Opposed By CFA Economist

Wool Protection 'Too Costly'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Agriculture says a tariff boost against United Kingdom wool cloth would increase Canadian consumer costs by about $12,000,000 a year.

Dr. Ernest Hope, the federation's economist, told the tariff board Saturday that the extra cost which would result from higher retail prices of wool products is too much to pay for the sake of providing a few more jobs in the Canadian wool textile industry.

J. Grant Glasscoe of Toronto, speaking for the Canadian industry, suggested higher import duties would have very little effect on retail prices. And anything extra paid by consumers would remain in Canada. Profits now earned by British producers would be shifted to Canadian producers.

The federal treasury would benefit from increased customs duties and levies on corporation profits. Workers would benefit through bigger payrolls and increased job opportunities.

HARM PRODUCERS

But Norman Genzer, Montreal lawyer, representing Canadian clothing manufacturers, said a tariff boost would harm clothing producers who work on a small profit margin. He said Canadian mills, instead of seeking tariff protection, should create new styles and devise new cloths which would give them an edge.

The Canadian industry, claiming that many of its firms have been driven out of business by low-priced imports from Britain, is seeking a boost in the maximum 50-cent-a-pound duty on British wool cloth. Final summation of argument was presented before the tariff board in a day-long hearing Saturday.

Russian Plan Turned Down

France, U.S. Reject Soviet Move To Delay Signing of Paris Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—French Premier Mendes-France and Secretary of State Dulles turned down swiftly Saturday a move by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov to delay ratification of German rearmament by the western powers. Instead they called for "early ratification" by all the allies before any new conferences with Russia.

Molotov offered to postpone the Russian-proposed all-European conference on collective security if the Western Powers hold up ratification on the Paris agreements on rearming West Germany.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France expressed willingness today to hold a Big Four meeting in Paris next May after ratification of the London and Paris agreements.

In an address to the UN General Assembly, the French leader declared firmly he is opposed to any East-West meeting until after the agreements for bringing West Germany into the western defense alliance are ratified.

He said, however, that after the agreements are approved France will be ready to take the initiative in organizing the Big Four conference, which Russia has been pressing for.

FOR A LONELY BOY

Moms? Dads? Johnnie's Got Plenty

WOOLWICH, Eng. (Reuters) —Johnnie Masterson, 3, this morning clutched a space gun and a toy panda and asked his nurse: "Will my mommies and daddies come see me again today?"

Sunday 200 of them came to the Goldie Leigh Hospital here and stood in line in the cold, waiting to see the orphaned boy whose picture appeared in a newspaper Saturday with the caption: "Nobody ever comes to see Johnnie."

For two years Johnnie watched parents visit the 10 other children in the ward. He had been sent to the hospital with a skin disease. His parents abandoned him, and police have been unable to trace them.

Only 100 of the visitors could get into the room Sunday. By supper time Johnnie's bed was piled high with shiny new toys, candy and fruit.

NO TRIAL FOR NAGUIB

LONDON (Reuters) — Cairo radio said Sunday night it has been decided not to put deposed president Mohammed Naguib on trial for allegedly conspiring to overthrow the regime of Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

A Sudanese delegation, headed by Saxed Mohammed Nur El Din, minister of works, arrived in Cairo Friday to urge the Egyptian government to safeguard Sudan-born Naguib's life.

Cairo radio said the delegation issued a statement Sunday night announcing an agreement with the Egyptian authorities under which the ex-president is not to be tried.

Labrador Makes Home Port, Gets Triumphant Welcome

HALIFAX (CP) — Seven burly sailors heaved on a hawser, two tugs gave an extra push, and the Arctic patrol ship Labrador nestled into her home berth Sunday with a proud list of firsts for the Canadian Navy.

Her trip from Esquimalt, B.C., to Halifax via the Panama Canal, made her the first naval vessel to circle North America.

She left Esquimalt last month after becoming the first vessel of any navy to conquer the Northwest Passage, the largest ship ever to make the trip, and the first to find a route with commercial possibilities through the Canadian archipelago.

The navy welcomed her back Sunday with an ear-splitting wail of ships' whistles as she moved slow speed ahead in mid-stream.

Indian Children To Public Schools

Pickersgill Says Non-Segregation Is Future Policy of Government

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government is trying to end a type of segregation in Canadian schools.

It was disclosed here that the citizenship department is trying to make arrangements with school authorities in all provinces for the education of Indian children in schools attended by other Canadians.

Citizenship Minister J. W. Pickersgill helped to officiate at the opening of a new wing of the Bluewater Public School in Sarnia, Ont. It was built by the Sarnia board of education with co-operation of the Indian affairs branch of Mr. Pickersgill's departmnt.

"It is believed that the mingling of Indian children with other Canadians at school will prove to be the most effective way of all of transforming the Indian population into full-fledged Canadian citizens," Mr. Pickersgill said.

Most Indian children in British Columbia are educated at schools operated by church groups, notably the Roman Catholic, Anglican and United Churches. The schools are financed by the department of Indian affairs.

JAPANESE FISH CATCH SETS RECORD

TOKIO (AP).—The number of Japanese fishing boats and their total catch now exceed the prewar level which was highest in the world, the foreign office said today. The announcement said that in a "remarkable postwar revival," Japan's 440,000 fishing boats last year caught 4,250,000 tons of fish, compared with 3,700,000 tons by 360,000 boats in the big prewar years.

Mayor Whitton Will Run for Re-Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa's scrappy chief magistrate for more than two years, has decided she can't stay out of this year's municipal election fight.

After two days of indecision, Mayor Whitton announced Saturday she would be a candidate for re-election to a two-year term.

She broke the news at a closed meeting of the Charlotte Whitton Committee of Women, her stuanchest supporters since she entered city politics four years ago as a controller.

The 58-year-old mayor had announced two days earlier that because of a "get Whitton" alliance she said had formed against her, she did not want to run again.

The reason for her change of heart, she said, was a deluge of appeals for reconsideration. She did not want to "let my friends down."

HOW TO GET A Friendly Loan

You know a lot of people the first time they come to Niagara Finance worry about whether or not it's the right thing to do. It's quite true that we don't make a loan every time anybody walks through our doors. Frankly, we'd be out of business if we did. But you'd be surprised at the number of people who do get loans, and chances are good that if you need money, you can get it too. We've grown to be a big organization now but the men we have in our offices spread across Canada, we like to think, are pretty well trained. They're trained to understand how to solve your money problems, in a friendly way. So if you need money, why don't you drop in? There are two good reasons why you should, you know. The first is that our rates are lower on many friendly loans . . . the second is that loans up to $1500, are life-insured, for you family's protection, at no extra cost to you. We think that these features make our loans a better deal than you get down the street. Inquire, won't you?

A NEW MOTOR OIL that in effect adds
Octanes to gasoline!

NEW Mobiloil Special

boosts engine power and gasoline mileage

There is documented proof that New Mobiloil Special actually boosts engine power. In hundreds of cars, New Mobiloil Special reduced the octane requirement of every type of engine tested—giving the same results in raising gasoline performance as adding octanes to the fuel in your gas tank.

By raising efficiency and cutting waste, New Mobiloil Special also increases gas mileage and adds years to the life of any engine!

After just two crankcase changes, this new kind of motor oil has given engines—which "knocked" badly before—new-car pep and knock-free power.

It corrected or relieved pre-ignition "ping" and spark plug misfiring.

New Mobiloil Special cleaned up engines of all ages and kept them clean as no other oil ever has before.

It reduced rate of corrosive and mechanical wear to practically zero.

It provided instant starts in sub-zero cold and complete protection at abnormally high temperatures.

This single oil is recommended for use in any climate, any season, in place of SAE30—20W-20 and 10W. It also replaces 5W in areas where temperatures do not consistently go lower than 15° below zero (in which case Mobiloil 5W should be used).

Change to New Mobiloil Special . . . it's like adding octanes to your gasoline!

A great new member of the Mobiloil family...

COUGARS BLANK CANUCKS

WHL Race Tightens; Pelletier Bids for New Shutout Mark

Victoria 5, Vancouver 0.
Westminster 3, Calgary 1.
Edmonton 1, Saskatoon 1.

Victoria Cougars rolled on toward the prairies today, carrying the key to the Western Hockey League leadership with them and goalie Marcel Pelletier two-thirds along the trail to a new league record of shutout minutes.

There's a three-way traffic jam at the top of the ladder as a result of Saturday's games, but the Cougar's 5-0 shutout victory over Vancouver Canucks meant just as much, if not more, in the over all picture.

Victory pulled the Cougars to a .500 rating, marked Pelletier's second straight shutout (he blanked Calgary 6-0 Wednesday), and lifted the club to within five points of the three leaders, the Cougars having two games in hand.

Calgary, New Westminster and Edmonton share the top rung with 23 points, while the Canucks are three points in arrears and two to the good of the locals.

Pelletier's shutout sequence has reached 122 minutes and 37 seconds, his two successive blankings equalling a league mark. However, the WHL record sequence of 183 minutes and 34 seconds is still more than a full game ahead of him and is owned by a former Cougar, Jerry Cotnoir.

Cougars have the best chance of any club to gain, the chore being tough, as they play four games this week—all on the prairies.

MARCEL PELLETIER
. . . record in sight.

The first stop is Calgary, Tuesday, and it is there Pelletier must duplicate Wednesday's performance here if a new record is to be his. The Cougars move on to Edmonton, Wednesday; Saskatoon, Thursday, and a second game with the Quakers, Saturday, before meeting the Canucks in Vancouver Tuesday. They return home against New Westminster, Dec. 1.

Marksmen Saturday night were Gene Achtymichuk, Andy Hebenton, Colin Kilburn, Pete Durham and Doug Macauley.

The contest was the more unusual in that coach Art Chapman of the Canucks pulled goalie Johnny Bower with 55 seconds remaining, in a rather chicken-hearted attempt at smartness in order to avoid a shutout.

However, it was as unsuccessful as had been the Canucks earlier in attempting to play the Cougars on even terms. Cougars outshooting their opponents, 47-22.

Mark Marquess seemingly was cheated of a counter when goal judge Doug Bray flashed on the red light and then doused it almost as quickly, shortly before Hebenton got his goal in the second period. Bray said afterwards that the shot had entered the net and it was his error in not keeping the light on.

The frenzied action of the final minute—Kilburn missing the open net at one stage—culminated in a near free-for-all on the ice as the closing whistle sounded. Walt Clune of the Cougars and Lou Fontinato of the Canucks tossed the only damaging punches of the demonstration, although everybody else got in a shove or two as the players milled along the boards and around the battlers. Clune and Fontinato each paid for the extra-curricular action with misconducts worth $10 each.

JERRY COTNOIR
. . . standard bearer.

Calgary went into the evening's action alone in first place, but the Stamps didn't have enough to stop New Westminster. The Royals skipped through with a 3-1 decision on goals by Sam Lavitt, Gordie Fashoway and Max McNab, the final counter finding an open net. Doc Couture got the Calgary goal.

Edmonton gained their share of the league diadem by playing Saskatoon Quakers to a 1-1 tie at Edmonton, although Quakers had to rely on goalie Doug Stevenson to keep them from a worse fate. Max Bentley of the Quakers and Don Poile of the Flyers enlivened the action with a fist fight in the second period. Goal getters were Jerry Melnyk for the Flyers and Dick Lamoureux for the Quakers.

Cougars also re-signed forward Dave Wall, who asked for and was given his release earlier in the week. Wall will report to Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan League and now may be recalled by the Cougars if the need arises.

City Squeaks Through To Retain Title Hope

Victoria City 2
North Shore 1

Victoria City football club apparently have set out to force the Coast Soccer League to eat their decisions.

Thwarted out of two points when the league brass declined to call St. Andrew's non-visit here a while ago a default, City Saturday took the other road open to them.

They edged North Shore United 2-1 in a tightly-played fixture at Athletic Park and though they were being harassed no end by the Shores at the finish, they deserved their margin on their first-half performance.

The steadier of the two clubs, City repeatedly beat the Reds to the ball in the opening session and were soon rewarded. A neat cross by Dick Nellistine, up on trial from Dutch Wanderers of the second division, set the stage for the counter, Robb missing from the line after hitting the cross bar on a header. However, Harry Carruthers came in fast to drive the attempted clearance into the twine from 15 feet out.

North Shore started to assert its power near the 20-minute mark and seemed about to take the play away from the locals when a costly mistake by fullback Harry Anderson led to City's second goal.

Anderson attempted a short pass-back to goalie Joe Travis and Nellistine, breaking in quickly, tapped the ball into the net, giving Travis no chance.

MISSED CHANCES

Seconds later goalie Pete Winter made a great save from Tom Cowper while at the other end, Cedric Robb and Carruthers had good chances in succession, Shores' Jimmy Spencer taking the ball off the line in another goal-mouth scramble. Nellistine came close to getting his second goal just before half time when he forced Travis to tip over the bar on a bullet drive from the wing.

City lost its territorial advantage with the start of the second half and found themselves constantly in danger.

Cowper shot wide from an acute angle after beating goalie Winter to a loose ball. Minutes later City made the same mistake, but Cowper didn't. Winter was far from home when North Shore's centre forward hit a shot that caromed off the post into the net at 12 minutes.

City then recovered to the extent that Carruthers blazed one by the post, but from then until the close the Reds were dominant and, in the final three minutes, forced four corners as they strove in vain for the equalizer. One North Shore try hit the cross bar and Winter saved well from Ion on a blazing shot.

Centre-half John Pickburn played one of his strongest games of the season while Winter was safe, although hustled heavily on occasions. Nellistine caught the fancy of the crowd for his first-half performance, but was replaced early in the second half, with Ab Travis moving to left wing and Chummy Crabbe taking over at right wing.

Nanaimo Clippers, who have insatiable appetites, will be looking for another banquet tonight.

Having picked the bones of Drake Hotel Saturday night in Nanaimo with a crushing 14-1 victory, Clippers will take on Navy tonight in the feature game of a twin bill at Memorial Arena.

The groggy Drakes meet C & C Taxi in the opener at 7.30.

Bud Dumont led Clippers' smashing assault on Drakes, rapping in six goals and assisting on a seventh. Les Corby spoiled Nanaimo's shutout plans with a goal late in the first period.

C & C Taxi could well be the big noise in tonight's games, even though they are in last place.

Bolstered by the addition of crafty Don Ashbee last week, following his release by the Victoria Cougars, Taximen will have another ex-Cougar in strip tonight when veteran Bernie Strongman returns to the fold.

Strongman had intimated he might not take his skates out of storage this year, but has been lured back in action and should be a help to C & C's defense.

BERNIE STRONGMAN
. . . plays tonight.

Joe Hospitalized

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Joe DiMaggio was hospitalized today for treatment of a duodenal ulcer that has troubled him for several years.

The Yankee Clipper, looking pale and drawn, entered the hospital yesterday "in considerable pain" for observation and treatment. His physician, Dr. Clifton Bennett, said Joe needed plenty of rest and lots of milk.

A meeting of the Greater Victoria Amateur Boxing Association to discuss plans for a forthcoming show will be held Tuesday night at 8 at the No. 1 Fire Hall, Cormorant Street.

Kins led, 27-20, at half-time, and then hooped 26 points in the last half to Cumberland 18.

Kins' Pat Mason topped all scorers with 17 points, while teammate Ev Donaldson got 13. Gray and Peckette led Cumberland scorers, each with 10 points.

Kins—Mason 17, Pickering 3, Donaldson 11, Kennedy 3, Lewis 3, Metcalfe 4, Cockburn 4, Yetman 6, Calhoun, Koski. Total 53.

Cumberland—Galeazzo, Gray 10, Bates 2, Pearce 2, Peckette 10, Patterson 9, Pymm 2, Watson 3. Total 38.

Giant-Brownie Clash May Decide Pro Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cleveland Browns and the New York Giants, two of professional football's finest defensive clubs, collide at the Polo Grounds in New York Sunday in a game that should settle the wrestling for the eastern division title of the National Football League.

"They'll have a psychological edge," New York coach Jim Lee Howell said. "They beat us last month 24-14."

Coach Hampton Pool of the Los Angeles Rams won't pick a winner but he calls the Giants the most improved club in the league, the toughest defensive team against running and thinks coach Jimmy Howell has done the greatest coaching job in the league this season.

This was after the Rams had climbed over the Giants 17-16 Saturday.

DEFEAT PHILADELPHIA

The Browns turned in a great defensive effort to defeat Philadelphia 6-0 and move into the eastern lead, a half-game in front of the Giants with 6-2 against the Giants' 6-3.

Detroit slipped by Green Bay 21-17 and took a firmer grip on its third straight western division championship.

In other games, the Chicago Bears took Baltimore 28-13 and the Chicago Cards thumped Washington 38-16. San Francisco dumped Pittsburgh 31-3 Saturday night.

WORSLEY INJURED; RANGERS CALL BOWER

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers learned today that goalie Lorne Worsley will be lost for a week or 10 days.

The Rangers this morning put in a rush call to their Vancouver farm of the Western Hockey League for Johnny Bower last year's netminder, who lost the job to Worsley this season. Bower is expected to arrive in time to play against Boston Wednesday.

Alouettes Qualify For Grey Cup Final

By MEL MORRIS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes, who seldom give an opposing team a break, handed Hamilton a pair of touchdowns on fumbles Saturday but still had plenty of firepower left to down the Tiger-Cats, 24-19, and advance into the Grey Cup final.

The win gave the Als the two-game total-points series 38-28, the exact 10-point margin quoted by Montreal odds-makers before the start of the set. Montreal defeated the defending Grey Cup champions 14-9 in Hamilton Wednesday.

Once more, it was the uncanny passing of all-star quarterback Sam Etcheverry that carried Montreal to victory before 21,025 fans. He combined with Alex Webster, the Big Four's leading scorer during the regular season, for a 102-yard touchdown play and hit Chuck Hunsinger with a short toss for another major after moving the ball into scoring position in a 79-yard play with Joey Pal. The Als' quarterback scored the other Montreal touchdown himself on a one-yard plunge.

RECOVER FUMBLES

Four Montreal fumbles, three of them recovered by Hamilton, kept the Ticats in contention until late in the fourth quarter.

Pete Karpuk scooped up a fumble by Webster on the Montreal 25 in the second quarter and raced into the end zone for the first Hamilton touchdown. Hunsinger dropped the ball on his own 33 while running back the kickoff to open the third quarter and the Tiger-Cats drove for another major, Lou Kusserow taking an eight-yard pass for the score six plays later.

Hamilton's last touchdown was scored by Ray Ramsey, who earlier threatened to become the goat of the game by dropping two passes while in the clear. Ramsey finally gathered in a long heave by quarterback Ed Songin in the fourth quarter and ran for a score on a play that covered 85 yards.

The kickers accounted for the rest of the points. End Ray Poole converted two of the Montreal touchdowns and kicked a field goal and a pair of singles. Tex Coulter added two more singles for the Als, while Tip Logan converted the three Hamilton touchdowns and Cam Fraser picked up a point when Bill Bewley was brought down in the Montreal end zone on his long kick.

MILES, LIPPMAN HURT

Esks Win Handily, But Dutchmen Rough

By LORNCE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos trampled Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 38-6 Saturday night and the scoreboard says they had an easy time, but the game brought complaints that the Grey Cup semifinals between the western interprovincial and Ontario rugby football unions isn't worth the candle.

The win qualified Esks, as expected, to meet Montreal Alouettes in the Grey Cup final at Varsity Stadium in Toronto Saturday but the risk of injury, and to a much lesser extent the risk of an upset defeat, may wipe out any renewal if some westerners have their way.

But for the fact halfback Rollie Miles is so durable, the feather-toed Negro might have been put on the sidelines by a jarring he took as he scored a touchdown.

Miles was carried off the field unconscious after being squeezed between quarterback Bob Celeri and another Dutchman as the eastern champions sought to prevent him from scoring a major.

Halfback Edward Glenn Lippman limped off the field after an old leg injury was aggravated.

Miles scored two touchdowns for Esks before he left the game and halfback Johnny Bright, a Calgary Stampeder castoff, also counted a couple.

The other Edmonton majors were scored by Lippman and tackle Jim Weatherall.

Tackle Bob Dean converted the six majors and added two single points on separate tries for field goals.

End Gerry MacTaggart caught a Celeri pass for the lone major scored by the eastern champions and halfback Paul Amodio converted it.

Dodger Move to West Coast Now Looms as Probability

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite all the denials being flung about, we are advised by a man close to the Brooklyn situation that there is every probability the Dodgers will be sold and moved either to Los Angeles or San Francisco within another year or two.

As the situation was explained to these ears, the Dodgers are making a certain amount of money where they are, but not enough that anything important is left for Walter O'Malley, the club's president and majority stockholder, after all obligations have been met.

Among the most important of these, we are told, is more than $70,000 which must go annually to Branch Rickey in continued payment for the Brooklyn stock the Mahatma surrendered when he sold out to O'Malley and transferred his operations to Pittsburgh.

These payments still have seven years to go.

There is no handy way of increasing the club's income. Its home park, Ebbett's Field, officially seats only just over 32,000 spectators.

This capacity serves very nicely most of the time, but it becomes a serious drawback when a big series comes up against one of the contenders such as Milwaukee and the Giants. It prevents the Dodgers from ever playing to the great crowds of 50,000 or 60,000 which occasionally glut the treasuries of their rivals.

The land upon which the tight little park is situated, smack in the heart of Brooklyn, is held to be very valuable. During Rickey's regime the club also bought up a mess of surrounding property.

All this, we are reminded, adds up to a whole lot of money just waiting to be accepted and socked in the bank the moment O'Malley decides he has had enough of living in comparative poverty and consents to give the west coast fans a break. Our man estimates that the Brooklyn president, a man of modest beginnings, might come out of the transaction with something close to $3,000,000, which would make a nice nest egg even after taxes.

NHL Color Cast Gets New Member

Henderson Sparkles For Bruins

By AL COLLETI

Sawchuk, Howe, Beliveau, Richard, Lumley and Lindsay are among the dozen or so "color" players in the National Hockey League that writers always seem to have a spot for in the headlines.

All turned in fine performances in an interesting six-game week-end as the NHL rolled into high gear. But it was a rookie goalie who stole the show with a pair of shutouts on successive nights.

Long John Henderson, a 21-year-old Torontonian brought up by Boston's Bruins from their Hershey, Pa., farm in the American Hockey League, did it the hard way by blanking two powerhouses, Toronto Maple Leafs 1-0 Saturday night, and Montreal Canadiens 2-0 Sunday night.

The six-foot four-inch, 195-pounder has allowed but three goals in his four appearances since he replaced the Boston veteran Sugar Jim Henry Nov. 17.

TERRY SETS TWO

Terry Sawchuk, twice winner of the Vezina trophy for the best goalie before he was nosed out in a photo finish by Harry Lumley last season, also chalked up two shutouts on successive nights but against the weakest club in the league, Chicago Black Hawks.

With Gordie Howe back in the fold to give the champion Detroit Red Wings the spark, Sawchuk whitewashed the Black Hawks 5-0 Saturday night and 1-0 Sunday night.

The Maple Leafs who have been in somewhat of a slump after going nine straight without a loss salvaged something from the week-end by coming from behind with two goals late in the third period to tie the Rangers 2-2 in New York Sunday night.

In the other league action the Canadiens tripped the Rangers 4-1 Saturday night before a home crowd of 14,451 fans. Jean Beliveau was the man of the hour with a pair of goals.

Canadiens now hold a four-point first-place lead with 27 points. The Red Wings picked up four points to move into a second-place tie with the Leafs.

EILERS IN NARROW WIN

Johnny Keeps Orphans Close

Vancouver Eilers 53, Victoria 47

No matter how bleak the senior basketball outlook may become in Victoria, the faithful can always point out big John Clark as one light in a sea of darkness.

Howie Tooby's senior A "Orphans," wearing borrowed uniforms, since they have been unable to find financial backing, lost a tough 53-47 decision to Vancouver Eilers Saturday night at Central Junior High School gym.

And about the only joy that could be derived from the game was that Clark was just as good as ever. John led the scorers of both teams, dumping in 21 points in spite of the lusty checking of Long John Forsythe, the Eilers' playing coach.

Lack of depth appeared to harm Tooby's squad more than any other factor. The starting line-up of Clark, George Denison, Don Hendry, Gordy Jones and Al Davies—the only non-holdover—was on better than equal terms with the Vancouver club and held a 25-21 lead at the half.

However, with the starters resting in the third quarter, Eilers' fast-break attack took the initiative away from the Victoria reserves.

Sharp-shooting Denison was second to Clark in the local scoring with 11 points, the same scores racked up by Bob Hindmarch and Doug Manning of Eilers.

In the preliminary game, Individual Cleaners handed a 60-38 pasting to a badly-outclassed Shamrock club in senior "B" action. Don Strank sparked the winners with 15 points, but Rocks' Bill Bamford was the big scorer, tossing in 18 points in a losing cause.

Eilers — Hindmarch 11, Manning 11, Brown 9, MacAfee 8, Forsythe 8, Ball 4, Lane 2. Total—53.

Victoria—Clark 21, Denison 11, Sleep 4, Hendry 4, Davies 3, Pedersen 2, Parker 2, Tooby, Sims, Jones, Jackson. Total—47.

Scots Upset Winning Ways Of Eagles

Two previously undefeated Eagles' team suffered their first defeats this season Saturday in Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association action.

All Sunday games were postponed due to rain.

Canadian Scottish teams made the big noise Saturday. In the third division, Scots upset Eagles, 3-0; while the fourth division Scottish team blanked Eagles, 1-0.

Jerry Booth scored a first-half goal for Scottish in the third division game, Alex Forbes and Willie Wong being second-half marksmen. Bob Muse booted a goal two minutes from time to give Scottish the fourth division victory.

In the only other contests played over the week-end, goals by Doug Fieldhouse and Ken Gardner gave Eagles' fifth division team a 2-0 decision over Combines and Sidney and cellar-dwelling Victoria West battled to a 1-1 draw at Sidney in a fourth division match.

Wallie Carbutt booted Wests into an early lead, but Sidney evened the count shortly after.

Heaneys Extend Lead; Rain Curtails Schedule

With wet weather wiping out a full slate of Sunday games, Heaneys and Tillicums were the only beneficiaries in week-end Victoria and District Football Association action.

One first division and three second division games were rained out Sunday when parks were deemed to be unplayable.

However, two games got by Saturday, Heaneys scoring a tight 2-1 victory over JBAA at Central Park and Tillicums whipping Combines, 6-1, in the second division.

Heaneys' victory, just as close as the score would indicate, solidified their first-place standing and gave them a clear four-point edge over second-place Esquimalt in the first division.

Tillicums, in sending Combines down to their 10th straight defeat, took over second place, just one point behind front-running Duncan.

In the first division game, JBAA held an offensive edge, but superb defensive work by goalie Glen Bath and centre half Ken Hill left the issue in doubt.

Fuzz Blair of JBAA gave his club the lead after 20 minutes of play when he lobbed a shot past Bath, but Heaneys took over from there. After 37 minutes, Stan Wiseman sent in a cross that Mel Sillars drove into the post. However, Ron Pearce came in fast to put the rebound past goalie Archie McMillan.

Fred McEvay got the winning goal after 15 minues of evenly divided play in the second half.

Jim McGee and Jack Paxton led the way for Tillicums over Combines, each collecting a pair of goals. Bud Brice and Jim Harrison each got singletons while Dave Ready accounted for the losers' lone goal.

TIME OUT! By JEFF KEATE

"Ain't easy to get a bowling league together up here in the Far North!"

Venture Grid Champs As City Season Ends

HMCS Venture 11
Royal Roads 7

If the training program out at HMCS Venture produces sailors of the same quality as its football players, Canada may yet rule the waves.

Venture's precision-drilled and fast-breaking junior football team, led by the passing and ball wizardry of Chuck Thomas, won the Victoria Junior Canadian Football League title and the Tommy Douglas Trophy on Saturday at Colville Road by scoring a rousing 11-7 victory over a tenacious Royal Roads squad in the sudden-death final.

Thomas, a former Vancouver junior star, heaved a touchdown pass in the last minute of play to bring Venture out of a hole and give them the city title in their first year of local competition.

It was a tough loss for Royal Roads, defending champions, as they appeared to have their second straight championship tucked away in deep freeze until Thomas picked his club up by the boot laces and engineered their decisive touchdown drive.

It was 5-1 for Venture at the end of the first quarter. Royal Roads' quarterback Ron Binnie booted a single for his club and Venture's shifty Gary Logan barreled 50 yards for an unconverted major. The spectacular Logan was injured on the play and was hobbled for the rest of the game.

With two hard-charging lines keeping the running games to a minimum, the score remained 5-1 through the second and third quarters and Royal Roads finally found the spark in the final quarter.

CADETS TAKE LEAD

Big Earl Law, a running and passing threat for the defending champs all afternoon, led a surge that covered 60 yards. Two passes, Law to Bain, carried the ball to the Venture 29 and Law then zeroed in on Bain with an endzone strike for the major that put Royal Roads ahead, 7-5.

Stung by the sudden reversal, Venture fought back into contention after receiving the ball in their own territory with only two minutes left in the game.

Spinning out from the single wing, Thomas pitched two strikes to John McIntosh. An offside penalty against the losers and a running play put Venture on Royal Roads' 35-yard line after the one-minute flag had gone up. Thomas then took the snap, drifted back and heaved to Jim Davies who fielded the ball and streaked into the end zone for the title-winning touchdown. Thomas also passed for the convert.

Grid Official Threatened With Violence

TORONTO (CP) — Fred Sgambatti, veteran Toronto football official who was attacked by a Queen's player in Saturday's senior college semifinal at Varsity Stadium, said Sunday night he received threats of more violence "the next time I go to Kingston."

Sgambatti said he received several telephone calls during the week-end from Queen's sympathizers who threatened him with bodily harm after Western Ontario Mustangs' last-second 20-18 victory over the Golden Gaels. One caller mentioned a possible lynching.

"They're the usual cowardly cranks," Sgambatti said. "They never have the courage to identify themselves."

Sgambatti was the umpire in the game. He was attacked and punched by Queen's backfielder Al Kocman after Gaels fumbled a kick in their end zone and the Mustangs fell on it for the game-winning major.

Sgambatti was menaced by fans and a member of the Queen's Highland band before being escorted to the dressing room by police. Officers also escorted him to his car.

The Queen's bandsman rushed into the fray on the field and was flattened by a punch from an unidentified protector of Sgambatti.

TARPAULIN ALREADY OUT FOR GREY CUP FINAL

TORONTO (BUP)—A threat of snowflurries prompted Varsity Stadium officials to spread out the Canadian Rugby Union's tarpaulin today to protect the turf for the Grey Cup final Saturday.

Stadium manager Harry Griffiths said the tarp would go down following the Mulock Cup semifinal this afternoon. He said no snow was expected before then.

USC Clipped by UCLA; Buckeyes in Rose Bowl

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — The scramble for lucrative bowl berths was not over by any means today, but no matter how the final pairings line up the "natural" of the year won't take place.

The Rose Bowl is the only one of the four big post-season extravaganzas filled. It will pit twice-beaten Southern California against mighty Ohio State Buckeyes. UCLA, one of the few teams in the country capable of giving the Buckeyes an argument, played in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, and, by Pacific Coast Conference edict, can't appear again.

So the rule has knocked out the game of the year. Both Ohio State and UCLA boast 9-0 records. Both are undisputed masters of their conferences, UCLA the PCC and Ohio State the Big 10, and they rank as the No. 1 and 2 teams in the nation.

DOUBT DISPELLED.

If there was any doubt as to who was best in the PCC, it was dispelled Saturday when UCLA clubbed the Trojans, 34-0.

Ohio State, meanwhile, was winning its seventh Big 10 game, a 21-7 decision over Michigan.

Two other teams emerged with bowl assignments as the final whistle blew on the last big week-end of '54—Arkansas as the Cotton Bowl host and Nebraska as the visitor for the Orange Bowl. But both sneaked in the back door.

Arkansas was beaten by Louisiana State 7-6 and Nebraska suffered a 55-7 pasting by Oklahoma. But Baylor beat Southern Methodist 33-21 in a southwest conference game. Since SMU was Arkansas' only competitor for the Cotton Bowl assignment, the defeat spelled the end for the Mustangs.

Oklahoma, like UCLA, is barred from appearing in the Orange Bowl. Oklahoma's victory over Nebraska gave the Sooners their seventh straight Big Seven title.

Bears Keep AHL Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds left Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League cellar Sunday night edging Bisons 5-4 at Providence to move into a fourth-place tie with Cleveland Barons.

Hershey Bears remained in first place Saturday, handing Buffalo a 4-1 loss in a rough game at Hershey, Pa. In other Saturday night games, Pittsburgh Hornets nipped Cleveland 5-4 at Cleveland to stay two points behind Hershey, and Springfield Indians moved alone into third place with a 4-3 win over Providence.

Four goals in the last period gave Reds their victory Sunday night. Bisons led 3-0 before Al Baccari scored the first of two goals in the second period. Baccari, Ken Davies, Frank O'Grady and coach Pat Egan scored in the third for a 5-3 lead, then Buffalo closed the scoring.

Sam Bettio scored twice for Bisons with Gaye Stewart and Don McLeod getting the others.

'Birds Come Close In Loss to Toronto

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Steve Oneschuk's accurate right toe carried Toronto Varsity Blues to a slim 5-3 exhibition football victory here Saturday against the fired-up University of British Columbia Thunderbirds. The Blues had to come from behind to win.

In winning, Varsity turned next Saturday's eastern final against University of Western Ontario Mustangs into an unofficial contest for the Canadian collegiate championship.

A disappointing crowd of about 5,500 braved a light rain to watch the winless Thunderbirds play their best game this year and come within an ace of upsetting the heavily-favored Toronto squad which had been expected to win by at least three touchdowns.

Instead, Thunderbirds, led by their hard-rushing line, kept the easterners from crossing their goal line and three times came within an ace of registering an upset.

FIELD GOAL EACH

All the scoring was confined to the second and third quarters, each club making good on a field goal in the second quarter and Oneschuk's booming punts accounting for two rouges in the third.

Bob Morford, a star with UBC's English rugger team, kicked a field goal from five yards out on the first play of the second quarter to account for Thunderbirds' three points. Oneschuk tied the score on a 20-yard field goal midway through the quarter, then twice in the third quarter kicked two singles.

Costly Fumble

TORONTO (CP) — All-star halfback Ron Stewart of Queen's Golden Gaels fumbled on the most important play of his brilliant career Saturday. It scuttled Gaels' first strong bid to win a senior intercollegiate football title since 1937 and gave Western Ontario Mustangs a 20-18 decision.

On the last play of the sudden-death college semifinal, Stewart bobbled the greasy ball as it bounced crazily into the end zone. End Don Killinger of Mustangs pounced on it for a touchdown that wiped out an 18-15 Queen's lead and sent Western into next Saturday's final against Varsity Blues.

Helioscope Candidate For Racing Honors

BALTIMORE (BUP) — Helioscope, a late-developing colt who didn't even get into the triple crown classics, has suddenly emerged as one of the leading candidates for racing's three-year-old honors.

The bay son of Heliopolis dashed through the rain and fog at old Pimlico Saturday to defeat Hasseyampa by four lengths in the $50,000 Pimlico special.

Leclair Injured

BOSTON (AP) Jackie Leclair, Montreal centre, was taken to Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary Sunday night after a second period accident in the Canadiens' National Hockey League game with Boston.

Leclair suffered a hemorrhaging iris in his left eye after running into Bruin captain Milt Schmidt's stick.

Boardwalk Billy In Headline Show

NEW YORK (UP) — Boardwalk Billy Smith, of Atlantic City, the ring's new Cinderella man, makes his first New York main-event appearance tonight in a 10-round bout with Archie McBride, of Trenton, N.J., at St. Nicholas Arena.

Now 33, jail-guard Billy has suddenly become the world's top-ranking light-heavyweight contender. He is probably the first fighter ever managed by a sheriff. But his three straight knockouts and seven straight victories indicate he needs no official assistance.

Anzac Rugby Squads Meet in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (BUP) — The New Zealand and Australian rugby league teams will clash in the Coliseum Sunday afternoon in what is billed as the first match of its kind ever held in the United States.

Both squads will arrive here Monday night and they will work out in the Coliseum Wednesday. In addition to the Coliseum match, the teams will play in the Long Beach municipal stadium Friday night.

TORONTO (CP)—The Earl Walls-James J. Parker bout for the Canadian heavyweight title has been postponed for the second time and now will take place Jan. 11.

Hepburn Sounds Off; Vancouver 'For Birds'

MONTREAL (BUP) — Former Canadian amateur weightlifting champion Doug Hepburn said last night he wished he hadn't been born in Vancouver, B.C., and officials there said the feeling was mutual.

Hepburn, here to make his professional strong-man debut, said after claiming two world lifting records that Vancouver Mayor Fred Hume capitalized on his British Empire Games record performance and failed to live up to a promise to help him set up a gymnasium.

"I'm disgusted with Vancouver," the beefy Hepburn told reporters. "That city's for the birds. I wish I wasn't born there."

In Vancouver, Alderman Birt Showler said Hepburn had "no legitimate complaint" against the city. Another city spokesman said the mayor, a contractor, carried the strongman on his payroll and allowed him "ample free time" to train.

Junior Grid Champs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor AKO, three-time eastern Canada junior champions, came from behind twice Saturday to edge the Winnipeg Rods, first-time western Canada titleholders 13-9, thereby returning the Regina Leader-Post trophy to the east.

Bay Ruggers Blanked, Still Seek First Win

James Bay Athletic Association senior ruggers found no good luck in the number seven Saturday as they went down to their sixth defeat in their seventh Miller Cup start.

Bays were blanked 8-0 at Macdonald Park by Vancouver Kats in a rough match that saw frequent displays of temper.

Bays, with several players forced out of the line-up through illness, held the strong Vancouver side to an unconverted try in the first half and a try and convert in the second half.

Kats made full use of their weight advantage to smother Bays' offensive efforts.

In second division play, Oak Bay Wanderers won by default over JBAA and Glenlyon School scored a hefty 23-0 win over JBAA in the midget division.

Murray Jonhstone led the impressive Glenlyon attack with a pair of trys while Joe Clark had a try and a convert. Pete Forsythe, Charles McLean, Ben Sills and David Walker each scored tries.

Normal Cagers Win

Dave Williamson scored 16 points to lead Normal School to a 63-41 exhibition basketball victory over Esquimalt High School Dockers Saturday night.

Chuck Bennett led the losers with 15 points.

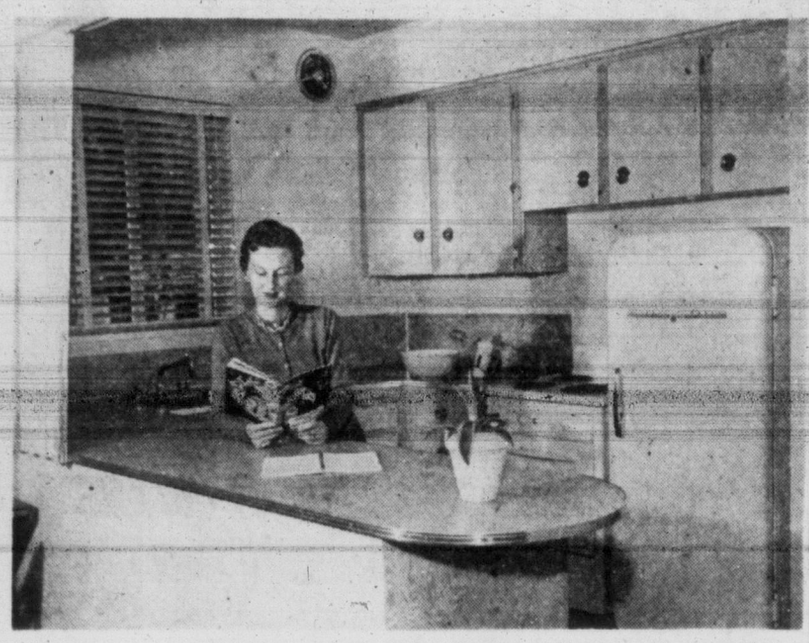
Victoria Kitchens Rank With Best



The trend to attractive, well-planned and ventilated kitchens, utilizing numerous work-saving appliances, also extends to apartment dwelling. Typical of handsome kitchen arrangements is the kitchen of Mrs. J. Quinn, 206 Collingwood Apartments, Fairfield and Vancouver Streets.

Companion piece to the automatic range in the modern kitchen is the electric refrigerator, such as that in the home of Mrs. D. Hunter Gordon, 3943 Locarno Lane, and for good reason. Today's refrigerator models are designed with a view to providing the proper space and temperature to keep every food at its best, from those requiring gentle freezing to those only to be chilled.

'White Christmas' Lasts All Year If Gifts Are Home Work-Savers

A woman's idea of Christmas all-year 'round is to have all the major appliances she wants and needs. The busy homemaker knows every day can be a holiday when she has such handy helpers as a modern range, refrigerator, freezer, washer, dryer, ironer and dishwasher to whisk her through her work. Housekeeping chores are a "daily dozen" to keep her buzzin' from morning 'til night—that's why the distaff side of the family welcomes Christmas giving that means easier living. And the welcome lasts for years and years when the gift is a major appliance.

As a gift guide for the Yuletide, local merchants are featuring a wide and wonderful selection of appliances that any woman would be happy to get, any man proud to give. All the famous brands are now on display in our local stores, presenting an exciting panorama of the newest labor-saving devices at all prices. And these nationally-advertised names you know mean you can shop in complete confidence and place full reliance on the appliance you buy. A major appliance is a major investment for most families—that's why it's so important to demand the brand you trust and treasure. An unknown substitute is often the root of disservice and dissatisfaction. To be sure of a lifetime of pleasure, smart Santas choose appliances made and backed by a renowned and reliable manufacturer. The secret of successful gift-giving is as simple as that!

There's more to a gift than giving it or getting it—using it is the main attraction and satisfaction. That's why appliances now take the centre of the Christmas stage. A major appliance is a thing of beauty, yes—but it does yeoman duty, too. It's truly the present with a future. Long after the heady fragrance of gift perfume has wafted away on the wind and baubles, bangles and beads have been interred in an attic trunk, appliances keep on giving the precious gift of gracious living. Of course, a lot of their usefulness depends on how they're used—and even if they're used. Today's appliances are designed and engineered to give the American woman more freedom from drudgery, more time for recreation—but, there's little point in possessing these modern marvels if they're not used to the limit of their capacity to work wonders. If you get it—use it! And be sure you use it properly. Read all the literature you get with your new appliance, study the directions, follow the manufacturer's suggestions, experiment with fresh ideas of your own, discover new time-saving techniques. Becoming acquainted with a 1955 model can be an eye-opening adventure in beautiful, practical, economical living.

One of the happiest features of a new appliance is its versatility. A few fresh ideas are all you need to use almost any appliance for a myriad of purposes beyond even the manufacturer's wildest dreams. For example, you can add such an elegant touch to any meal by using your dishwasher as a plate warmer—and many will turn the trick. What a gourmet air of distinction hot plates give to your settings when you dine or entertain!

If you bought a washer with a suds-saver, it was to save soap and water. So save suds from fabrics that are lightly soiled and use them for materials that do well when washed at low temperatures. Got a two-thermostat ironer? When you're ironing little garments that cover only half the roll, turn off the far thermostat.

Of course, you fry delectable food in your deep-fat fryer, but you can use the low temperature setting for heating rolls for a party, for baking beans, for cooking delicious stews or making your favorite soup—and the same thing goes for the deepwell cooker built into your range!

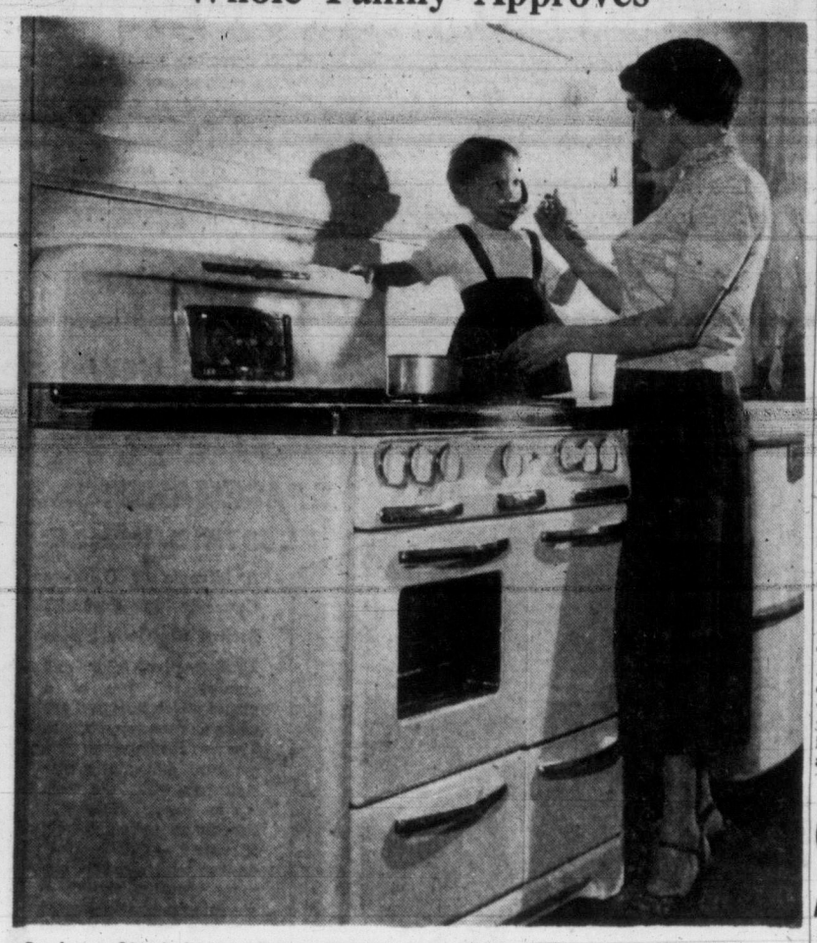
Whole Family Approves



Lori, age 2½, indicates she very much approves of the cooking of her mother, Mrs. R. V. Gray, 230 Moss Street, done on a strikingly attractive and modern gas range. Besides the automatic double oven, and easy-to-view window, the range serves the additional role of being an auxiliary space heater for the kitchen.

Meat Almost Cooks Itself On New Automatic Ranges

Once upon a time, Mom would slave over a hot range for hours preparing lunch for the kiddies or dinner for the family. Now, the meal practically cooks itself while she relaxes with a book, does other household chores or sits down with her bridge club in the living room. It's all done with push-buttons and automatic timers that start the stove and turn it off automatically when the proper moment of perfect savor and flavor comes.

And the cooking is completely controlled exactly as you want it, even if you're miles away. Lucky indeed is the lady who gets the lasting luxury, convenience and economy of a modern oven, the gift that keeps giving through the years.

RANGE OF FEATURES

The new ranges offer a wide choice of models, makes and features from which to select the one to delight the home-maker at the top of your list. There are styles in all widths and sizes, with single or double ovens, automatic controls, divided tops, generous work surfaces, deepwell cookers, built-in griddles, condiment bins, automatic controls, clock timers, appliance outlets, adjustable lamps, self-locking safety devices, waist-high broilers, back-guard panels, storage drawers, warming compartments, warning lights, glass windows, rotissieries, color-keyed trims, racks, shelves and a hotst of other advanced features to bring a glow to her heart, a gleam to her eye.

"COOK'S TOUR"

Today, you can almost take a vacation right in your own kitchen. The wonderful new ovens will do your work while you play, give you extra leisure for more pleasure. But, it's imporaant to understand fully just how these modern marvels operate to make the most out of the time-saving, energy-saving and money-saving qualities that are built into them. Be sure you read all the directions that come with the stove and follow the procedures recommended by the manufacturer. The range you buy has been carefully engineered and tested to do the job you expect . . . and if you use it properly. It's up to you to get your money's worth by taking advantage of all the fabulous features that make the 1955 models such household gems.

AUTOMATIC OVEN

Your high broiler makes it easy to watch and simple to turn broiling foods. And many broilers can double as an extra oven for a meal that needs two oven temperatures for best results. If your stove has automatic oven control, learn how it works. Some turn oven-heat off at the time you choose, and the roast finishes cooking on retained heat. Others operate differently, but all work with efficiency. You know a deep-well cooker makes marvellous stews. But, it's also fine for popcorn, dumplings, puddings, soup—and may serve very well as a handy deep-fat fryer.

CONVENIENT STORAGE

Take a look at the storage compartment of your range—you can use it to store utensils. The shelf is convenient for easy filing of your shallow pans, trays and cake racks. If you have an outlet that says "timed," it's controlled by the automatic oven control and will turn the heat on-and-off without being watched. Use it for running any of your pet automatic devices. It will have your coffee perking merrily in the morning while you're still brushing your teeth, even turn on you favorite radio program as you sit down to breakfast. There's no end to what a friend your new range can be if you treat it as the servant—not the mistress—of the house.

Stove Tops Used More Than Ever

Today's ranges—with their clean, streamlined, functional styling bring more beauty into the home and do more duty in the kitchen. They make cooking so simple and pleasurable that the gift of a new range can change a woman's whole outlook on preparing meals for her family. Now—you may be surprised to learn— 85 per cent of all cooking is done on top of the range.

Unknown to many home-makers are the delights of simmering, steaming, poaching and sauce-making. They use the range merely for frying and boiling—yet the modern range is so useful and versatile that it opens the door to new cooking adventures for even a culinary novice.

Don't be afraid of your new stove. After you've displayed your magnificient gift to admiring neighbors, set out to discover all the wonders the manufacturer has built into it. Though the types of controls and the number of heat selection positions may vary on the various nationally-advertised brands and models, they all supply the specific heat designated by the marking—and they do it every time you turn it on! In choosing the setting you must consider the amount of food to be cooked, the pot or pan you use and whether or not it has a tight-fitting cover.

Ranges with a built-in deep-well cooker make it convenient to prepare a wide variety of foods which require long, slow cooking—soups, stews, chili, cereals. And don't overlook its practicality in sterilizing baby bottles and canning jars—even popping corn! Put your cooker through all its paces — some rise to the surface to act as an extra cooking unit, some offer a pressure cooking accessory that fits into the well, some give you perfect deep-fat frying.

An entirely new way to cook with completely new flavor is the happy experience of the home-maker whose "White" Christmas brought her the gift of a range with a built-in griddle. If you've tried grilling in a skillet, you know it's practically impossible because the food cooks in the accumulated hot fat—but the griddle drains these drippings away for crisp, clear, greaseless flavor. And it can be used as a dishwarmer, a hot plate or a top-of-range cooking unit.

Thanks to the efficient engineering of the modern range, your oven-prepared foods can be much better than Grandma's—and much much easier on the cook! Thermostatic controls and even distribution of heat roasts meats to perfection—crisp and brown on the outside, tender and juicy inside.

Clean Them Easily

If you're lucky enough to get the gift of a new gas or electric range, you'll want to invite the neighbors in to preen—but make sure you keep that prize present clean. Modern ranges are amazingly easy to keep as sparkling as new. That gleaming finish is porcelain-enamel—actually a highly durable form of glass. All it requires is a brief wipe-off with a gentle, non-abrasive cleaner after each meal—and a general cleaning once a week.

REMOVABLE UNITS

You can clean surface units any time—when they are cool enough to handle, of course. It is much easier to wipe away spillage each time the units are used. It is practical to remove the reflector pans under electric cooking units and wash them as you do any other utensil. Before putting them back in place, wipe with a damp cloth around the ring or band between unit and range surface—then replace the units in their original positions. Most ranges—gas or electric—have a tray beneath the reflector pans or burners. It's a life-saver when foods and liquids spill over—but remember to remove and clean it. Clean the deep-well cooker just as you do the surface units.

Full Face-Lifting Exciting Project

The most magnificient gift any family can get is a complete modernization, with all the appliances that your lady wishes, of course! If you can swing it, no gesture is so grand and glorious! But, most such undertakings are planned piecemeal—they're easier step-by-step. You can start this Christman by putting the project into the scheme-stage, at least and taking it out of the only-a-dream-stage by buying the little woman one or more of the appliances she covets.

First thing to do is think it over, talk it over. Have a clear mental picture of what your house needs to make it a modern home. Then, get all the ideas on modernizing that you can from manufacturers and dealers—read the manufacturers' literature for valuable suggestions and information about materials and equipment. The next step is to organize your projects — decide which will bring the greatest benefits to your family in living comfort and efficiency and give them top priority.

START PLANNING

Put your plans on paper. Use plastic models and cardboard cutouts of equipment, appliances and furnishings to visualize the changes you want to make. These aids are available at many dealers. If you can, employ an architect. He will more than earn his fee—especially if the projects are big. In any event, don't forget to check local building codes and zoning regulations.

Select materials and equipment and note down work you will want to do yourself. Don't undertake jobs that require more skill than you possess or more time than you can devote. Two of the most important steps to take are getting cost estimates and arranging financing a number of different types of loans are available

It's Always Hot

Few appliances surpass in popularity the automatic storage water heater, gas or electric, which will provide hot water around the clock without any effort at all on the owner's part. Dealers and plumbers can give you valuable information about the selection of proper size for your household. Mrs. L. Minnis, 421 St. Charles Street, looks over a 40-gallon automatic storage water heater.

Versatility Keynote

The new gas and electric ranges include models of advanced design that will let the homemaker cook as many as seven separate ways without using extra utensils or equipment. The woman who receives one of these for Christmas can cook a wide variety of ways — deep-fat fry, simmer, griddle-fry, boil, bake, roast and even popcorn—all with built-ins that are an integral part of the range. These new developments mark an important step forward for homemakers, because all necessary phases of everyday cooking can be performed conveniently at a single, self-contained cooking centre. Extra pots, pans, skillets — and even some plug-in appliances — are not required.

Shop Around For Financing

In her happiest day-dreams, the homemaker imagines herself floating into store after store ordering all the wonderful appliances she wants and needs, the miraculous machines that will magically transform her from a harried housewife into a lady of leisure. But, let's face it—few of us have on hand the money we would need to take complete advantage of all the labor-saving designs and appliances provided by a truly modern kitchen. Today's determined woman doesn't let a lack of the "green stuff" stop her—she turns to the one of the many methods of financing open to her, the one that best suits her situation.

In her pursuit of happiness, the housewife may choose a personal loan company, bank loan, a secured bank loan, a credit union loan, a retail payment plan, refinancing of mortgage, or other sources.

You have to weigh the requirements, repayments and cost of every type of loan and decide which is safest, thriftiest and easiest for you.

Of course, nothing beats paying cash—you have no credit charges, no weekly or monthly payments to meet. And what you buy is yours once and for all. However, the mushrooming volume of consumer credit proves that most of us don't usually have enough savings to pay for major purchases in one lump sum. But, it's important to shop as carefully for money as for the things you want to buy with it. Like everything else in the marketplace, money also costs money. You can pay too much for it, or get it at a bargain. The bank that offers you a loan and the store that gives you credit aren't doing you a favor—they are selling these special services and you pay for them.

It's wise to ask as many questions as may pop into your mind and your mouth—even if they seem a little silly to you—until you're sure you know just what you're getting. Find out about all the charges, figure the total cost. It's easy—subtract the price of the item from what you'll have to pay, including down payment plus all instalments. Also inquire whether the interest is computed on the whole amount, or only on the outstanding balance—and whether its deducted beforehand from the face amount of the loan or purchase price. Bankers and retailers welcome your questions—they, like you, don't want any unpleasant surprises later.

BALANCE BUDGET

Before you decide, see that the payments you commit yourself to making won't overburden the family budget. Your new kitchen should be working for you—not you working for it. When you've decided what kind of loan or payment plan is best for you—and understand all its terms—then, and only then, sign your name on the dotted line.

Modern Wiring Needed

Homemakers are cautioned by service engineers against trying to operate ultra-modern kitchens and laundry rooms in houses with inadequate wiring systems. Service engineers assert that inadequate wiring can be found in many new houses across the country, as well as in older structures designed for an out-dated way of life. They point out that there are more major appliances being used in homes today than ever before in history and increasing heavy electric loads are being thrown on household wiring systems.

Only a few years ago, most houses were rarely equipped with more than one or two major electric appliances. By way of contrast, today it is not uncommon to find five or six major electric appliances in the home. These can include an electric refrigerator, range, food freezer, automatic washer, dryer, ironer, dishwasher and many others. Such appliances as air conditioners, electric dehumidifiers and electric water heaters are being used with television and radio sets, together with electrically controlled and operated heating systems.

EFFICIENT PERFORMANCE

Along with being dangerous as a possible cause of fire, inadequate wiring can reduce the operational performance of an otherwise efficient appliance, causing dissatisfaction on the part of the homemaker. This is caused primarily by low voltage input at the appliance installation.

Modern Ease, Convenience

The ease and convenience supplied by modern, gleaming appliances is reflected in the kitchen of Mrs. M. Fallis, 1655 Earle Street. Complementing the new home is an attractive refrigerator and sparklingly new electric range which provides a maximum of automatic features for cooking and baking, yet requires a minimum of floor space.

Every Year Wife Can Save 45 Days of Dish Washing

Now that statisticians have established that the average housewife washes dishes about 1,895 times every year, it's easy to understand why an automatic dishwasher is at the top of her "what I want most for Christmas" list. A homemaker devotes nearly a full hour every day to this job. In a year's time that's more than 45 eight-hour days spent at the sink! No wonder she dreams of the day she can lay that burden down! And the new models are designed with her in mind.

They offer such features as thermostatic temperature control of the water, single-dial operation, removable panels to make possible matching custom kitchen installations, water-softening action, rotating racks, signal light, self-cleaning interior, safety doors, strainer system and dozens of other devices to make "doing" the dishes easier, faster and safer than ever! For gifts to complement your kitchen arrangement, you may choose from free-standing or under-the-counter models.

SAVES TIME, LABOR

If you think a woman's time and labor is precious, you can readily appreciate how valuable an hour-and-work saver a dishwasher is! Instead of spending those after-dinner moments scrubbing dishes at the sink, the housewife can be having fun with her family. And modern marriage counsellors know how important such family relaxation can be in promoting a stable, secure and happy home.

Underneath the smart lines and sparkling beauty of your dishwasher is the sturdy construction and engineering perfection that is characteristic of practically all nationally-advertised brands. The machine you buy—if it is a well-advertised brand—is guaranteed by its maker against mechanical failure and defective workmanship. Be sure you read the literature that comes with your dishwasher for complete safety and satisfaction. Created for convenience and economy, most dishwashers carefully measure the water they consume—and conserve detergent, too.

Unseen Gas Boon

Although it is not commonly known among today's crop of homemakers, the refrigerants used in household refrigerators, food freezers and air conditioners produced by major companies, set new high standards for safety in the home. Prior to the development of Freon more than two decades ago by Frigidaire and General Motors research organizations many household refrigerators contained refrigerants, which were not only explosive under certain conditions, but if leaks in the refrigerant tubes occurred there was danger of asphyxiation.

Freon, which was made available to the entire refrigeration industry, is practically odorless and does not irritate the nose, eyes, throat or lungs. It is non-explosive and will not burn. Freon will not affect the odor, taste or structure of foods if a leak should occur in the refrigerator system.

Hard Work Gone From Wash Day

There's hardly a man or woman now alive—in Canada any way—who still remembers the quaint old custom of taking the clothes down to the side of a rushing stream to wash them, flailing them lustily against worn-smooth stones to beat the imbedded dirt out. Even grandma bending painfully over her battered tin tub to scrub-a-scrub-scrub is a faded memory to most of us. All these primitive methods of washing clothes are dim folktales now, roseate with the tender charm of ancient history and softened by the glow of the passing years.

But, for the luckless lasses whose toil removed the soil, it was hard and heavy work. Today's wives, blessed with the magic of a new clothes washer, have a modern gift of the Magi. Give the lovely lady this dream of an appliance and you give her leisure — more comfort, more convenience, more relaxation. Present her with a new clothes washer and you give her health — less fatigue, less strain, less tension. It's the most thoughtful gift of all because it's the most useful gift of all.

The 1955 clothes washers are beautiful, practical and economical, too. Not merely in the mundane matter of price alone either—although they give so much for so little—but in the day-in-day-out thriftiness of saving money on laundry bills. Here is the gift even a man can see makes dollars and sense.

MYRIAD OF MARVELS

The story of the new washers makes thrilling reading to the wise wives who want to lead easier lives. This year you can have such fabulous features as color-coded controls, illuminated dials, mobile casters, shampoo actions, automatic cycles that wash and spin and pre-rinse to flush away suds, controls that repeat or skip any stage in the washing process, overflow rinses, choice of water temperature, doors that act as weight scales, water-level controls, pressure sprays, suds-savers and a myriad of other marvels that make short shrift of the most wearisome, worrisome chore that ever a woman bore.

WASHERS WON'T SHIRK

The fortunate female of the species who receives a washer for Christmas will soon know what bliss it is to sit and take it easy while that amazing machine gets her clothes clean. It can tint your washables, blue them, bleach them, starch them. But, like everything mechanical, your washer will do its job well only if you use it correctly and give it the care it deserves. First of all, get to know your washer the way the man of the menage learns about his new car—by reading, understanding and following every word in the service manual provided by the maker. You can be as much of an expert on your machine as the spouse of the house is on his. And it's a smarty of a party who asks her husband to meander through the instructions, too. When you know your washer like a book you'll spare yourself anxious moments of fretting about a rumble as the clothes tumble.

You—yes, you—will be able to diagnose many a malady of the machine, and decide whether to attempt simple self-prescribed home remedies or send for the doctor in the form of a service man. Nine times out of ten, the fault will lie with you and not with the washer. Even if you fancy yourself a mistress mechanic, never tamper with the timer and switch assembly, the motor, the pump or any other vital part that's the heart of the appliance. That's the service man's forte—strictly verboten for the self-taught.

PERFORMANCE POINTERS

The old saw about an ounce of prevention applies to your appliance. If something goes wrong, ask yourself the following questions:

Are you using the recommended soaps or detergents? If not, don't expect the washer to get your clothes clean. And remember that only soaps, detergents and bleaches should go into your washer—never use dry cleaning fluids, kerosene gasoline or other dangerous concoctions. Does your washer have the correct power? It should be plugged into an outlet that is not supplying current to any other electrical equipment. And never—but never—use an extension cord! Does the machine wobble or vibrate? It will if your laundry is an "off-balance" load. A heavy article, like a rug or pillow, can cause this because it doesn't reach around the tub. Put in an equalizing object to compensate. Also check the leveling adjustment — most washers have it. Don't let these better performance pointers faze you—your washer is a treat, and probably will never need treatment.

WASH DAY PLAY

You can save time and effort by having all your laundry supplies handy before you tackle the wash. It's a good idea to have a convenient shelf nearby to hold soaps, detergents, water softeners if your water is hard, starch, bleach, bluing, measuring cup or spoon. Sort your wash by dividing into two piles —whites, colored things. Subsort the two piles by fabric—cotton requires a longer cycle and higher water temperature than wool, rayon acetate, and the miracle fibres. Load with care, using a scale—if each piece moves freely through the water during the washing process, you have loaded properly. Trial and error will banish the terror of overloading. When your washday is over, leave the machine in apple-pie order so it will be ready for the next time you try your wings on the family's things.

When the house is hung with holly, nothing could make a woman more jolly than the gift of a washing machine. For Christmas she won't forget, remember "her" with this housekeeping aid whose luxury will never fade.

No Weather Worries Here

The all-electric home of Mrs. H. O. Watkins, 3332 Doncaster, includes a modern laundry, with matched automatic washer, automatic dryer and automatic ironer. The appliances offer year-round convenience, and make wash day independent of the weather.

Clothes-Drying Job Push-Button Matter

Ever since Eve, no woman breathes who doesn't dream of banishing the bore of every household chore. And not the least of these is drying the mountains of clothes she washes every week for her family. As the laundry climbs higher, her spirits sink lower. But—see how the present of an automatic clothes dryer will brighten her days and lighten her tasks! Here's a gift to give her a lift—right out of a hectic rut into a bright new world of leisure and pleasure.

Never again will her wash whip on a line in the wind, at every whim of the weather. No longer need freshly laundered things be exposed to all outdoors to collect soot and soil after hours of toil getting them sweet and clean—nor need colors be subjected to pitiless rays of the sun. A dryer will spare the clothes and bear the burden of one of the dreariest, weariest jobs on the homemaker's calendar. And the money saved on laundry bills means so many extra little luxuries for the lady, her spouse and the children of the house.

The new models provide a wide variety of appealing features for comfort, convenience and economy. Among the striking innovations offered in the 1955 dryers are color-coded control dials, choice of high or low temperatures for various fabrics, automatic sprinkler to ready clothes for ironing, lint trap, ozone lamp to give clothes that sunshine-fresh smell without sunshine-fade, inside light that goes on when door is opened, timer to start and control drying cycle duration, operation without heat for fluffing clothes, safety signal to indicate when cycle is complete, dry or damp-dry stage selection, filtered air flow system, built-in heating unit to supplement water heaters, and many more marvels to pamper her this Christmas and for many Christmases to come. And if you want to see stars in her eyes, present her with both a washer and a dryer—gas or electric—for the merriest Christmas a homemaker ever had!

DRYERS VERSATILE

The basic function of a dryer is taken for granted, of course —it dries clohtes fluffy, soft and sweet in jig-time, eliminates messy indoor drying in inclement weather, frozen fingers and clothes on wintry days, breeze-ripped clothes on outdoor lines, tired muscles from carrying and hanging and clothes-pinning, precious hours that could be devotedto personal freedom or fun with the family. But, in addition to all this, the versatile dryer can take over many of your ironing chores. It's amazing how many things will smooth out or fluff up in your dryer—any time of the year—for immediate wear without the need for ironing.

Even the daintiest nylons can be dried in your dryer. Use the lowest temperature setting and take them out when they're still slightly damp—just after a few minutes in the machine. Hang them up, and by the time your make-up is properly in place they're ready to wear anywhere. Snowsuits take time to drip dry —but, with a dryer, you can have daughter's or son's ready to wear by the time the youngster wants to go out and romp in the snow again. Finger-press the seams for added smoothness —it's that easy! Blue jeans, baby garments, men's underwear, work clothes, house dresses and if you stop to analyze it— a host of most of the things you spend hours ironing comes out of the dryer in perfect condition to wear.

The work-wise housewife has another ace up her sleeve if she had a dryer. Velvet dresses, jackets and coats can be beautifully reconditioned in a dryer. A smart homemaker tosses a wet bath towel into the dryer—when the dryer is steam-filled, she adds the velvet garments and the wrinkles disappear like magic! This slick trick will work on gabardines and many other fabrics, too.

Self-Defrosting Greatest Advance

Refrigerators that defrost themselves are as great a mechanical marvel in this decade as the first automobile designed to start at the touch of a foot-pedal, a generation ago. The self-starter eliminated the most back-breaking chore of the early automobile driver, and from a novel accessory it has come to be a fundamental standard. In the 40 years that the electric household refrigerator has been the most essential mechanical servant in the family kitchen, the only real task it presented to the homemaker was the chore or regular defrosting.

Today, the invention of ways to accomplish defrosting swiftly and efficiently, without harming stored frozen foods, has made messy hand-defrosting as out-of-date as the hand-cranked car. The trade-mark of the modern refrigerator is its ability to free itself from frost, either at the touch of a button, or on a regular basis, without watching.

On a wide selection of new models, the automatic defrosting system is not an extra-price feature but standard equipment.

How To Save Time, Work, Money

A practical addition to the modern household is an up-to-date home freezer. It makes possible bulk purchases, reduces the time spent in shopping and is a particular pride and joy of those devoted to gardening, fishing or hunting. Mrs. Gar Taylor, 1531 Jubilee, puts away meat packages, the spoils of a successful hunting trip shared with her husband.

Stove Signal Handy

Mrs. Canada is spending less time in the kitchen than ever before, since the electric timer on her range took over her pot-watching chores. The most enjoyable part of her new-found freedom, many housewives agree, is her ability to share in the family's pre-meal relaxation with her mind at ease. For, she knows that a sure-to-be-heard, impossible-to-ignore signal will tell her when her meal requires her personal attention.

Yes, Canada's range manufacturers are making life easier and more enjoyable for the average housewife. Working closely with the electric timing industry, they now offer ranges with built-in timers that give as much freedom as the housewife demands or her budget permits.

READY-TO-SERVE

Modern electric timers run the gamut from models that automatically turn an oven on or off at pre-selected times to ones than merely signal when the meal is ready to serve.

Telechron electric timers for electric and gas ranges place major emphasis on telling the time of day and/or signalling. One popular Telechron electric timer, for example, performs three functions. It automatically signals at the end of any pre-selected time between one minute and one hour. Its buzzer keeps signalling for five minutes, or until it is turned off automatically.

Freezers Pay Way

Baby, it's cold inside a home freezer! And that intense and miraculous cold is a gift more precious than gold to any woman. Best of all to budget-wise husbands and wives, it's a present that—in terms of money saved—doesn't cost a penny to give and to have through the long years of its faithful and fabulous service. A recent survey reported that 92 per cent of the families who have owned a freezer for five or more years said "it paid its way in money saved or in added convenience."

Today's housewife doesn't need statistics to prove the value of a home freezer. She knows it saves her time, steps and money every busy day of the year.

BOUNTIFUL BENEFITS

Since the days of our shaggy caveman ancestors, woman has been faced with the problem of preserving and storing food for the feeding of her family. Over the centuries, the human race developed a whole trunkful of tricks to keep food fit for consumption.

Meat and fish were smoked and spiced, pickled in brine or vinegar. Fruits and vegetables were dried and hung in the rafters until needed. Ancient man even experimented with frozen foods.

Nero, when he wasn't fiddling, gorged himself on a primitive ice cream made from snow brought down from the Alps—and actually preserved some of his favorite foods by cooling them with snow. Fifteen hundred years later, Sir Francis Bacon stuffed pheasants with snow and served these delicacies to the gentlemen of Shakespeare's time long after he went a-hunting.

On our own continent, Eskimos discovered that freshly-caught fish, stacked on the ice beside their fish-holes, froze and stayed fresh indefinitely. Of course, they had the undeniable advantage of dwelling in an igloo, which is a home freezer in its fullest sense.

Modern homemakers don't have to live in one to derive its bountiful benefits. In recent times, methods of canning and dehydration were found effective—but these change the character and flavor of foods.

KEEPS FOODS FRESH

Until now, the preparation and serving of fresh foods had to be a "hand-to-mouth" matter. Homemakers had to shop almost every day because, except through ordinary household refrigeration, they had no way to keep foods truly fresh. The home freezer changed all that. It keeps fresh foods at their peak of flavor for weeks, months, even years.

A home freezer frees "her" from the tedium of three-times-a-day food preparation and frequent whatever-the-weather shopping. With it, she can prepare meals in advance—ready for cooking or completely cooked — and keep them until needed, hours or days later.

Then, just before mealtime, she can pop them into the oven and have them ready to serve in minutes—piping hot, delicious, healthful—with all their fresh flavor minerals and vitamins.

LESS SHOPPING

The homemaker or hostess can plan her shopping trips at her own sweet convenience—cut them to one a week or a month and save money by buying foods in quantity when plentiful and low in price.

Her freezer will store them, with all their goodness retained, until the moment she wants them for her menu. And she can prepare enough pies, cakes and cookies for weeks—ready-to-bake or already baked.

Children's school lunches can be whipped up far in advance of the morning bell—sandwiches made, everything wrapped and ready for the youngsters when they leave for class.

Leftovers need never, never go to waste or be served day-after-day till they spoil the family's taste for them—you can store them for weeks in your freezer, serve them when they're a novelty again.

SAVE ON FOOD BILLS

With a home freezer, you not only save on shopping time and meal preparation—but you can actually save enough on food bills to pay for the freezer itself. It's estimated that the average family wastes 10 per cent of its budget on food spoilage and waste. That's banished forever with a home freezer.

For the gift of a lifetime, give her a home freezer this Christmas. You can choose from models and sizes to fit every family's needs, every type of home, every budget. It's the gift that does as much for the giver as the receiver—the master of the manor eats better and spends less, the lady of the larder shops less and saves more.

Meat Varies In Keeping

The average homemaker might find it profitable to take a lesson from her butcher on how long unfrozen meats can be stored in the regular food compartment of her new Christmas gift refrigerator without spoiling or losing quality. Contrary to popular belief, the refrigerator "storage life" of all types of meat is not the same.

The safe storage period of certain types of meat can vary as much from two to 40 days, if kept in the regular food compartment of the refrigerator. Refrigeration experts urge homemakers to freeze as much as possible for long storage periods. A good general rule to follow, they declare, is when in doubt—freeze the meat.

Recent tests conducted with the food compartment of a household refrigerator maintaining 38 degrees Fahrenheit, proved the average safe storage period for fresh, unfrozen hamburger was about four days, while beef steak stored in the same refrigerator had a safe storage life of about eight days. Thus, if the homemaker expects hamburger to keep as long as steak, she is bound to be disappointed.

Some of the more perishable beef items such as liver and heart, have an even shorter storage life. The average storage time for heart was two days, and liver ranged from two to six days. A rib roast of beef showed that it could be safely stored for over ten days. The safe refrigerated storage period for lamb and veal was about six days as far as chops and cutlets were concerned. However, veal kidneys had a safe storage life of only about two days. Approximate safe storage times for other meats included: chicken—seven to nine days; sausage — seven days; chops — three to five days; frankfurters — eight to nine days; ham — twenty-five days; sliced bacon — twenty-six days; smoked tongue—forty days.

National Unity Theme At Laurier Memorial

Prime Minister St. Laurent Unveils Monument To Great Liberal Leader in Quebec Park

QUEBEC (CP)—National unity and remembrance of the man who made it the cornerstone of his political career Sunday brought together two veteran political leaders now trying to patch a 10-year split in their governments' economic relations.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis of Quebec stood, with bowed heads, at the base of a monument to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, united in tribute to Canada's first French-speaking prime minister. Sir Wilfrid was Liberal prime minister between 1896 and 1911.

Mr. St. Laurent, who holds the Commons seat of Quebec East, formerly represented by Sir Wilfrid, pulled the string that unveiled the nine-foot bronze statue of the statesman Quebecers still revere. Portraits of Laurier hang even now in many Quebec farm homes.

A small crowd of 300 braved a steady drizzle of cold rain to attend the ceremonies at Langelier Park. The monument, set on a base of Lake St. John marble, overlooks a busy lowertown intersection.

Mr. St. Laurent, in a 15-minute speech following the ceremony, said Canadians must strengthen national unity while "carefully' preserving the basic characteristics of the nation.

Mr. Duplessis, who followed the prime minister, recalled that Sir Wilfrid once said Canada's federatve form of government was adopted "to safeguard Quebec's unique position on the American continent."

Neither alluded to negotiations under way since their meeting in Montreal, October 5, aimed at a taxation agreement to bring the province into the national pattern of federal provincial tax agreements.

Presiding jointly at the meeting at Durocher Hall following the unveiling were Lt.-Col. Oscar Gilbert, president and publisher of the Quebec daily newspapers Le Soleil and L'Evenement - Journal, and Charles G. Power, Commons member for Quebec South, and last surviving Liberal member to sit in Parliament with Sir Wilfrid.

Erection of the monument was made possible by a $35,000 subscription collected by a committee headed by Mr. Gilbert. The Quebec government contributed $20,000.

Mr. Gilbert described Sir Wilfrid as the man who "worked all his life to unite Canadians of all races and religions," while Mr. Power said the Fathers of Confederation gave Canada a constitution but "it was Laurier who breathed life into it."

Four Airmen, Nurse Killed In Que. Crash

ST. ANDRE D'ARGENTEUIL, Que. (CP) — A twin-engined RCAF communications plane crashed in a forest near this small Ottawa Valley village Saturday, killing a nursing sister and four airmen.

Wreckage was spread over a two-mile area of the heavily-wooded area after the plane's two engines exploded on hurtling into the ground. There was no fire.

The air force victims were identified as:

FO Kenneth B. Ttester, of Calgary, pilot of the Beechcraft; FO Robert Frank Sinclair, 30, Medicine Hat, Alta.; Cpl. Peter Mill, Jr., 24, Truro, N.S., and Cpl. Joseph Francois Roland Aloise, 34, Montreal.

Identity of the nursing sister was withheld until relatives had been located.

Farmers from nearby dwellings, who were the first to reach the wreckage, said they believed there might be a sixth body in the debris. However, RCAF officials and provincial police said only five were aboard.

Villagers here reported hearing three explosions as the plane passed overhead toward the east. The aircraft crashed about two miles east of St. Andre D'Argenteuil, which is 45 miles northwest of Montreal.

The plane was on a routine flight from St. John's, Que., to Cornwall, Ont.

It crashed in trees beyond the edge of a farm clearance line and the wreckage was several hundred yards from the nearest house.

Gov. Bearsdley Of Iowa Killed In Car Accident

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa was killed in an automobile accident a short distance north of Des Moines Sunday night, doctors at Iowa Lutheran Hospital here said.

First reports said the car in which Beardsley and his wife were riding ran into the rear of a truck on State Highway 60, about two miles north of Des Moines.

The governor died at the hospital a short time later.

Mrs. Beardsley was reported seriously hurt in the accident but doctors at the hospital said she was resting comfortably.

Beardsley, 53, was finishing his third consecutive term as Iowa's governor. He did not seek re-election this year and planned to return to his large-scale livestock farm near New Virginia, Iowa.

Caddy Ogles Two City Fishermen

Caddy has reared its head again to peer at two local fishermen, a habit Cadborosaurus has been undertaking with regularity the past year. It's the third time he has been sighted.

Latest focal point of Caddy's questing were Jack Daley, 1640 Edgeware Road, and Jack Salsbury, 116 Menzies Street, who swear they saw Caddy coiling off Albert Head over the weekend.

"I first saw him about 400 or 500 yards away. As he came towards us I thought he had a head like a shark . . . about two or three feet wide," Mr. Daley said. Closer, the head looked like a frog's head, bulgy on top.

Caddy was only about 150 feet away when he went under. Up close he was a fawn color and very sleek.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1954

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Wessely Hicks, who conducts a daily column in the Toronto Telegram, has heard about B.C. Junior Chambers of Commerce plans to exchange "good" reading for horror comic books.

And Mr. Hicks views the idea with approval. But he warns the Jaycees to be careful about the books they exchange. "There's a glut of tough reading on the market these days," he points out.

There's a book called "Jack and the Beanstalk" which no child should read for instance. It's all about murder and robbery.

Jack, who is the hero of the story, is a delinquent. He first swipes his mother's cow and sells it for a mess of beans. When his mother whomps him he runs away from home and plants the beans, evidently thinking they are marijuana.

The beans grow up taller and stronger than an extension ladder right beside a retired stockbroker's house. The stockbroker is a giant of a man and he keeps his house full of nothing but gold because he dies not trust the banks, which already owe him a good deal of money.

Jack, the hero of the tale, climbs into the giant stockbroker's house and steals all the gold and half the furnishings. When the giant chases him, Jack whacks off his head with an axe.

No child should be allowed to read such a book.

And then there is a book called "The Three Little Pigs." The three pigs move into a new subdivision and build themselves houses, using labor, namely themselves.

Along comes a rival realtor named the Big Bad Wolf. He razes two of the three houses. And he is only restrained when the three pigs grab him, throw him into a pot and make soup of him. At no time do the three pigs attempt to notify law enforcement authorities.

Terror! Vandalism! Murder!

So the tale is one of terror, vandalism and murder.

No child should be allowed to read such a book.

Another book is called Little Red Riding Hood." The heroine of this tale is a doll called Little Red Riding Hood who probably published the book herself.

She becomes involved with a big bad wolf called The Big Bad Wolf. He is a first cousin to The Big Bad Wolf who wiped out the housing project started by The Three Little Pigs.

Little Red Riding Hood so aggravates The Big Bad Wolf that he waltzes over to her grandmother's and makes a light snack of the old doll who was an innocent bystander.

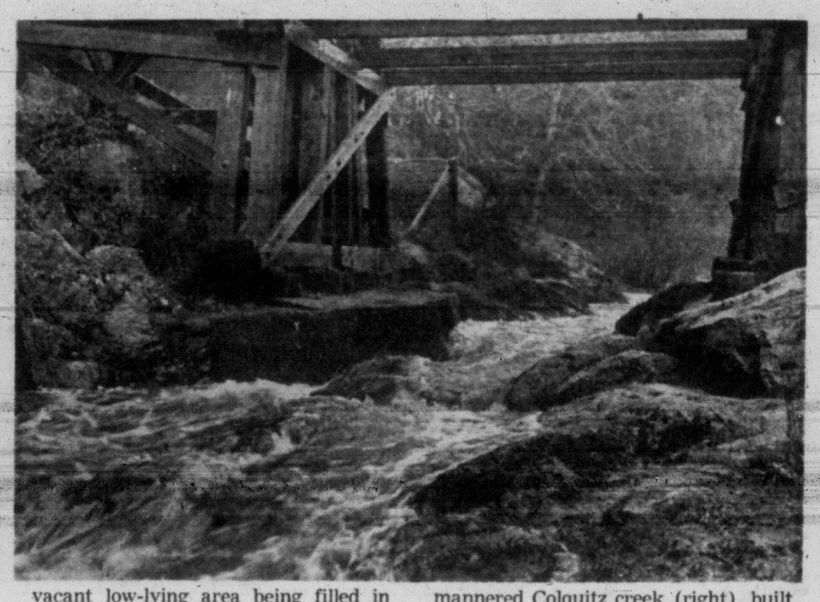
Little Red Riding Hood summons the law. And a cop rushes in and persuades The Big Bad Wolf to give up the grandmother who seems to have enjoyed the brief vacation.

Then the cop knocks off The Big Bad Wolf, who should have been given no more than a three-year term because he had returned the loot. This is what is known as making full restitution and usually gains the culprit a small measure of leniency.

So "Little Red Riding Hood" is a tale of illegal entry, kidnapping and injustice.

No child should be allowed to read such a book. He could end up trying to eat his grandmother.

Which just proves that it's very difficult to choose books for children.



IF THERE IS ANY DOUBT IN YOUR MIND—yes, it did rain in Victoria over the week-end. And, despite clearing skies today, there was plenty of water still lying around to prove Jupiter Pluvius worked overtime. At left, vacant low-lying area being filled in by city workmen was filled in a hurry—by rain-water. Flooded road is Fifth Street, near Topaz. Usually mild-mannered Colquitz creek (right), built up to a roar, slashed through under railway trestle in spectacular fashion. (Times Photos by Strickland.)

Heavy Rains General

1½-Inch Fall In 24 Hours

Current warm spell, one of the mildest ever recorded here in Victoria, will continue into Tuesday afternoon, weatherman William Mackie said today.

At noon today the temperature was 57 degrees, a new record high temperature for November 22. The previous record was 55 degrees, set in 1933.

He said skies will be clear tonight, but that fog patches can be expected in low-lying area. Rain of the last few days is expected to hold off until Tuesday afternoon, and temperatures will range between 48 and 52 degrees.

Drenching rains that fell on Victoria and the Island on the week-end failed to drive rivers to the perilous heights of last week. Nanaimo, Cowichan Bay, Westholme and Courtenay, all of which had sections under water, reported conditions today close to normal.

Victoria's rainfall between 4.30 a.m. Sunday and 4.30 a.m. Monday was 1.47 inches. Other totals for the same period at other points were: Patricia Bay, 1.89; Comox, 0.27; Nanaimo, 1.11; Estevan, 3.72.

FINE CROP OF MUD is being harvested today by this resident of the Marigold, Saanich area. He cut special drainage ditches in an effort to get rid of the excess moisture. Chickens in background say it's a duck's life. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

EVEN MUD PUDDLES have their uses, and all over the city youngsters on their way to school stopped to splash. Three young fellows shown here were evidently playing a game of "drop a rock and watch out." (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Elderly Pedestrian Seriously Injured

Condition Poor After Yates-Cook Collision

A 70-year-old pedestrian, John Campbell "Jock" Petticrew, is in "poor" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today after being knocked down by a car at 8.15 a.m.

Struck while crossing Yates Street at Cook, the elderly man was apparently carried or tossed by the car to a point about 50 feet from where the collision occurred.

Mr. Petticrew was the worst injured of eight traffic victims treated at city hospitals since Saturday noon.

He suffered injuries to the left side of his head and right hip. His left leg has multiple fractures.

Police said the driver of the car involved in the accident was Michael Eugene Lougheed, 214 Menzies who had been driving East on Yates. Mr. Petticrew was crossing south to north.

Mrs. Ellen Ballam, 2317 Quadra, a cousin of the injured man is thought to be his only relative here. He has two daughters in Nanaimo. He has been a Colonist circulation department employee for almost 55 years.

HIT POLE

A Saturday accident sent Arnold Chudy, 3411 Salisbury to Royal Jubilee after the car in which he was riding struck a pole as it swerved to avoid collision with another at Tolmie and Quadra. The 33-year-old man was treated for head cuts.

Driver of the car, Lawrence E. Van Ness, 2281 Livingstone, was uninjured in the crash. It occurred at 11.20 p.m.

At 5.25 p.m. Sunday another car-pedestrian collision happened and Henry Newton, 62, went to hospital. He was discharged from Jubilee after treatment and X-rays for hip and chest injuries. Police said he was struck by a car driven by Charles E. Stockdill, 2725 Cadboro Bay Road. The accident was at Yates and Government.

ROUND-ABOUT CRASH

Ruby Kaye, 35, 1009 Hillside, was also treated and released from Jubilee Hospital. She suffered leg injuries at about 1.30 a.m. Sunday in a two-car crash at the roundabout.

Police reported moderate damage to cars of Robert A. Elliott, 1027 Fenn Road, and Archie D. Watt, 774 Jasmine.

Mr. Elliott was treated at Jubilee for slight leg injury and also sent home.

Three were hurt when a car struck a pole on the Malahat about 400 yards from the Shawnigan Lake cut-off at 12.30 a.m. Sunday.

Colwood RCMP reported a car was heavily damaged and a power line pole dislodged.

The injured were Miss Jean Bell, 19, 331 Huntington, who had bruises to forehead, nose and knees; Ted Wagner, 32, 427 Government, abrasions to head and hand, and David Allison, 23, 331 Huntington Place, who had cuts in his forehead stitched. None of the three were kept in hospital.

NIGHT BOAT 'ROWDYISM' CHARGED

A charge that "rowdyism" is rampant on the CPR night boat to Vancouver was leveled today at a meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors and CPR officials here.

Capt. W. R. Stacey, marine surveyor, said the matter was "nothing short of disgusting," and the noise and swearing went on "night after night."

The matter stemmed, he said, from the CPR taking off company police on the vessel.

Nine Gamblers Fined After Surprise Raid

Police Enter by Door, Window

Nine men were fined in city police court today for gambling following a police raid on a Blanshard Street house at 5 a.m. Sunday.

Two detectives and two uniformed police apparently burst in on the players.

Detectives walked through the door at 1804 Blanshard with a search warrant, while the constable scaled a fire escape and entered by a window.

Douglas Frank Gallop, 32, 3332 Aldrich Street, was fined $100 or 45 days by Magistrate H. C. Hall after entering a guilty plea to operating the games.

Fined $15 each as found-ins were James R. Kesson, Douglas R. N. Lee, Alexander P. McNaughton, Charles Milton, Gordon Manuel, Harry E. Nadon, George Rahy and Robert D. McNab.

Detectives Bill Andrews, D. Blackstock, Constables E. Rossiter and Sgt. J. Mason comprised the raiding force. They said $18.85 had been "raked-out" of the game by the management. About $169 was on the table and chips and cards were confiscated, the police added.

Bird Victims Of Oil Found On Mainland

Feathered victims of the oil slick off Victoria's beaches may number up to 20,000.

Reports of oil-soaked birds have been received from as far away as Vancouver and the Gulf Islands.

Experts now have revised upwards their earlier estimates of the death toll, since oil from the U.S. freighter North Beacon, holed on Great Chain Island last Tuesday, has resulted in birds floating ashore far from this area.

Volunteers assisting the SPCA have shot about 3,000 oil-covered waterfowl . . . ducks, grebes, seagulls and cormorants since Thursday. Hundreds of others have died from starvation, cold and poisoning, inspector Ted Hayward said today.

Today volunteers shot about 30 birds on beaches stretching from Ten-Mile-Point to Dallas Road Beach.

"Each tide brings in a new lot of suffering birds," said Edward Hayward, SPCA inspector. "They float ashore to await death. There seems to be no end to it."

Hearing Under Way On Fatal Accident

Preliminary hearing of manslaughter charged against Arthur Herman Cook, Otter Point, was under way at RCMP court here at presstime.

Cook was charged following the traffic death of Geoffrey E. Ashton at Sooke, November 8. He is presently free on $5,000 bail.

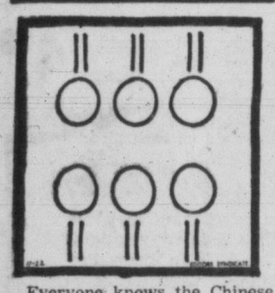
DROODLES



Everyone knows the Chinese are the oldest civilization because they invented gunpowder. They also invented chopsticks. I learned to use chopsticks so I could impress girls I took to Chinese Restaurants. (I make them use chopsticks too because that very way they don't eat so much.) I started my chopstick lessons with a baked potato which is easy to pick up but hard to swallow all at once. But I finally got so good I was able to pick up tougher things such as a glass of water and warm jello. The only thing I never learned to pick up was the check. But then no one is perfect.

Mrs. McGill Represents B.C. Save Children Fund

Mrs. W. W. McGill, 1170 Tattersal, has been appointed local representative to the B.C. Save the Children Fund, to succeed George W. Robinson, recently retired from the position.

Mrs. McGill, who runs the Children's Garden Library, recently organized a Halloween collection campaign which raised a total of $1,503.40 for the fund.

The money, it was announced by SCF provincial secretary Mrs. L. M. Dryden, will go direct to the organization's representative, E. F. McCarthy, in Pusan.

"Think how many hungry little boys and girls that will feed," Mrs. McGill said today. "But among 2,000,000 homeless, orphaned, maimed, cold and hungry, even that will not last long. We must do more—much more."

The SCF team in Korea has established a health centre, TB clinic, mobile clinic, milk feeding centre, nursery play group, and two children's wards in a Korean hospital.

Persons wishing to make donations to the fund have been asked to make cheques to the B.C. Save the Children Fund and to mail them to Mrs. McGill at 1170 Tattersal.

Motorcyclists Race in Heavy Mud

Of 11 starters in the race against the clock, nine completed the gruelling course.

Wes Morhart, riding a BSA motorcycle, took top honors, winning the Brentwood Trophy and tying with Reg Shanks for the riding award.

Second position went to Charles Arnold and third to Shanks.

Riders reported heavy mud in many parts of the route, suffering most difficulty in the Mount Finlayson area.

Roads and trails in some places, they said, were seas of mud, and one road near Finlayson was almost a river of water.

Times for the race, set at a 12-mile-an-hour average for the first half, and 20-mile average for the latter part of the course, were greatly varied.

Riders made their average or better in the early stages, running out to Mount Douglas, Elk, Beaver and Prospect Lakes; but bogged down in the late stages, racing from Burnside Road via the unpaved section of the new Island Highway to Goldstream, over Mount Finlayson and back to town by way of a power line trail.

30 Islanders to Farm Convention

Over 30 delegates from Vancouver Island farm institutes and agricultural societies will attend the annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture which opens in Vancouver Tuesday.

REPORTED OBJECT of a "draft Scurrah" movement for city aldermanic race Dec. 9 is well-known city merchant Percy B. Scurrah, who sat on council from 1949 to 1953. Mr. Scurrah today told the Times that he was "giving the matter serious consideration" and would announce his decision shortly.

Duncan Accident Injures Two

Two young Victoria women were hurt, one seriously, when the car in which they were passengers went out of control a half mile south of Stratford's Crossing, near Duncan, Sunday afternoon.

Condition of Joan Stevens, 18 Hampton Road, Victoria, was reported "favorable" by Duncan hospital authorities this morning, according to RCMP.

Driver of the car, Russell Humber, 616 Gorge Road East, and another passenger, Daryl Smith, 645 Dunedin, were not hurt, police said.

Apparently the late model coupe went out of control and left the road when two wheels struck the gravel shoulder. Rain was falling and the highway was wet at the time.

Home Damaged Heavily; Sailor Charged

A sailor who went berserk in a city home Saturday and did several hundred dollars damage to doors, windows and furnishings, pleaded guilty today to two charges of willful damage and one of intoxication.

Julian Pilot, RCN, Esquimalt, was charged with destruction of four doors, seven windows, a quantity of plaster, a cupboard, a window frame, plumbing fixtures, a television set, a refrigerator, a set of dishes, a child's table and chair set and a chrome dining suite.

Landlord Lawrence Lee and tenant George Gettle, 1917 Quadra, appeared to press charges.

No one told the court what had brought about the outburst by the accused.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded Pilot to Wednesday for a probation report regarding the first two charges. He was fined $10 on the drunk charge.

Representatives of B.C.'s civil servants will lay their wage and arbitration demands before the provincial cabinet December 3.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black set the date of the cabinet hearing after receiving a request for the meeting by officials of the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—In your paper of a recent issue was an announcement that women from England were ready to accept a call from prospective husbands in New Zealand. Can you tell me if a number of English women landed in Victoria as prospective brides at any time via sailing ship?—C.C.

A.—The sailing vessel Tynemouth, which came to be known as the "Bride Ship," dropped anchor in Esquimalt harbor Sept. 17, 1862. The "60 marriageable lasses" on board were brought around to Victoria by HMS Forward, and there was great excitement among the local menfolk when they landed. On her five-month voyage from the old land the ship carried some 300. It is known half of the young women were married soon after their arrival.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

These Quaint Winkie Lamps Ideal Yuletide Decorations

By PENNY SAVER

"Wee Willie Winkie" lamps lead themselves perfectly to Christmas decorative ideas. One local florist has used them, added bits of sparkle-dust and ribbon, creating quaint window, mantel or table pieces. The Winkie lamp could be stripped of its Christmas ornaments and used with different trim for other occasions. Bared of trim, a Winkie lamp is just this: a jet black metal candle-holder with curling side handle and old-fashioned glass chimney. It comes complete with red candle.

My favorite is one trimmed at the base of the chimney with a cluster of gleaming red baubles. The chimney, candle and black holder are frosted with silver sparkle-dust in icicle formation . . . a most pleasing effect!

The other Winkie lamp was pretty, too. Hundreds of tiny, multi-colored, glittering stars make a milky way of the chimney, candle, holder and ruffled silver mesh ribbon which encircles the chimney base.

These delightful lamps are selling for just $2.50.

Planters being so popular these days, I thought I'd pass news of some new, hanging bird-cage ones along. Take your pick of either brass or wrought iron (either looks well with green foliage). There is lots of space for your pot of ivy to sit and you can twine the leaves around the bars as they grow. Complete with wall bracket to match, the cages sell at $3.45 and $4.50 respectively for the brass and wrought iron.

Folks under doctors' care sometimes are required to take pills at all hours of the day . . . which means they have to carry the pills with them in their purses or pockets.

If your pill-toting pal is a gal, then surprise her by presenting her with a dainty gold pillbox, made especially for her to carry in her purse. The lid is encrusted with pearls and brilliants and (now, get this) inside, clipped to the lid is a miniature pair of forceps for the ultra-sanitary patient to pick up her pills with!

Price of the ornate box is $1.45.

Cerebral Palsy Auxiliary Plans a Christmas Party

Newly formed women's auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Clinic will sponsor a Christmas party for the children of the clinic and their families on Dec. 18 in the Jubilee Hospital annex. Plans were made at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. J. D. Lawrie, 971 Maddison Street.

WHY GROW OLD?

Lunch Can Ruin Diet If You Let Down Bars

Those who eat away from home have a more difficult time dieting to lose weight than those who eat at home. For instance, he or she may order spinach, which is extremely low in calories, but the count may have been zoomed by the addition of a lot of fat. This is just one example.

There are a few rules you can remember which will be helpful. Whenever possible, eat food which has been baked, boiled or broiled, not fried. You can ask that gravy be left off your meat; you can order buttermilk rather than whole milk; you yourself can control your bread and butter intake; you can ask that salad dressing be left off your salad; you can eat fresh fruit and pass up the dessert. This sounds rugged, but if you are in earnest about losing extra pounds, you can eat away from home and still lose weight and be well nourished.

Then there is the man or woman who eats breakfast and dinner at home but luncheon away from home. Just remember one thing! You can sabotage your efforts at reducing at home each day with one luncheon a day, unless you take care. Go "overboard" at lunch each day and you will wonder why you did not lose weight!

Let us take a seemingly simple luncheon at the corner drug store. Suppose you order a cheese sandwich and a chocolate malted milk; all of which is health giving; and really does not seem to be a heavy luncheon. If you have a moderate amount of mayonnaise on your sandwich, and only thin pickle slices, this plus your chocolate malted milk, will give you about 650 calories, which is about half of the calories allowed on a reducing diet.

I worry about those women who live alone and eat alone. It is most difficult to take the trouble to plan nutritious meals and to eat correctly, when you plan for just yourself. It is simple to plan this way if you will learn something about the necessities of nutrition and about how to plan for one person.

With this problem in mind, I have written my leaflet called, "Menus for Career Girls." I think this leaflet will be helpful to many women. If you would like to have it, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 46 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Monterey—At meeting of the Monterey Parent-Teachers' Association, J. Julian of the Victoria Photography Society, preestned "A Photographic Salon." It was announced there will be no meeting in December.

Mate Drinks, Insults Wife Before Company

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Young persons' attitudes toward marriage are seriously affected by the pattern for family life which they see at home. That is true of the young girl whose mother writes:

Hurlock

(Q) "I have a 14-year-old daughter. My husband makes good money, but he is a drunkard. I have worked ever since I was married and tried to make a happy home for my daughter. My husband goes to the bar every day and won't come home until the bar closes. If company comes before he leaves for the bar, he insults me in front of them. When I am sick, he won't send for a doctor but tells me to go home to my mother. I have tried to have my pastor talk to him but he is never at home. Now I am willing to stop trying and not hold on to something that was never mine anyway. But, before I do, I would like your advice."

(A) You seem to have tried the best you could to make a go of your marriage. But a successful marriage depends upon the co-operation of both husband and wife. Without this co-operation, there is little hope that the marriage can work out satisfactorily.

Your daughter is at an impressionable age. The kind of home life she sees will distort her whole attitude toward marriage and toward life in general. It would be far better for her not to be with her father, as he behaves, than to be with him.

You do not have to break up your marriage permanently until you are sure there is no other solution to the problem. Why not ask your minister to help you to get a legal separation? Then, if things do not improve, you could later sue for a divorce if you wanted to be free from your husband.

As he is making good money, and has enough for daily drinking, make sure the court grants you adequate amounts to support your daughter and the home. You should not have to work as you have been doing ever since your marriage.

Your husband has shirked his responsibilities to your daughter and you have had to do everything for her. You should not also have to earn money to support her. Make situation clear to judge when you apply for a separation from your husband.

Double-Ring Ceremony Heard in Candlelight

Soft candlelight, white chrysanthemums and greenery in tall standard baskets formed a setting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Saturday evening, for the wedding of Margaret Marilyn Briers, daughter of Fire Chief and Mrs. Frank W. Briers, 1150 Finlayson Street, and Arthur Sandvik, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sandvik, Vancouver.

Organ music was played by C. C. Warren during the double-ring ceremony, performed by Dr. Edgar Foreman. Miss Kay Paulin sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the bride arrived and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The charming bride chose a cocktail-length gown fashioned with strapless lace bodice and skirt of sheer appliqued net billowing out over crisp taffeta, over which she wore a lace redingote with Elizabethan collar, lily-point sleeves, and scalloped edges tapering to the hemline. Her waist-length veil was held by a cloche of net entwined with pearls, and she wore the groom's gift of pearls. "Something old" was a lace-edged handkerchief, while pink rapture roses and stephanotis formed her bouquet.

As matron of honor for her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. Charles Briers wore a cocktail-length gown of mauve lace and net over taffeta with starched net tiara. Bridesmatrons Mrs. Marvin McLeod and Mrs. Stephen Juba were gowned in pastel green net with taffeta bolero and copper lace over pink taffeta, respectively, with headdresses en tone.

Robert Bradbury was best man.

Guests were shown to pews marked by white wedding bells by Charles Briers, brother of the bride, and Wyndham Thomas, brother-in-law of the groom.

The trio carried pearl-studded evening bags topped with autumn-toned chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Bradbury was best man.

A reception followed at Little Harbour, where the parents of the newlyweds assisted them in receiving guests, Mrs. Briers wearing a dusty rose afternoon dress, peacock blue feathered hat, and corsage of gardenias and Pinocchio roses.

Lighted tapers in silver holders flanked the three-tier wedding cake, and R. Kroeger played piano music. Robert Ross proposed the toast to his niece.

Leaving for a honeymoon motoring through Washington and Oregon, the bride donned a pale green tweed suit with pale green iridescent hat, rust shoes and purse, mouton three-quarter-length coat, and a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandvik will reside at 1536 West 11th Avenue, Vancouver.

Dethrone Science Theosophist Urges

Philosophy Must Take Precedence If Man Is to Survive the Atom Age

Until man's philosophical concepts supersede his preoccupation with science, he is in danger of destroying himself.

So said James S. Perkins, national president of the Theosophical Society in America, which has approximately 4,000 active adherents, who visited here over the week-end.

Wedded to philosophical maturity must be a re-asserted spiritual conception to combat "the danger of the world today, materialism."

The recently reported personality troubles of leading U.S. physicists, torn between aweing atomic research on one hand and the need for a philosophical and spiritual balance on the other, was an example of this, he said.

"Modern man must awaken to his spiritual responsibility."

Avowed aim of theosophy is to embrace all the great truths behind all the great religions of the world as a basis of universal brotherhood . . . a type of "spiritual UN."

This can be accomplished by "disburdening ourselves of what we think we are, in race and creed, and realizing that fundamentally we are all human beings. To do this wide vision and faith is needed."

The very basis of theosophy was not that men unite under a new religion, but that they unite under an expanded appreciation of all religions, retaining "freedom of thought at the conceptual level."

This constant awareness of freedom was the bulwark against theosophy becoming "a cult" with its own tight circle of circumscription, he said.

Mr. Perkins said that while he personally believed in reincarnation, as did many theosophists, this was not a hard and fast tenet of belief either.

On the subject he said "get rid of the foolish notion we are born again willy-nilly. It is the evolution of the soul on the upward journey." All that we feel or do today would have a direct bearing on what we will return to in the future.

He addressed a public meeting here Sunday under the auspices of local society members.

B.C. Fishermen to Launch Anti-Poaching Campaign

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) —Fishermen along the British Columbia coast intend to put a stop to salmon poaching.

When the season opens next year the fishermen themselves will police close-in areas around salmon streams. Illegal fishing in these areas has threatened the future livelihood of the seiners.

The anti-poaching campaign was started by the Skidgate local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.). And it appears to have the wholehearted support of both fishermen and fisheries department officials.

Facing depleted salmon runs and the threat of widespread conservation restrictions, the Queen Charlotte Islands local seeks the pledge of every union member to refrain from fishing in closed areas and to report and lay charges against any fishermen caught poaching.

In a resolution, the Skidgate local also asked the department of fisheries to impose a minimum penalty of one year's suspension of licenses on boats, crews and skippers convicted of illegal fishing.

Organized poaching; or "creek robbing," reached alarming proportions in August and September.

Much of the problem, says one union official, stems from the reluctance of fishermen to report poachers.

However, Tom Parkin, northern representative of the UFAWU, says fishermen now realize that poaching must be curbed if they are to remain in business.

London Times, Worker Named Best Designed

LONDON (Reuters) — The Times and The Communist Daily Worker, two newspapers which have little in common editorially or politically, share one thing: A prize for being "the most distinguished and thoughtfully designed" papers in Britain.

Identical plaques were awarded Saturday night following a competition sponsored by a linotype company. The judges were typographical scholar, a printer to Cambridge University and a member of the Royal Fine Arts Commission.

The Times is so traditional it still carries only classified ads on page 1. The Daily Worker splashes pictures and big type across its front page.

Australian Movies Getting U.S. Help

By CAROLYN BERNSTEN

SYDNEY (UP)—Australia is anticipating a place in the film-making world now that an American producer, Joseph Kaufman, has made "Long John Silver" here and expressed enthusiasm for this country's advantages in the field.

Kaufman, stressing the lower costs here, said his film will "look like a three or four million dollar job but cost only about one million."

Kaufman has high hopes for boosting the movie industry in Australia on the basis of what he considers "remarkable" talent available here — not only actors, but technicians, writers and designers.

NEW STARS

He expects world-wide recognition for four players in particular—12-year-old Kit Taylor (who almost steals the show from veteran Robert Newton), Grant Taylor (Kit's father), Rodney Taylor (no relation), and Lloyd Berrell.

Kaufman said it amazed him to see such a brilliant art production designer as William Constable, who handled production for "Long John Silver," stay in Australia for so long. His set and costume designing skill would put him in demand anywhere, Kaufman said.

The producer mentioned the adaptability and quick-learning of the Australian technicians, who were quite new to the requirements of the film industry.

"The beautiful scenery of Australia, captured in CinemaScope and color, has given this picture great scope and will show the world the beauty of the Australian scenery and background," he added.

FUTURE PLANS

At present, his firm, Treasure Island Pictures, is producing 26 half-hour featurettes based on the film, which will be used for theatre and television screenings all over the world.

Future plans for Australia include the production of at least three big pictures in the next two years. Arrangements have been made for an option on the Pagewood Studios outside Sydney, where about $225,000 will be spent on new cutting rooms, stages, etc., to increase the capacity of the studio. This will enable the company to shoot several productions at the same time. Additional equipment will be brought from the United States.

Prospect Lake PO Decision Due Next Month

Questionnaires Being Tallied

Results of a questionnaire asking Prospect Lake residents if they want to substitute their present post office for a rural delivery mail service, will be announced next month, Victoria post office officials said today.

The questionnaire—the second held this year—was submitted early this month in view of protests from over 100 residents against the closure of the post office. The vote is now being counted at the Vancouver District Post Office.

If the votes are in favor of a rural mail delivery service, Prospect Lake will lose its postal identity and will be under the jurisdiction of the Royal Oak Post Office. This means that Prospect Lake will no longer be known as a "place" outside of Greater Victoria, but as part of Royal Oak.

Residents are sharply divided on the issue—first raised last summer when the Vancouver District Post Office served notice that it was closing the post office and substituting a rural mail delivery service to be operated from Royal Oak. Residents at the time petitioned the government not to close the post office.

Since then two questionnaires have been submitted to householders asking them which service they prefer. The first ended in a deadlock

The majority of householders would like to have both services. They are against closure of the post office as it will mean the loss of a valuable advertising medium for their summer resort.

"We will be wiped off the map," one resident explained. "It will mean all letters sent to residents of the district will be addressed Royal Oak."

But G. B. Gaunt, postal area superintendent stationed in Nanaimo, said it was impossible for householders to retain both services.

"It would be a waste of taxpayers' money," he said. "That is why householders have been given a choice of service."

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

When the Mixed Pair Championship is played in Atlanta during the first week of December (as part of the national championship tournament), most most of the men will give their partners last-minute instructions.

"Try to let me play the hand if possible," they will say, and the ladies will usually politely agree. In this way the men indicate that they think they are the strong half of the partnership, and the women indicate that they are born diplomats.

No such instructions are issued when the female half of the partnership is the rule in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hodge, of Abilene, Tex., winners of last year's championship. The reason for their confidence in each other may be seen in the play of the hand shown today.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Mrs. Hodge opened the queen of diamonds from the West hand. Declarer won in dummy with the king of diamonds, took the king of spades and then led the ace and queen of spades to see what the defenders would discard. They both discarded hearts, which didn't help declarer a bit.

South next led a club from the dummy, playing the queen from his hand to force out the ace. Mrs. Hodge returned the jack of diamonds, knocking out dummy's ace. Declarer cashed the king of clubs and ruffed a club. Then he led another trump to the dummy, giving the opponents one more chance to discard. Again Mrs. Hodge discarded a heart, and this time Mr. Hodge discarded a club.

Finally, declarer led dummy's low diamond. East stepped up with the nine of diamonds, and West was able to play the eight of diamonds, allowing East to hold the trick. The whole point of declarer's extra rounds of trumps was to try to induce the defenders to discard diamonds, so that West would have to win the third round of the suit. The plot failed, however, for both Mr. and Mrs. Hodge held their diamonds to allow East to win the third trick in that suit.

Having won a trick with the nine of diamonds, East led a heart. This enabled West to win two heart tricks, defeating the contract. If West had won the third round of diamonds, she would have been obliged to lead hearts up to declarer's king, and South would have made his game contract.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By BILL PARKER

Did you see the first edition of "Parade"?

If you missed it, make certain that your teevee set is tuned to CBUT at 8 tonight.

Produced in Vancouver with big Bill Bellman acting as host, "Parade" will take viewers on a tour of night-spots from New Orleans to New York.

Well-known west coast radio and television stars will head the cast.

People like Eleanor Collins, Don Francks, Wendy Martin, Thelma Gibson, Tott Moons, the Ray Norris Quintette, and other notables, will take a turn on the fast-moving show.

Grey Cup football will be seen and heard on this coast next Saturday as fast as it is played.

The National Broadcasting Company and the CBC are co-operating to carry the classic on a coast-to-coast hookup.

Telecasts of the game will be carried by cable on NBC through the States and relayed to Vancouver for broadcast by CBUT.

Televiewers in Victoria will be able to view the game on either the Vancouver station or on KOMO-TV, Seattle. The game will be carried at "live" time, 9.45 a.m., PST.

Radio coverage will also be extended to this coast through the wires of the CBC Dominion network. Programs will be heard in Victoria on CJVI, also at 9.45 a.m.

Seven Months' Work In Planning Report

First Phase of Project Undertaken By Capital Region Planning Board

Publication of a 60-page report titled, "The Capital Region Takies Stock," marks completion of the first phase of work undertaken by the Capital Region Planning Board.

The report is the work of James W. Wilson, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, who was loaned to the Capital Region Board to making a detailed survey.

His report is the result of seven month's work. Purpose of the document is:

1. To acquaint the people and governments of the area with their region and its resources; 2. to assemble information about the region as a basis for work to be undertaken by the board's permanent staff, and 3, to study and analyze development and problems of the region and make recommendations regarding them.

Mr. Wilson likens his work here to "the kind of general examination which, in medicine, precedes more detailed diagnosis and prescription."

"It is just as necessary for good plannng as for good medicine," he maintains.

UNC GRADUATE

Mr. Wilson is a graduate in city and regional planning from University of North Carolina. Prior to studying there he graduated in civil engineering from Glasgow University and Massachussetts Institute of Technology.

"As in any democratically governed society, the people of the Capital Region have their fate in their hands," he has written as a foreword to his report. "If this report stimulates them to see themselves as members of a regional family; to look ahead and to resolve to make the most of their enviable heritage, it will have achieved its purpose."

The Capital Region Planning Board was set up in 1951 by order-in-council of the provincial cabinet. It is composed of one member appointed by the provincial government, and four members appointed by each of the four participating municipalities. Municipal engineers sit on the board as advisory members.

Although in existence four years, the board's actual work was begun only this year since until last January it had no financial resources.

In January, the provincial government made a grant of $10,000 toward the board's operations. Subsequently, the City of Victoria gave $4,900; Saanich, $2,700; Oak Bay, $1,200 and Esquimalt, $1,000. Central Saanich, asked to provide $200, would not lend its support.

In addition to engaging Mr. Wilson to prepare his preliminary survey, the board appointed Brahm Wiesman as permanent planning director here. Until recently he was assistant director of planning for the City of Edmonton.

Main task of Mr. Wiesman and his staff will be to prepare plans for and advise municipalities and the provincial government on the most effective means of developing the southern end of the Island without regard for municipal boundaries.

VISHINSKY

Sobolev stood at his chair after the meeting was adjourned and a line of delegates formed to extend their condolences. Some of the Soviet representatives were wiping their eyes as they left the committee chamber and appeared stunned by the news.

Word of the death of Vishinsky—as famed today for his blistering oratory as he was in the 1930s as Stalin's blood purge prosecutor — spread quickly throughout the United Nations.

Vishinsky's colorful and often violent oratory dominated many post-war international conferences, but he was as renowned for his wit as for his invective. An agile debater, his barbed quivs at his diplomatic foes in the world peace organization were quoted around the world.

A smallish, stock man with white hair, flushed face and dancing eyes behind horn-rimmed spectacles, Vishinsky's appearance belied his reputation for acid debate. There was never any doubt among Western observers, however, of his reputation as a ruthless man who probably was well suited temperamentally for the job he did for Stalin in the blood purge which wiped out thousands of Soviet Communists, great and small.

SERVED UNDER MOLOTOV

Vishinsky was first deputy to Foreign Commissar Molotov in 1940. Nine years later, when Molotov detached himself from the ministry post, Vishinsky became foreign minister. He attended the most important international conferences, including Yalta, Potsdam, the Paris peace conference and the United Nations sessions.

When Molotov again assumed the title of foreign minister, after Stalin's death, Vishinsky once again became his first deputy. He remained on the central committee of the Communist party.

CITY PLANNING

meet demand for the next 10 years and additional demands for power could be met by laying more submarine cables and by developing further water power resources of the central and northern portions of the Island.

The report goes extensively into the question of parks and recommends that the provincial government be asked to survey and reserve suitable beach and park areas nearby.

Mr. Wilson says the region's present system of parks has two major faults: (1) lack of beach parks, and (2) inadequate facilities for picnics and outings.

Best hope for beach parks of any size now lies in the relatively indeveloped areas, he says.

Witty's Beach, past Albert Head, and John's Beach, near Bamberton, are suggested as beaches worthy of development. There may be others beyond Sooke, the author suggests, which would be given access by a West Coast road.

Responsibility for both survey and development of such parks belongs to the provincial government, Mr. Wilson contends. He says the parks and recreation division of B.C. Forest Service has done nothing of any consequence in the capital region, apart from John Dean Park.

His report suggests that so far as the Gorge waterway is concerned, the Capital Region Planning Board should investigate the use of the land adjacent to the waterway to complete the public health and engineering aspects of Gorge improvements already under study.

The report recommends further investigation of the possible development of Thetis Lake and Goldstream Parks.

To promote park development throughout the region, the idea is put forward that a body of laymen and women be formed who are interested in the development of parks and the preservation of natural beauty spots.

Contest Certain For All Seats On City Council

There will be at least two candidates for each of the four city city council seats which become vacant in December.

Number of aldermanic contestants was raised to eight with the week-end announcement by W. A. Scott, second-hand dealer, that he is entering the race.

Mr. Scott was an unsuccessful candidate for council last year. He was once a candidate for Provincial Legislature.

Others in the council contest are Ald. Robert Macmillan, Ald. Arthur Dowell, Miss Jane Hall, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Austin Curtis, Donald Smith and Elgin Neish.

Extra Workers, Not Overtime, Wicks' Request

British Columbia employers today were asked to cut down on overtime, and instead to hire additional employees, as a method of curbing unemployment.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks made the request in letters sent out to 20,000 businessmen.

The letters, issued under the signature of William Sands, deputy labor minister and chairman of the Board of Industrial Relations, said overtime permits have been issued in the post-war period to overcome labor shortage.

They say the situation has now changed, that there is more than sufficient labor to meet the demand, and that more men and women can be kept on the job if overtime is cut down.

The letters read in part: "The board would appreciate your co-operation in determining whether or not any overtime can be overcome by adding to existing personnel.

Five Lost Hunters All Turn Up Safe

Terry Tobacco, 19-year-old British Empire Games runner, and his father were two of five Island hunters lost in the bush over the week-end who turned up safely Sunday and this morning.

A party of 20 men and RCMP was formed to search the Campbell River area for Charles Miller, 67, Campbell River, who walked out of the bush shortly after 6.30 this morning. A hunting companion, Dave Taylor, found him on a logging road, already on his way out.

The search party immediately joined the hunt for the Tobaccos, apparently lost in the Oyster River area. Both were found walking out about 8 a.m. All were in fit condition and had stayed put for the night.

Heavy fog and steep terrain prevented them from emerging from their hunts before darkness overtook them.

Meanwhile, on the southern part of the Island, two other hunters lost their way and became the object of organized searches by RCMP and South Vancouver Island Rangers before they too, walked out of the bush.

Brian Roberts, 1697 Yale, had been hunting Sunday near Braden Mountain in the Glinz Lake area west of Goldstream, shot a deer and found it had become dark by the time he was ready to head home.

He had no matches with which to build a fire Sunday night, and was chilled by this morning. About 14 men were spotted on logging roads in the area and one ran into him about 8 a.m. today.

Thomas Roberts, apparently no relation to Brian, lost his way after dark Saturday, but was able to keep himself warm until Rangers located him at 8.30 Sunday morning. He, too, was on his way out when found.

He told Rangers he had been hunting on Cowichan Flats, between the CNR line and Cowichan Lake Road when he found himself in too far to get out that night.

At Campbell River, Game Warden Rex Hayes, guide Alvin Parkin and RCMP officers organized the two searches for Miller and the Tobaccos.

Attlee Puzzles Over Expelling Seven

LONDON (Reuters) — The Labor Party leaders grappled today with the problem of how to punish a small group of party rebels without precipitating a large-scale sympathy revolt that might jar the organization to its foundations.

Parliamentary leaders, headed by ex-premier Clement Attlee, met to decide whether to advocate party expulsion of seven members who defied them in last week's House of Commons debate on German rearmament.

Attlee and his colleagues face a thorny problem. With a national election generally felt to be less than a year away, the leaders are determined to bolster up the slack party discipline by punishing those who flouted their orders.

ELEMENT OF DANGER

But at the same time they are aware of the danger of making "martyrs" of conscientious pacifists who insisted on voting against German rearmament in defiance of the party's orders to abstain.

The "shadow cabinet"—the inner circle of party leaders—could do little more than set the machinery in motion if they decided the rebels should be expelled.

Any recommendation for such extreme action would be bound to stir up a storm at Tuesday's meeting of the full body of Socialist members of Parliament. Parliament sources predicted today that a substantial minority of Labor members will resist extreme disciplinary measures against the seven. Final say on the matter is up to the party's national executive.

Most of the opponents of German rearmament, led by left-winger Aneurin Bevan, finally bowed to the pressure brought by their leaders after the parliamentary party voted decisively two weeks ago to support the recent Paris treaties. But a small group ignored the party leadership's orders to abstain from voting on the treaties, which then would have gone through the Commons last Thursday without challenge.

Four Labor members, including known pacifists, voted against the treaties, while two others acted as their tellers in the vote. A seventh, John McGovern, also defied the leadership by joining the Conservatives in voting for the treaties.

OAKVILLE GIRL WINS $1,750 FOR BEST STEER

TORONTO (BUP)—A 17-year-old Oakville girl banked more than $1,750 for her education today as the prize for raising a shorthorn steer which won the queen's guineas at the Royal Winter Fair.

The steer, Louis, brought Katherine Merry $250 in the prize money. It was then auctioned off to the T. Eaton Company for $1.60 a pound, or more than $1,500. After the auction, the beef was donated to Sunnybrook Hospital.

Miss Merry said she planned to use the money to further her education toward becoming a teacher.

New Site Located For Aklavik

OTTAWA (CP)—A new 600-acre site has been found for the remote Arctic community of Aklavik.

Northern Affairs Minister Lesage announced today that Canada's largest Arctic community will be moved to a new location on the east channel of the Mackenzie River about 33 miles east of the present site.

The 42-year-old community, situated on a delta on the west bank of the Mackenzie 70 miles south of the Arctic Ocean, must be moved to prevent it from sinking through melting permafrost and being engulfed by the river.

The new community will be as modern as climatic conditions permit. It will be provided with an adequate sanitation system, roads and an airstrip which is expected to be located about ½ miles to the southeast.

On the present site the heat of summer ground warmth created by buildings, excavations and roads turn the permafrost terrain into a quagmire.

Greater City Plan Predicts Doubled Growth in 25 Years

VISHINSKY . . . dies unexpectedly.

Heart Attack Kills Vishinsky

Russia's Chief UN Delegate Dies in New York; Was 70

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Andrei Yanuarievitch Vishinsky, the once obscure Russian lawyer who became a foremost mouthpiece for the Soviet Union, died today.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister, Moscow's chief delegate to the United Nations, would have been 71 years old Dec. 10.

Eelco Van Kleffens of the Netherlands, president of the United Nations, announced the diplomat died of a heart attack. In bad health for several years, Vishinsky remained in the thick of diplomatic storms here to the end.

All UN meetings were suspended for the day.

Vishinsky collapsed and died early this morning at Soviet delegation headquarters on Park Ave.

First word that Vishinsky was ill came with an announcement to the political committee by A. A. Sobolev of the Soviet delegation that the Soviet delegate was indisposed. Then came the news of the death.

GRAIN RATE SUBSIDY?

Railmen Get Some 'Fringe'

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's arbitrator in the railway-union contract dispute today awarded non-operating employees an estimated $7,000,000 a year in fringe benefits and simultaneously recommended a federal subsidy for the companies.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia suggested the subsidy to compensate for the low Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain in western Canada, which he held partially responsible for the current "serious decline" in rail revenues.

His contract findings are binding on the disputants, but his subsidy reference has no force beyond that of an opinion. His terms of reference did not specify he was to suggest how the cost of fringe benefit be raised.

Mr. Justice Sloan, appointed by the government to settle contract terms after 145,000 non-operating employees threatened a general strike over their deadlocked dispute, made these awards:

1. Five statutory holidays with pay each year, at an estimated cost of $4,281,000. The unions had asked for eight.

2. Lengthening of annual paid vacations for long-term employees, to cost an estimated $2,650,000.

He granted no award on employee requests for 18-days-a-year sick leave with pay, cumulative from year to year, and for higher overtime pay for Sunday work.

NOT RETROACTIVE

He also denied the unions' request for retroactivity in his findings, declaring them effective from Jan. 1, 1955. The railway union contracts ran out last Dec. 1.

In monetary terms, the arbitrator's award represented but a fraction of the original demands of the non-operating unions. The unions themselves estimated the full annual cost at $34,000,000, while the railways contended they would run to around $60,000,000.

In proposing a subsidy to counteract the sub-normal grain rates, Chief Justice Sloan did not specify any amount.

He said it is his opinion that "some fair share at least of this (grain rates) burden should be shouldered by the people of Canada from the national treasury."

3 Fatal B.C. Accidents Mar Week-End

VICTORIA (BUP)—Three fatal accidents were recorded in British Columbia during the week-end, including two traffic fatalities and a drowning.

The deaths of Richard Kitta, 92, and Peter Zacher, 28, brought Vancouver's traffic toll for the year to 25.

Kitta was found dead on arrival at hospital in Vancouver Saturday night after being struck by a car driven by Russell A. Campbell, 22.

Zacher died in the St. Paul's Hospital of injuries received Friday when the motorcycle he was riding struck a tree at the entrance to Stanley Park and spun out of control.

John Couch, 40, of Harrison Mills, drowned Sunday in the Harrison River.

Planner

Regional planner, who has prepared 60-page report on future development of southern tip of Vancouver Island, is James W. Wilson, loaned to the Capital Region Planning Board by Lower Mainland Board, which employs him as executive director. Permanent offices for Capital Region Board are to be established soon in B.C. Land Building, 918 Government St.

Chairman

Newly-elected chairman of the Capital Region Planning Board is Maj. H. Cuthbert Holmes, prominent realtor, who represents Victoria on the five-member panel. He succeeds F. W. Nicolls as board chairman. Mr. Nicolls is appointee of provincial government. Other members are Clr. S. P. Birley, Oak Bay; Clr. J. E. Carey, Esquimalt, and Mrs. Grace Shaw, Saanich.

Major Report Sees Problems Ahead For Capital Area

Greater Victoria can expect its population to be doubled in the next 25 years and at the end of that period the Municipality of Saanich will probably have more residents than the city.

This is the view of J. W. Wilson, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, who recently completed a fact-finding survey of the lower island area for the Capital Region Planning Board. His findings and forecasts of things to come are contained in a 60-page report titled "The Capital Region Takes Stock."

Present population of the capital region, says Mr. Wilson, is around 123,000. In 1981, he predicts, this figure will be up to 206,000.

Victoria, he says, now having 53,500 residents, will have 72,000; Saanich, now with 32,500, will have 74,000; Oak Bay, now with 13,100, will have 19,200; Esquimalt, with 10,600, can expect 14,000. Central Saanich is expected to triple its population, from the present 2,200 to about 7,000.

Unorganized territory, including Sidney, which now has a population of some 11,100, will have about 23,000.

Bulk of new residential development, says Mr. Wilson, will take place in Saanich since other municipalities have only a limited amount of space available. Victoria's growing population will be fitted into apartments.

One-Third Live in Apartments

Proportion of people living in apartments has been increasing steadily for 30 years, Mr. Wilson notes. In 1921 only 2 per cent of Victoria's families lived in apartments. In 1951, 31 per cent did.

More and more apartments will be built on unused lots and sites where old homes now stand, the planner contends. Apartment growth will cause increased loads on water mains, sewers and drains.

The anticipated growth in population will have to be supported chiefly by what industries already exist, he suggests.

The report shows about 48,000 persons, 39 per cent of the population, gainfully employed in the spring of this year, and focuses attention on the fact that one out of every four was employed by some branch of either federal or provincial governments.

Government work will continue to provide the bulk of the jobs, the report suggests.

"Barring any major changes in administrative policy by either government, the federal and provincial civil service will provide an expanding source of employment," Mr. Wilson maintains.

Tourist trade, long regarded as an industry here, will require special attention if it is to continue its upward trend, he says. Competition is growing in this field and Mexico is pulling many U.S. vacationers away from Canada.

Future of Industry Outlined

Future of shipbuilding, Mr. Wilson concedes, will continue to depend largely on government work and will operate in close association with the naval dockyard.

Agriculture in the region is in "quite a favorable position," according to the report, but other industries can only be expected if some of their special needs can be supplied which other areas cannot satisfy.

Ordinary industries face two serious handicaps in locating here (a) a relatively small and isolated local market (b) transportation costs and time losses in relation to the mainland, he says.

The report considers the possibility of encouraging the use of some mineral resources in the region. It suggests attention might be given to quarrying black marble to be found at Sooke; using shale on Salt Spring Island in the production of light-weight concrete; utilizing slag from the former smelters at Crofton and Ladysmith for making mineral wool insulation.

In discussing residential development in Greater Victoria's fringe area, Mr. Wilson decries the lack of planning evident so far, and calls for immediate control. He points out that in one fringe district, land has been chopped into about 1,200 lots of less than half an acre, the total area of the lots plus access roads being only about 250 acres. These, says the author, have been scattered wantonly over about 2,500 acres—10 times their own area. Only about a quarter of the lots have been sold.

'Fringe Area' Development Hit

The report contends indiscriminate development of this nature is uneconomic for the householder who finds the initial promise of rural conditions and low taxes is only temporary. The report predicts that if this indiscriminate pattern continues the whole of the region will be covered by a suburban rash in 20 years.

If this happens, the report says, the natural beauty and recreational value of the region will be spoiled forever.

"This is the case against urban sprawl," the planner submits. "It is short-sighted, socially inadequate and costly to the residents individually and to the municipality as a whole. It is the way to bankruptcy or the suburban slum. In any situation it is foolish and lamentable, in the capital region it would be disastrous."

"This region cannot afford a binge on the fringe. There just isn't enough fringe."

In developing for future population, Mr. Wilson says, consideration should be given to soil quality, land subdivision and main roads and water supplies.

In general, he says, poor soil areas should be sought for development so as to save really productive land for agricultural purposes.

He suggests Cordova Bay, Saanichton and Langford-Metchosin areas are ideally suited for developments.

Flooding Danger Pointed Out

Mr. Wilson warns against permitting residential development in areas subject to flooding. He notes there are a number of such places, especially in Saanich.

He suggests, however, that some of these could be reclaimed by the "sanitary fill" method of garbage disposal, such as was suggested by city council's public works committee earlier this year for Baker brickyard property.

"Many low-cost sites for industrial use, parks and other public purposes have been obtained by this method," Mr. Wilson says.

On the question of water supply, Mr. Wilson says there is no problem in the metropolitan area since plans are already made for keeping ahead of future demand. Similarly, there is no possibility of a power shortage. The submarine cable to be laid in 1956 between the Island and the mainland will

City Men Meet CPR Officials

Present Boat Service Stays 'For Now and Next Summer'

While the B.C. Coast service is causing the CPR "a great deal of concern" at present, there is no plan to curtail the Victoria-Vancouver boat service being considered by the company, N. R. Crump, Montreal, senior vice-president, said here today.

He made his disclosure at a special meeting of CPR officials and a Victoria Chamber of Commerce committee, perturbed about reports last week that such a move was being considered.

Mr. Crump called it a "misunderstanding," and said what happened was he had said the company was merely looking into operations of the service, "as we do in all operations from time to time."

He disclosed that a researcher from Montreal had just completed a two-month survey of the situation, and more information would be available when his report was compiled.

Vice-president William Manson, Vancouver, said there would be no curtailment of the present Victoria-Vancouver service as it eexists eeither now or "next summer."

However, H. C. James, general passenger agent, Vancouver, hinted that the company was anticipating dropping the Sidney-Vancouver run. He indicated "perhaps" there would be a change there.

In presenting the chamber's side of the picture, president Stuart Keeate said the company had a "moral obligation" to provide adequate service and that while the population of Greater Victoria had increased to 123,000 persons—more than half the Island's population—"there has been a progressive deterioration in CPR boat service."

He said the chamber was "surprised" that the company had allowed this and said it resulted, in part, from CPR "lack of imagination, foresight and aggressive business policy."

An entire new approach to the problem was necessary, he said.

"Are we to be written off in favor of the shorter Nanaimo route?" he asked.

Boat service cost today on a coparative basis was $3.25 to $1.00 in 1939, thus there had to be "a different conception entirely" from pre-war service, said Mr. Crump.

While Alderman Arthur Dowell said the city had given "tremendous concession" over the years to the CPR, Mr. Crump said BCCS employees spent $2,500,000 yearly in wages and supplies here.

The chamber also brought up its recommendation that a fast ferry service be started from the Saanich peninsula to Vancouver. Mr. James pointed out that this was not feasible, because it would interfere with the company's triangle run which "is much more important. No company could afford the two routes, nor could they compete."

Trumpeter Swan Shot on Island

Near-Extinct Water Fowl Killed While Resting at Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER—A hunter who shot a trumpeter swan near here is highly unpopular and came close to having a good duck-hunting area closed to all nimrods.

The swan, member of an almost extinct species, had come to winter beside the barn of a farm near Camp Three.

The farmer, recognizing the rare bird, asked all hunters to spare it.

One huntsman, however, could not resist the target, and killed it while it sat motionless. The farmer, angered at the shooting, closed his land to all hunters.

Game Warden Rex Hayes prevailed upon the farmer to reopen hunting on his land for the remainder of the season.

Trumpeter swans, one of the world's rarest wild fowl, are reported on the increase after near extinction.

In 1935 there were some 73 and fear was expressed that trumpeters in the United States the graceful snow-white creature with the melodious call was gone forever. However, in 1952 the Fish and Wildlife Service reported that the numbers of the rare bird had increased to 571.

In the same year the beautiful birds wintered in Victoria waters in the largest number in recent history. At that time Dr. Clifford Carl, curator of the provincial museum, emphasized the survival of the trumpeter was still a touch and go matter, that a sudden change in the narrow pattern of safety they have won could still wipe them out.

Maximum fine under the federal Migratory Game Bird Act for shooting a trumpeter swan is $1,000.

Railmen Awarded Benefits

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's arbitrator in the railway-union contract dispute today awarded non-operating employees an estimated $7,000,000 a year in fringe benefits and simultaneously recommended a federal subsidy for the companies.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia suggested the subsidy to compensate for the low Crow's Nest Pass rates on grain in western Canada, which he held partially responsible for the current "serious decline" in rail revenues.

His contract findings are binding on the disputants, but his subsidy reference has no force beyond that of an opinion. His terms of reference did not specify he was to suggest how the cost of fringe benefits be raised.

Mr. Justice Sloan, appointed by the government to settle contract terms after 145,000 non-operating employees threatened a general strike over their deadlocked dispute, made these awards:

1. Five statutory holidays with pay each year, at an estimated cost of $4,281,000. The unions had asked for eight.

2. Lengthening of annual paid vacations for long-term employees, to cost an estimated $2,650,000.

He granted no award on employee requests for 18-days-a-year sick leave with pay, cumulative from year to year, and for higher overtime pay for Sunday work.

NOT RETROACTIVE

He also denied the unions' request for retroactivity in his findings, declaring them effective from Jan. 1, 1955. The railway union contracts ran out last Dec. 1.

In monetary terms, the arbitrator's award represented but a fraction of the original demands of the non-operating unions. The unions themselves estimated the full annual cost at $34,000,000, while the railways contended they would run to around $60,000,000.

In proposing a subsidy to counteract the sub-normal grain rates, Chief Justice Sloan did not specify any amount.

He said it is his opinion that "some fair share at least of this (grain rates) burden should be shouldered by the people of Canada from the national treasury."

Planners Predict Rapid 25-Year Growth for Victoria District

Greater Victoria can expect its population to be doubled in the next 25 years and at the end of that period the Municipality of Saanich will probably have more residents than the city.

This is the view of J. W. Wilson, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, who recently completed a fact-finding survey of the lower island area for the Capital Region Planning Board. His findings and forecasts of things to come are contained in a 60-page report titled "The Capital Region Takes Stock."

Present population of the capital region, says Mr. Wilson, is around 123,000. In 1981, he predicts, this figure will be up to 206,000.

Victoria, he says, now having 53,500 residents, will have 72,000; Saanich, now with 32,500, will have 74,000; Oak Bay, now with 13,100, will have 19,200; Esquimalt, with 10,600, can expect 14,000. Central Saanich is expected to triple its population, from the present 2,200 to about 7,000.

Unorganized territory, including Sidney, which now has a population of some 11,100, will have about 23,000.

Bulk of new residential development, says Mr. Wilson, will take place in Saanich since other municipalities have only a limited amount of space available.

New Gale Warning

VANCOUVER, (BUP)—Relief was in sight for the rain-sodden British Columbia coast today but a new gale was brewing in north coast waters and shipping was warned to take cover.

One-Third Live in Apartments

Proportion of people living in apartments has been increasing steadily for 30 years, Mr. Wilson notes. In 1921 only 2 per cent of Victoria's families lived in apartments. In 1951, 31 per cent did.

More and more apartments will be built on unused lots and sites where old homes now stand, the planner believes. Apartment growth will cause increased loads on water mains, sewers and drains.

The anticipated growth in population will have to be supported chiefly by what industries already exist, he suggests.

The report shows about 48,000 persons, 39 per cent of the population, gainfully employed in the spring of this year, and focuses attention on the fact that one out of every four was employed by some branch of either federal or provincial governments.

Government work will continue to provide the bulk of the jobs, the report suggests.

"Barring any major changes in administrative policy by either government, the federal and provincial civil service will provide an expanding source of employment," Mr. Wilson maintains.

Tourist trade, long regarded as an industry here, will require special attention if it is to continue its upward trend, he says. Competition is growing in this field and Mexico is pulling many U.S. vacationers away from Canada.

Future of s hipbuilding, Mr. Wilson coneedes, will continue to depend largely on government work and will operate in close association with the naval dockyard.

Agriculture in the region is in "quite a favorable position," according to the report, but other industries can only be expected if some of their special needs can be supplied which other areas cannot satisfy.

Had a nightmare. Dreamt th' city doubled its size.

'Moral Obligation' Company Reminded

While the B.C. Coast service is causing the CPR "a great deal of concern" at present, there is no plan to curtail the Victoria-Vancouver boat service being considered by the company, N. R. Crump, Montreal senior vice-president, said here today.

He made his disclosure at a special meeting of CPR officials and a Victoria Chamber of Commerce committee, perturbed about reports last week that such a move was being considered.

Mr. Crump called it a "misunderstanding," and said what happened was he had said the company was merely looking into operations of the service, "as we do in all operations from time to time."

TO STUDY REPORT

He disclosed that a researcher from Montreal had just completed a two-month survey of the situation, and more information would be available when his report was compiled.

Vice-president William Manson, Vancouver, said there would be no curtailment of the present Victoria-Vancouver service as it exists either now or "next summer."

However, H. C. James, general passenger agent, Vancouver, hinted that the company was anticipating dropping the Sidney-Vancouver run. He indicated "perhaps" there would be a change there.

In presenting the chamber's side of the picture, president Stuart Keate said the company had a "moral obligation" to provide adequate service and that while the population of Greater Victoria had increased to 123,000 persons—more than half the Island's population—"there has been a progressive deterioration in CPR boat service."

LACK OF FORESIGHT

He said the chamber was "surprised" that the company had allowed this and said it resulted, in part, from CPR "lack of imagination, foresight and aggressive business policy."

An entire new approach to the problem was necessary, he said.

"Are we to be written off in favor of the shorter Nanaimo route?" he asked.

Boat service cost today on a coparative basis was $3.25 to $1.00 in 1939, thus there had to be "a different conception entirely" from pre-war service, said Mr. Crump.

While Alderman Arthur Dowell said the city had given "tremendous concession" over the years to the CPR, Mr. Crump said BCCS employees spent $2,500,000 yearly in wages and supplies here.

The chamber also brought up its recommendation that a fast ferry service be started from the Saanich peninsula to Vancouver. Mr. James pointed out that this was not feasible, because it would interfere with the company's triangle run which "is much more important. No company could afford the two routes, nor could they compete."

3 Fatal B.C. Accidents

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Three fatal accidents were recorded in British Columbia during the week-end, including two traffic fatalities and a drowning.

The deaths of Richard Kitta, 92, and Peter Zacher, 28, brought Vancouver's traffic toll for the year to 25.

Kitta was found dead on arrival at hospital in Vancouver Saturday night after being struck by a car driven by Russell A. Campbell, 22.

Zacher died in the St. Paul's Hospital of injuries received Friday when the motorcycle he was riding struck a tree at the entrance to Stanley Park and spun out of control.

John Couch, 40, of Harrison Mills, drowned Sunday in the Harrison River.

CNR Derailment at Cox

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian National Railways passenger train locomotive was derailed at Cox, B.C., 45 miles east of here, late Sunday night, causing delays of about two hours. No one was injured.

VISHINSKY DEAD OF HEART ATTACK

The Soviet deputy foreign minister, Moscow's chief delegate to the United Nations, would have been 71 years old Dec. 10.

Eelco Van Kleffens of the Netherlands, president of the United Nations, announced the diplomat died of a heart attack. In bad health for several years, Vishinsky remained in the thick of diplomatic storms here to the end.

All UN meetings were suspended for the day.

Vishinsky collapsed and died early this morning at Soviet delegation headquarters on Park Ave.

First word that Vishinsky was ill came with an announcement to the political committee by A. A. Sobolev of the Soviet delegation that the Soviet delegate was indisposed. Then came the news of the death.
